STATE TO FORCE MILK DISPUTE INTO COURTS

CITY SUPPLY STILL DROPS

Farmers Continue Raids on Nonmembers of League, but Pay for Milk Dumped Out.

DEALERS ASSAIL DILLON

Health Department Refuses to Permit the Sale of Unpasteurized Milk.

New York City received only about 60 per cent. of its usual daily supply of 2,400,000 quarts of milk yesterday, with the prospect that this quantity would be further reduced today by one-third to one-half. Men in touch with the milk market based this estimate on reports from milk-producing centres which told of the increasing strength of the Dairymen's League, the organization of farmers who have created the situation in this city by declining to sell their product to the big distributers except through the medium of their league.

Clifford E. Hough of Washington, Conn., a Director of the league, said yesterday that the fight between the dairymen and the distributers had brought new members to the league in "droves," and at present the league controlled about 300,000 cows. It is estimated that under normal conditions New York derives its daily milk supply from about 350,000 cows.

Officials of the larger companies here asserted that they could meet the emergency, in part at least, by diverting to the retail trade in this city all the milk and cream ordinarily used for the manufacture of butter, cheese, and condensed and evaporated milk.

The shortage of milk is admittedly so acute, however, that Attorney General Egburt E. Woodbury announced in Albany yesterday that he would commence at once a thorough inquiry into the situation. He named Deputy Attorney General Merton E. Lewis, who was counsel to the Thompson Legislative Investigating Committee, to conduct this inquiry and promised to apply at once to the courts for the appointment of a referee to take testimony.

Complaints From Both Sides.

Mr. Woodbury said his investigation had been determined on not only because he realized something must be done to prevent a milk famine in New York, but because he had received many complaints, both from producers and distributors, each side contending that the other had violated the so-called Donnelly Anti-Trust act by conspiring in restraint of trade. His purpose, he said, was as much to apply a remedy as to determine the cause of existing conditions.

The Attorney General had nothing to say as to the merits of the case on either side, but Governor Whitman, who was here yesterday, said he thought the farmers were entitled to higher rates than they had been receiving for milk.

Mayor Mitchel said he had made no investigation of the dispute, and as yet had not interested himself officially. So far Dr. Haven Emerson, Commissioner of Health, has represented the city in the situation. He held a conference in his office yesterday to which he had invited representatives of the Dairymen's League and of the principal milk distributing companies. His purpose was to find some means by which the city's usual supply of milk might be obtained, but at the outset he announced that under no conditions would he consent to any lowering of the standard of quality fixed by his department. In effect he insisted:

"No matter how much or how little milk we get it must conform to the quality standard fixed by this department."

Must Pasteurize All Milk.

Dr. Emerson said that all milk must be pasteurized and inspected before it could be put on sale, and declined to consider the Dairymen's League, which asserts that it can provide a normal supply of milk to this city immediately if it be permitted to ship so-called "raw" or unpasteurized milk. The league points out that most of the pasteurization plants are in the hands of the big distributors, so that milk must be thrown away now which otherwise might be delivered in New York. Dr. Emerson declared, however, that the danger of typhoid or other disease was entirely too great to allow of the introduction here of "raw" milk.

His conference, therefore, was productive of little more than a squabble among J. J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Food and Markets, and representatives of the distributors. Mr. Dillon was the only representative of the league to attend the meeting, and he found himself facing some forty distributors. He was talking to reporters after the meeting when a man who said he was Meyer Uhlman, a milk dealer, exclaimed:

"You are backing this league so that you can get one cent commission on each one hundred pounds of milk shipped."

"It's a lie, and you're a liar," answered Mr. Dillon promptly.

"If you weren't so old I'd knock you down," declared Uhlman. Others declared the Commissioner was trying to grab the milk business for a few friends, and Mr. Dillon left while the distributors were still storming.

Discussion of the situation showed that smaller dealers might find themselves entirely without milk today, though H. N. Hallock, Vice President of the Borden Condensed Milk Company,

TO LAY CHINA'S RAILS ON PERCENTAGE BASIS

Details of the new American $60,000,000 deal for railroad construction in China, arranged with a view to increasing the republic's total railroad mileage by 50 per cent., were made public yesterday.

Under the terms of the contract the Siems-Carey Railway & Canal Company, which is jointly owned by the American International Corporation and Messrs. Siems and Carey of St. Paul will construct 1,100 miles of railroad for the Chinese Government. The American International Corporation has already advanced $500,000 in cash to cover the cost of an investigation and preliminary surveys, and will accept Chinese Government bonds in return for funds to be advanced later for the actual construction costs.

This is said to be the first time that the Chinese have gone into construction work on a contract basis, which limits the total cost of work undertaken. The rail lines will be built by the contractors on a percentage basis, doing away with the graft which has prevailed in many Chinese undertakings.

The lines to be built have not yet been decided upon, and it will probably be a full year before actual work is started. They will be located by an American chief engineer, who will be employed by the Chinese Government upon the recommendation of the American International Corporation. In addition to surveying and locating the lines the engineer will superintend construction work and will later act as chief engineer of the properties. The Chinese have agreed, further, to appoint an American auditor, to act during construction and afterward when the lines are put into operation. They will also have an American traffic manager.

AGAIN THE BREMEN IS REPORTED CAUGHT

Confirmation of News of Capture Received—Also Tale of Two Seized Bremens.

Information was received in New York yesterday confirming the report of the capture of the German commercial submarine Bremen by the English. The information came from a source entirely independent of that from which Washington, last Saturday, got news of the taking of the Bremen.

It was said also that Washington was in possession of semi-official reports from both England and Germany to the effect that the submersible trader was in British hands.

The report of the capture of the Bremen reached THE TIMES yesterday from a person who has reliable sources of information in Germany. It contained no details of when, where or how the submarine had been seized, or where she was being held.

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 2.—That two German merchant submarines named Bremen have fallen into the hands of the Entente Allies and that a third bearing the same name is now en route to the United States is the report brought here by Captain H. Vanschoonbeck of the Belgian steamer Elizabeth Van Belgie, which arrived today from Barry.

Captain Vanschoonbeck declared one of the submarines was captured by the British and the other by the French. He said he learned this from good authority in France, but he declined to name the port to which the captured ships were taken.

SENATOR SPOONER'S SON CANES TAXI CHAUFFEUR

Taken to Cell After Resenting Insult and Magistrate Frees Him.

Philip Spooner, son of John C. Spooner, who was for fifteen years a United States Senator from Wisconsin, was arrested and taken before Magistrate Nolan in the Men's Night Court last night on the complaint of Joseph Gottlieb, a taxicab chauffeur. Before the hearing he spent about a quarter of an hour in a cell.

The chauffeur complained that young Mr. Spooner had given him a severe beating with his walking stick in front of the Knickerbocker Hotel early last evening after an altercation between the two regarding automobile space at the curb in front of the Rialto Theatre, at Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue. Ex-Senator Spooner, who now makes his home in this city and has an office at 14 Wall Street, was present in the Night Court as a witness for his son.

Mr. Spooner admitted that he had used his walking stick on the chauffeur, but pleaded provocation and was acquitted by the Magistrate. His father and mother were with him, Mr. Spooner said, and he wanted to drive up in front of the Rialto. He said that Gottlieb's empty taxicab was in the way and the Spooners' colored chauffeur asked the taxicab man to move forward, which he refused to do.

Gottlieb made some insulting remarks, Mr. Spooner said, and was warned that if he drove any closer to the Spooner car he would be caned. The chauffeur drove closer, anyhow, Mr. Spooner said, until it appeared that the two motors were likely to collide. It was then that he leaned out of his car and applied his cane to the shoulders of the chauffeur.

"It was a right interesting experience to see the inside of the cell," Mr. Spooner said after he reached his home. "I sang 'Mother Machree' to the other prisoners to see if the incident had affected my voice. It hadn't."

Young Spooner is 24 years old.

SEABURY ATTACKS PERKINS, MILLER

Accepts Nomination and Promises to Unveil a "Political Rogues Gallery."

RECALLS INSURANCE INQUIRY

Assails Former Associate on Bench Who Presided Over Republican Convention.

PLEDGES ALBANY REFORM

State Committee Adopts Tammany Resolution Lauding Wilson and Names Electors.

Ex-Judge Samuel Seabury, Democratic nominee for Governor, in his speech of acceptance, made at a meeting of the Democratic State Committee in the Hotel Knickerbocker yesterday, told his audience that in the course of his campaign he expected to "unveil a political Rogues' Gallery."

Judge Seabury, continuing the simile, went on to picture as in this gallery his former associate on the Court of Appeals bench, Nathan L. Miller, who presided at the recent Republican Conference in Saratoga, and George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Progressive National Committee.

A resolution indorsing the Administration of President Wilson and pledging the support of the Democratic organization in this State to his re-election was offered by Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, and adopted unanimously amid acclaim.

Presidential Electors were chosen, headed by Samuel Untermyer and Joseph J. Murphy, the Democratic leader of Rensselaer as Electors at Large.

Tammany Praises Wilson.

The significant fact that Secretary Smith of Tammany Hall offered the Wilson resolution was not lost on the meeting. It was thoroughly understood that this was with a view to allaying recent rumors, reflecting on the loyalty of Tammany in particular and the "Old Guard" in the Democratic organization in general. Secretary Smith, instead of sending his resolution to the platform, read it himself, accentuating every eulogistic phrase. Here is the resolution:

> We urge the re-election of President Wilson and a Democratic Congress. The country needs four years more of Woodrow Wilson. By his diplomacy he kept the nation out of war. By his masterful handling of the railroad crisis he averted industrial chaos and established the principle of the eight-hour day. By the provisions of the Federal Reserve act, enacted under his leadership by a Democratic Congress, he divested the money kings of the power to produce panics. By his championship of the child labor law he gave proof afresh that he values the man above the dollar—the conservation of childhood more than the doubling of dividends. Loyally aided by the Democrats in Senate and House, President Wilson has made his administration a synonym for peace, prosperity, and progress.

Attacks ex-Judge N. A. Miller.

The "Rogues' Gallery" portion of Mr. Seabury's speech followed a spirited attack on the Whitman administration, at whose doors he laid the blame for the direct tax, the imposition of which he declared unnecessary and inexcusable. He said:

> The organization of the Republican Party, as it exists at present, is in the interests of the privileged classes. Its true character was revealed in its recent convention at Saratoga. The reactional elements of the party were in complete control. A few Bull Moose that had returned to captivity—dehorned—were exhibited, but they lacked their old-time spirit. They seemed conscious of the fact that George W. Perkins had assassinated their party and was determined to deliver the corpse to a Republican undertaker. The Progressives who were permitted to be present behaved with becoming modesty.' They did not sing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," but pledged themselves to follow the Republican Old Guard in the hope of decoying other Progressives of the State into the trap in which they had been caught. The platform adopted does not champion a single Progressive measure.
>
> The convention was presided over by one who has long worn the livery of privilege. He has recently resigned from the bench and is now the attorney for special privilege interests. It was fitting that he should have been selected as the presiding officer of the convention. One of the last acts that he performed as a Judge of the Court of Appeals was to write a dissenting opinion protesting against the decision which allowed his clients to get a large amount of public money upon a very flimsy pretext. Those interested in the subject will find the facts stated in Van Antwerp vs. Hoffman, 218 N. Y. Reports.
>
> Promises Big "Rogues' Gallery."
>
> I have drawn this brief sketch of the Chairman of the Republican Convention because I think that you should understand the character of the opposition which we may expect in this campaign. The picture which I have just unveiled is only one of many which it will be my duty to uncover in the course of the campaign. Before the campaign is over we may have quite an interesting gallery to disclose. I do not exhibit his portrait in any desire to indulge in personal attack. It is necessary that the people should see the true character of the opposition which we will encounter. The people can best estimate the issues by understanding the character of the men who present them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—In a long article in the Tageblatt Dr. Dernberg explains that President Wilson stands for America, as it is his duty to do. Any statesman, he says, who did not cater exclusively to the interests of his own country would deserve contempt and political annihilation. Statesmen like President Wilson, he continues, consider it their chief duty to serve the present and future prestige of the United States, increase their influence on the Western Continent and the adjacent seas, and seek for the world's peace, which would make possible the exploitation of the yet largely dormant economical forces of that vast country.

This policy, doubtless very popular in America, he says, has in some cases very unfavorably affected German interests, but that must not veil German eyes to American necessities if Germany wishes America to understand her own particular requirements.

Dr. Dernburg continues explaining how when, two years ago, he went to America he was astonished at the prevailing anti-Germanism, but now he has since discovered that it was only natural in view of the Entente's press campaign and the fact that many things European look quite different when seen from the other side of the Atlantic. He thinks, however, that time, a better understanding and the developments of the war have taken the edge off the unsympathetic American attitude. Such a process necessarily being slower in a country where the facts must soak through the masses of the people before a change of opinion is brought about than in countries where the leading men are not entirely dependent upon public opinion. Thus he believes that America's views of the war are still in process of formation.

His article concludes with the expression of the hope that America will take a more reasonable view should Germany be compelled again to renew ruthless submarine war in order to force England to make peace. He says it was largely to please America that this form of warfare was renounced, with certain reservations, but there are signs that the domineering English attitude toward all neutrals has gradually changed America's views in this respect.

MOBS AGAIN ATTACK WESTCHESTER CARS

FIGHT ON 15-DAY LAW TODAY

Westchester County, which saw the carmen's union launch the campaign that carried the traction war into Manhattan, and which has again become the principal battleground of the strikers, witnessed additional disorders yesterday when the Westchester Electric Railway Company and the Yonkers Railroad Company persisted in their efforts to run trolley cars.

The union won what its members considered a victory by compelling the Yonkers Company to discontinue its service, but failed to stop trolley cars in Mount Vernon. Mayor Fiske of Mount Vernon again announced that he was determined to protect motormen and conductors who desired to work and that he would call on the militia, if need be, to preserve order. An important test of the strength of the union in Mount Vernon will be made at 10 o'clock this morning, when a resolution will be introduced in the Common Council asking the repeal of the ordinance requiring service employes to have fifteen days' experience before attempting to operate street cars.

Meanwhile residents of Yonkers will continue to walk. The determination by the Yonkers Company to discontinue service indefinitely was reached after one of its cars had all but been reduced to splinters by missiles hurled by rioters. This did not cause as much discouragement among the officials of the traction company as members of the union may have imagined.

The Yonkers Railroad Company has already announced that it could not run its cars while the fifteen-day efficiency ordinance was in effect. An agitation had been started to compel the company to run its cars, and this was followed by a taxpayers' suit in which David Arbiter applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of peremptory mandamus ordering the traction companies to restore service. This writ was denied by Justice Tompkins yesterday, but while the outcome was in doubt the company had determined to demonstrate to the people that its claim of not being able to operate cars had not been made in bad faith.

The company had ten men on hand, formerly employed as starters, who had had more than the fifteen-days experience as platform men required by the ordinance. These were willing to attempt the experiment of taking out cars. Yesterday two cars went out, and failed to finish their runs.

Five cars were run in Mount Vernon yesterday, despite repeated attacks made upon them by strike sympathizers. Several men who were alleged to have taken part in these attacks were arrested.

In New Rochelle, which, like Mount Vernon and Yonkers, has a fifteen-day efficiency ordinance, no effort was made yesterday to run cars.

POLICE OFF TRAINS TODAY.

Department Decides Subway Cars Don't Need Protection.

The police are so well satisfied that the transit strike is practically over, so far as the subway is concerned, that the department decided last night to withdraw all patrolmen from strike duty on underground trains at 8 o'clock this morning.

A uniformed man will be kept on each station platform for a few days more, but if expectations that no violence will occur are fulfilled, they, too, will be withdrawn. It is expected that similar action will be taken with regard to the elevated as soon as success meets the efforts of the police to find and rout small gangs who have bombarded the exposed trains from rooftops in the darkness.

Further evidence that the department believes the strike is on the rapid wane was contained in an announcement that hereafter only one policeman would be assigned to each surface car instead of two as heretofore. Emergency stations for mounted policemen, established when it was feared the general sympathy strike would materialize, were discontinued, too, yesterday.

The police announcement and the positive assurance by Mr. Shonts that all night service on the surface lines of the New York Railways Company would be resumed by the end of this week, indicated that both police and traction officials now felt that they had the situation well in hand. The fact that only 408 persons are now out on strike in "sympathy" with the carmen's union convinced them, also, that the city had nothing more to fear from a general walkout.

The labor leaders at their meeting yesterday devoted their efforts to schemes for raising money to aid the strikers and to hold mass meetings to stir up sympathy for the street car workers. A house to house canvass in behalf of the strikers was considered. At the meeting of the committee of thirty-five yesterday at Beethoven Hall, 210 Fifth Street, the committee was empowered to collect an assessment of $1 each from 300,000 trade unionists in the city.

Committees of the street car workers' unions were paying out $5 apiece yesterday to the strikers from the $55,000 fund which was received last week from the union. Interborough employes were paid at Lyceum Hall, Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street; the Second Avenue organization at Mozart Hall, 328 East Eighty-sixth Street, and the Union Railroad employes at Washington Hall, 495 East 165th Street.

NO FORD CASH FOR WILSON CAMPAIGN

Not Even Peace Will Induce Auto Manufacturer to Contribute.

LONG TALK WITH PRESIDENT

Latter Decides to Add Speech at Cincinnati on Oct. 26 to His List for the Middle West.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 2.—Although Henry Ford believes implicitly that the nation's welfare demands the re-election of President Wilson, he does not expect to contribute to the President's campaign fund, he said this afternoon. Mr. Ford, who has been a lifelong Republican, came to Shadow Lawn for luncheon, and remained for a three-hour conference with the President.

He refused to say what he and Mr. Wilson discussed but, in reply to a question, he said that he did not feel justified in giving financial support to the campaign because he believed the office should seek the man, not the man the office. In the present campaign, he declared, he was firmly convinced that the President's candidacy was the result of a deep nation-wide demand for his return to office and he believed the sanity of the nation would elect him by a large majority.

Mr. Ford reiterated his idea, expressed in a statement issued some weeks ago, that the main issue in the campaign was the nation's continuance in its present state of peace. He declared that this was due to President Wilson's wise leadership through countless difficulties, and he praised the Administration's legislative record, attributing a large part of its value to the President's statesmanship.

It was recalled to the auto manufacturer that the President's speech last Saturday had charged that the election of Mr. Hughes might mean the embroilment of the United States in the European war and in Mexico, and he was asked once more if that consideration might not lead him to spend a large sum of money in aiding the President's re-election. He clung to his denial, however.

Asked if he expected to head any political organization to work for the President's election, Mr. Ford replied that it had always been his custom to refrain from active participation in political propaganda of all kinds, and he would not depart from it now.

"I am for the President," he said. "I have said so, and have stated my reason. That is my only part in the fight."

Chairman Vance McCormick, who came to Shadow Lawn this evening, announced before leaving that the President had decided to increase the number of his speeches in the Middle West by making an address in Cincinnati on Oct. 26. He will be the guest of the City Club while there.

President Wilson will leave for Omaha tomorrow night at 7:25 o'clock. He discussed with Mr. McCormick tonight the character of the speech which he will deliver there on Thursday. It will be nonpolitical in its general character, but according to Democratic leaders here it will undoubtedly contain marked political implications.

The complete list of speeches to be made by President Wilson during the campaign is as follows:

Omaha, Oct. 5; Shadow Lawn, Oct. 7; Indianapolis, Oct. 12; Pennsylvania Day at Shadow Lawn; Oct. 14; St. Louis and Ohio Day at Shadow Lawn, Oct. 17; Chicago, Oct. 19; Farmers' Day at Shadow Lawn, Oct. 21, and Cincinnati, Oct. 26. In addition to these speaking engagements, the President will deliver an address at Shadow Lawn on Oct. 28, and will pay two visits to New York State on dates not yet selected. National Chairman McCormick said tonight that this program will carry the President up to Election Day, and that few, if any, additions will be made.

MR. FORD SEES VICTORY.

Nation Will Be Surprised, He Says, at Independent Vote for President.

Henry Ford, who took luncheon with President Wilson at Shadow Lawn yesterday, gave out a signed statement upon his return to New York last night in which he said:

"I believe that President Wilson has solidified the independent vote of the country in his support as a result of the remarkable speech which he delivered on Saturday. It was a trenchant rallying cry to the men of conscience who are going to put aside party ties and vote their own convictions on election day. The nation will be surprised by the number of these independents.

"I want to see the day come in American politics when there will be something like intellectual honesty on both sides of national campaigns. However widely some men may disagree with some of the things that Mr. Wilson and his Administration have done, no man who is both just and intelligent can fail to find in the long list of Wilson's achievements something of which the conscience approves. It is revolting to observe the leadership of a once great party contending that everything that the President has done was poorly done and wrongly done. That is demagogy.

"It would greatly strengthen the opposition to Mr. Wilson were its leaders to concede that the President has done many things of a high type of statesmanship, and to base their indictment of him upon the few issues on which they might hope to arouse public opinion.

"One other thing I wish to emphasize. It is the quality of workmanship that may be expected from Mr. Wilson and his party colleagues in Congress in the next four years, when quick decisions must be made and sure hands will be needed. Their hands have been trained in the efficient school of experience, and even if the opposition offered men of as high a character as Mr. Wilson's own, the American people would act unwisely in swapping experienced public servants for less experienced ones."

WANTS OUR AID FOR WORLD PEACE

Lord Bryce Hints That Britain Favors American Plan to Avoid Future Wars.

CAN'T SUCCEED WITHOUT US

Ex-Ambassador Says Co-operation of United States Is Necessary for Success.

OUR ATTITUDE EXPLAINED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Viscount Bryce contributes a notable article entitled "The United States During and After the War," to a special American number which The Manchester Guardian will issue tomorrow.

"Is there anything further that the friends of justice and humanity in Europe can expect from beyond the Atlantic since it is now not likely that the armed aid which would do so much to shorten the war will be forthcoming?"

Lord Bryce asks and answers the question with the following important statement: "Many of us here in Great Britain have been anxiously considering what can be done after the war to prevent a recurrence of such suffering and calamities as we have been witnessing. There are those among us who have framed schemes for the creation of some international machinery for that purpose, some league of peace-loving nations to secure an amicable settlement of disputes and restrain any power which may hereafter be impelled by passion or selfishness to attack its neighbors. We have thought it best not to give publicity to these schemes so long as the national mind is so much absorbed with the conduct of the war as to be unable to give due consideration to them. Now, however, when victory seems to be coming into sight and when we know that both we and our allies are absolutely united in our resolve to prosecute it until that victory is complete, the reasons for reserve may soon disappear."

"In America where those reasons do not exist," adds Viscount Bryce, "much has already been done." And he proceeds with the details of the league of which ex-President Taft is President, and "which formulated a plan for the establishment of such permanent international machinery as I mentioned, and which proposes that the United States should render to this worthy cause the immense service of taking part in the scheme."

Cites Speeches of Candidates.

After stating that "the difficulty in the way of such American participation has of course hitherto lain in the policy of complete isolation from Old World affairs, which the United States hitherto followed," Lord Bryce says: "But now two events of capital significance have happened." And he cites President Wilson's speech at the meeting of the League to Enforce Peace on May 28, and Charles E. Hughes's speech accepting the Republican nomination on July 31, wherein he said:

"There is no national isolation in the world of the twentieth century. If at the close of the present war the nations are ready to undertake practicable measures of common interest in order to secure international justice we cannot fail to recognize our international duty."

Then Lord Bryce continues:

"No words are needed to emphasize the significance of these declarations from the standard bearers of the two great American parties. The creation of some international alliance embracing all peace-loving nations could hardly succeed without the co-operation of the greatest of all neutral nations. With that co-operation, difficult as the effort to construct such a scheme will be, there is at least a real hope of success. Largely in vain will this war have been fought and all these sufferings endured if the peoples of the world are to fall back into a state of permanent alarm, suspicion, and the hospitality of each would be weighed down by the frightful burden of armaments. Let us hope that the proffered help of America will encourage the statesmen of Europe and draw from them a responsive note."

In a dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES on Aug. 23 Premier Asquith's significant though veiled reference in his speech on the second anniversary of the war to the possible co-operation of the United States in safeguarding the future peace of the world, was noted, and the suggestion was made that a policy which might influence the whole course of world politics was silently taking place. Lord Bryce's statement indicates that much has already been accomplished along this line. He speaks with reserve, but it is certain that in view of his special, not to say unique, position in the national councils of Great Britain, particularly in relation to America, he would have said nothing at all had he not full assurance. Events may show Great Britain's former Ambassador at Washington to have been the unofficial protagonist of the British policy of active co-operation with the United States in securing the peace of the world.

Favors Our Peace League.

CABINET OF GREECE SAID TO HAVE QUIT

King and Entente Reaching Agreement, Athens Hears—Reservist Leagues Causing Trouble.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The resignation of the Greek Cabinet is reported in a Central News dispatch from Athens.

ATHENS, Oct. 1, (via London, Oct. 2.)—The negotiations between Greece and the Entente Powers are believed in circles close to King Constantine to be nearing completion, and it is even asserted in some quarters that a military accord has been already secretly reached, but is being kept secret pending the arrangement of details, as in the case of Rumania.

Reservist League Disturbances.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Oct. 1, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.) — The anarchistic leagues of reservists continue to disturb public order in various parts of Greece. Late last night, after an enthusiastic reception had been accorded to M. Guillemin, the French Minister, at one of the city theatres, reservists gathered and paraded the street shouting their usual cries. Two pickets on the spot did little or nothing by way of restoring order. One daring person, who shouted "Long live Venizelos!" was very severely mauled.

At the Convent of the Ascension at Pancrati, on the outskirts of Athens, about 100 reservists entered and, after maltreating the archimandrite's servant, searched the building for arms, turning everything upside down. In the process all they found was a useless blunderbuss.

It is reported that General Callaris, Minister of War in the Zaimis Cabinet, has left to join the national defense movement.

THREE NORWEGIAN SHIPS SUNK IN THE ARCTIC

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 2, (via London.)—A German submarine has made its way into the Arctic Ocean and has torpedoed three Norwegian steamships there. The vessels torpedoed were the Sinsen, Ravn, and Rolf Jarl. The crews were saved.

Steamship traffic over the regular route covering the northern Norwegian towns has been stopped. Since August the Germans have sunk Norwegian boats valued at $9,000,000.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The steamers Hafnia and Hekla, both Norwegian, have been sunk by a German submarine, according to a Reuter disptach from Vadsoe, Norway. The crews were landed in their own boats, which were towed by the submarine.

The Sinsen's gross tonnage was 1,925 and that of the Rolf Jarl 1,265. There are listed three Norwegian steamships, named Ravn, all of them under 1,300 tons.

The purpose of the German submarine operations probably is to interfere with the transportation of war materials to Russia by way of the White Sea ports.

JOFFRE PRAISES ARMY FOR VICTORIOUS DEEDS

Cites the Relief of Verdun and Somme Advance, and Predicts More Triumphs.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—General Joffre has sent this order of the day to Armies of the North, under date of Friday:

"The General Commander in Chief expresses great satisfaction to the troops who have been fighting unceasingly on the Somme for nearly three months. By their valor and perseverance they have given blows to the enemy from which he has difficulty in recovering.

"Verdun relieved, twenty-five villages reconquered, more than 35,000 prisoners and 150 cannon taken, successive enemy lines broken through for a depth of ten kilometers—such are the results already obtained.

"In continuing the contest with the same tenacious will, in redoubling their ardor, in union with our brave allies, the valiant Armies of the Somme will be assured of a glorious part in the decisive victory."

RUSH GERMAN SAILORS TO THE SOMME FRONT

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, Oct. 2.—The British forces on this front were surprised to find among the prisoners taken last night sailors from the Second German Naval Division, which had been rushed to the Somme front. These sailors were employed for the first time outside of Belgium, where they had been kept for two years with their naval guns, which guard the coast.

As fresh troops are taking the places of the battered and exhausted regiments thrown into the mêlée, ferocious fighting at close quarters is developing near the Schwaben Redoubt and along the neighboring old first-line trenches. The Germans are desperately trying to hold these, following their loss of Thiepval, to prevent the right flank of their battlefront being forced across the River Ancre.

GERARD COMING TO REST.

Embassy Denies That Trip Has Anything to Do with Politics.

BERNE, Oct. 2, (via Paris.)—In reply to an inquiry from a Swiss news agency, Joseph C. Grew, American Chargé d'Affaires at Berlin, telegraphed today that rumors to the effect that Ambassador Gerard's visit to America was connected with the Presidential election were unfounded.

Mr. Gerard had no purpose in view, Mr. Grew said, other than to improve the opportunity to take a vacation for the first time in three years.

RUMANIANS FLANK MACKENSEN BY CROSSING DANUBE

DRIVE BEGUN IN DOBRUDJA

BATTLES RAGE IN NORTH

Rumanians in Transylvania Gain Ground on Both Sides of Great Kukel River.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Rumanian troops crossing the Danube and invading Bulgaria between the fortress of Rustchuk and Tutrakan, have flanked Field Marshal Mackensen's army. Simultaneously with the landing of this force, the strength of which is not divulged in official dispatches from Bucharest and Berlin, announcing this feat, the Russo-Rumanian army strentched across Dobrudja attacked their Bulgar-Turk-German foes along the whole line. Tutrakan, which was recently captured by Mackensen, is situated where the river leaves Bulgarian territory and flows northeast through Rumania.

The morning newspapers hail the manoeuvre as a dramatic counterstroke against the Bulgarians for the defeat the Rumanians suffered at Hermannstadt.

The Times says it hopes Rumanians did not cross with small forces, "because the river is wide and the southern bank higher than the northern, so that all disadvantages of position are against the Rumanians. In any case, the crossing threatens the rear of Field Marshal von Mackensen's force in Dobrudja."

> On the north and northwestern fronts fighting continues. In the mountains at Ghurgiil and Ierghitzel we captured four machine guns and made prisoners of 11 officers and 500 men.
>
>

Berlin admits that in Transylvania the Rumanians have gained ground on both sides of the Great Kukel River, north of Fagaras. Teutonic troops, the official statement adds, have gained successes in the Strehl Valley, also in Transylvania. The statement follows:

> Transylvania Theatre: On both sides of the Great Kukel River the Rumanians have won ground. Near and north of Orsova (on the Danube) successful attacks have been made by our allies. In the Hatzeg Mountains enemy attacks on both sides of the Strehl (Sztrigy) Valley were repulsed. Oborоca height was taken by Austro-Hungarian troops.
>
> Army Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: South of Bucharest enemy troops have gained a footing on the right bank of the Danube. Southwest of Toprai Sari (Dobrudja) enemy attacks were repulsed.

SOFIA, Oct. 2, (via London.)—Army Headquarters today gave out the following bulletin:

> Rumanian Front: The situation is unchanged and calm. We felled an enemy aeroplane in the environs of the village Reybouner, in the Koutbounor region. Both men in the machine were saved.

VIENNA, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The official communication from General Headquarters, issued today, reads:

> Rumanian Front: In the Orsova sector we captured some heights, and west of Petroseny seized Mount Oborоca. Rumanian counterattacks were repulsed. On the Great Kukel River our advanced posts were obliged to retire to Kokoli.

SERBIANS ADVANCE FROM KAIMAKCALAN

Bulgars Drive at Positions Lost to British, But Fail and Retreat Out of Sight.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—All attempts by the Bulgarians to check the advance of the allied forces on the Macedonian front have failed utterly. The Serbians lost no time in following up their decisive victory on Kaimakcalan and have occupied the village of Kotchovie, a mile and a quarter to the north of that height. Desperate attempts to recapture the two villages stormed by the British on the left bank of the Struma collapsed under the fire which met them and tore their ranks to pieces.

Following is the account of the latest fighting issued by the Paris War Office today:

> On the left bank of the Struma the British repulsed several counterattacks delivered by the Bulgarians against the new positions captured by our allies on Sept. 30. Swept by a curtain of fire and by machine guns, the waves of the enemy's assaulting columns scattered and many bodies remain on the field.
>
> East of the Cerna the Serbians, pursuing the advantage gained yesterday, advanced two kilometers to the north of Kaimakcalan. In addition to a battery taken by the Serbians, two French guns which were lost during the violent Bulgarian counterattacks on Sept. 28 and 29 were retaken. Fifty additional prisoners were captured by the Serbians in this region.

On our left wing there has been an intermittent cannonade, without any infantry action. Fog prevailing on this portion of the front interfered with operations.

The British official communication today reads:

The portions of the Bulgarian line on the Struma front which we captured on Sept. 30 include the villages of Kara Zakoibala and Kara Zakoizlr. Repeated enemy counterattacks against these places were entirely unsuccessful and were beaten off with heavy loss. All the ground won has now been consolidated. There is no sign of the enemy for some distance in front of our trenches.

In addition to the heavy casualties inflicted on the enemy, the number of prisoners taken has been increased to 230. Our casualties were comparatively small. Three machine guns were captured.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The following official report on the Macedonian campaign was given out here today:

Stubborn fighting continues on the Kaimakcalan Height. Northwest of Tahinos Lake British detachments which had penetrated as far as the eastern bank of the Struma were attacked.

SOFIA, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The War Office today issued the following official communication:

Sunday, west and east of Florina, our infantry repulsed enemy attacks north of the village of Armensoo, near the village of Krushegrad and in the region of the village of Sevitch. Stern fighting is proceeding for possession of the height of Kaimakcalan.

In the Moglena Valley there is lively artillery fighting. Enemy attacks against the Outkasch height failed completely.

On the Struma front there has been lively artillery fighting under cover of which enemy battalions advanced toward the villages of Kandjakeuy and Komarian. They were arrested by our fire. The fighting continues.

On the Aegean coast several enemy warships violently shelled the heights north of the village of Orfano. This bombardment set fire to and destroyed the village of Lungor.

SOFIA RAIDERS CAUGHT.

Bulgar Aviators Bring Down French Biplane and Capture Occupants.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Dispatches from Sofia to the Overseas News Agency say that a French biplane on Sept. 30 made a flight over the Bulgarian capital and was immediately attacked by the guns of the fortress there. The hostile aeroplane dropped only one bomb, which fell to the north of the city.

The raider was brought down near Gebian by the Bulgarian aviators and the occupants of the machine, a French pilot and a Serbian observer, both of whom were unhurt, were made prisoners.

SEES TEUTON FORCES NEARING EXHAUSTION

Ashmead Bartlett Says Germans and Austrians Have Only Three Reserve Divisions Each.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 3.—Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, who is now with the French armies, sends a dispatch analyzing Germany's man power. He says:

"Of the 193 infantry divisions composing the present German Army, 117 consist of only three regiments of three battalions each instead of four regiments of three battalions.

"The proof that the Germans have now no strategic reserve is shown by the manner in which divisions are moved from one battlefield to another without rest or reorganization."

Among other instances of this he gives the following:

"The Forty-third reserve division was taken from Verdun on June 10, and on June 24 it was discovered in front of Lusk.

"Of ten divisions taken from the Somme front between Sept. 2 and 9 for a rest, four have already been employed to relieve others in Artois.

"On the occasion of the attack of the Allies on Sept. 12 to 15, a division, already entrained and well on the way to Russia, had to be brought back hastily to the Somme."

The correspondent goes on: "It is perfectly clear from an examination of prisoners, from the reports of deserters, and from identifying the dead on the different fronts that Germany and Austria each has now actually in reserve but three divisions, when, at the commencement of the attack on Verdun, after the concentrating on the Avocourt-Fresnes front of sixteen divisions, the General Staff had still in reserve on the western front eight divisions—four in the north, one in Champagne, and three in the east.

"In regard to their reserves of men, the figures are even more significant. Of the 1916 class it is certain that all have been incorporated in the ranks except the weaklings who have been put back. By July 15 among the fifteen divisions on the Verdun front the average was 25 per cent. of the 1916 class. In ten other divisions the figures reached 50 per cent. on the same date.

"On the Somme front by Aug. 15 the average of the 1916 class was 22 per cent. among thirty-two regiments. Thus it can only be concluded that practically the whole of the 1916 class has been utilized.

"The calling up of the 1917 class commenced in December, 1915. At the present time at least 25 per cent. of this class are incorporated into fighting units and already at the front, whilst the remaining 75 per cent. are in various stages of training behind the lines.

"The calling up of the 1918 class commenced in June and July, 1916, and is being spread over a period of time."

RAIDERS KILLED ONE MAN

Ten Airships Participated, but Only Two Approached London—Berlin Admits Loss of One.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—For the second time within a calendar month people at Potter's Bar have seen a Zeppelin brought down almost at their very doors. Just four weeks ago a German airship came to ruin at Cuffley, which is only about three miles from Potter's Bar. This second visitation, therefore, was not so much a surprise as the first. A man living at Potter's Bar, who watched the coming of the raider from the northeast, gave the following account of its arrival:

"What struck me most about it was the evident uncertainty of the crew as to where they were or where they wanted to go. They stopped; they turned this way and that; they manoeuvred in every direction in order to avoid the searchlights which were darting about all around them—but all to no purpose. The way in which the great beams of light followed the airship in all its desperate efforts to escape was really wonderful.

"A few moments afterward the guns began to shell the Zeppelin. They burst all around it, some of them so near that it seemed as though hits had been scored. Then in a moment a bright light burst out in the body of the airship, and in another moment she was a mass of flames from end to end. She seemed to turn over on her side and then gradually sink to the earth. While coming down she broke in halves and during the descent threw off huge bunches of some flaming material."

"Upended Like a Duck in a Pond."

Another resident of Potter's Bar, who watched the airship through powerful field glasses for eighteen minutes before it fell to the earth, said:

"It was about 11:45 P. M. when I first saw the searchlights pick the raider out. Aeroplanes were humming and climbing in the air, and once I saw them thrown up in sharp relief by the sweeping searchlights. Then a tongue of flame ran along the whole length of the Zeppelin. The raider upended like a duck in a pond. I distinctly saw the engine in the rear gondola come sliding out of its framework, strike against the fore gondola, and fall to the ground.

"The Zeppelin was now a vertical blaze, with a flare of some 200 feet blazing above the extreme limit of the framework. As the airship began to drop she left a fire-trail behind, and I saw the circling aeroplanes silhouetted in the red glare. Her fall, gradual at first, took the form of a series of jerks; but she finished the last 2,000 feet or so quickly, little explosions coming from her all the time. Out of the remaining gondola spurts of flame came, and, with the aid of my glasses, I made out these to be either the falling or jumping shapes of men. For the greater part of her descent the Zeppelin was a vertical cage of flame; but before the climax came she began to split almost amidships."

Fell Into a Big Oak Tree.

The farmer upon whose land the Zeppelin fell said:

"I saw only one bomb drop before the Zeppelin came down, but others were found among the débris. I am told these would burn and not explode. The Zeppelin had broken into two pieces, the larger half hanging over a big oak tree which stood in the middle of the field. I saw some dead bodies lying about. Some of the men had wrapped themselves up in blankets, evidently trying to avoid the flames.

"I had a herd of valuable dairy cows in the field, and these, very much alarmed at the blazing Zeppelin, galloped around the field in terror. One of them seemed determined to rush into the burning mass, and I had some difficulty in keeping her away."

The number of the Zeppelin showed that she was of the latest type.

Crowds Rush to View the Wreck.

The fall of the airship was witnessed from many parts of London, and there was a rush northward to see what was left of it. There was a cheery crowd of early sightseers—girls clad in thick waterproofs on bicycles, old men in dogcarts, merrymakers from the West End of London, and a stream of pedestrians trudging along the dark roads through the dismal early mist; but the crowd was not so big as that which flocked to Cuffley, for many people in London, who, not hearing the sound of the guns, slept through it all, only learned what had happened from the morning papers, and these were saved much disappointment.

Those who made the early journey found on their arrival that the authorities were already in possession of the scene. Organization on this occasion had been splendidly achieved. Within an incredibly short time after the Zeppelin cracked in midair soldiers and policemen were on the spot, and the narrow lane that led to the twenty-acre field from the main road was very carefully guarded by the military. Firemen were putting out the flames and searching for bodies. The disappointed sightseer could not get near, though he could smell the smoldering masses of wood, and he gossiped with those who had seen the ship come down.

So the cars which had rolled along turned back. Some of their occupants got out at a point at which vehicles had to slow up, and in the blackness of the night tried to find little paths leading to the field, but there were no kindly flames to guide them. These adventurers stumbled against hedges, fell into ditches, and after all their long journeying, all that could be seen was a dark blur against the white mist that might have been anything.

Visitors who reached the spot in daylight, when the mist had cleared away, were more fortunate, although only privileged persons were allowed near the wreck, the authorities being anxious to prevent anything approaching a holiday spirit such as prevailed at Cuffley. Moreover, a Zeppelin is too precious a trophy to be collected in fragments by sightseers.

Fourteen Bodies Recovered.

The airship lay in two heaps in the field. There was one huge mass of aluminium and wood, in which could be seen bits of machine guns. About fourteen bodies lay in a barn; there were others to come. Crashing to earth, the Zeppelin brought half the oak tree to the ground with it, and a heap of wreckage had caught on the treetop.

The rain came down steadily, drenching the soldiers on guard, but not scaring away the men and women who were peering over the hedge.

About fifty yards away was another heap of ruins, mostly charred wood. There were remains of a gondola, and the ground was scattered with tiny bits of varnished canvas, singed and tattered.

Few civilians were allowed to have access to the field. The villagers stood outside the hedge, wondering and watching.

Material Damage Reported Small.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Ten Zeppelins took part in last night's raid over England. Two of them attempted to attack London. One of them was driven away, and the other, as was reported last night, was destroyed. One person was killed and one injured. The material damage was small.

Except for part of the envelope, there is left hardly a vestige recognizable as part of the huge airship which was brought down last night near Potter's Bar. The Zeppelin burned more fiercely than the one previously destroyed, which, like her, fortunately fell in an open field.

The members of the crew were incinerated beyond recognition. The bodies were scattered over the field on which the airship alighted, some eighty yards from a farmer's cottage. Evidently the Germans jumped from the gondola as it neared the ground.

The Zeppelin appeared to remain almost stationary in the air for three minutes after the envelope burst into flames. The tongues of fire seemed to lick along the bag until it was ablaze. Even then it dropped so slowly that many persons who had not awakened until the cheering aroused them were able to reach their windows in time to see it fall.

Neither the airship which was destroyed nor the second one which attacked London succeeded in penetrating the outer defenses of the capital. Little or no damage was done by either of them, or by the eight others which operated over eastern counties.

The official report follows:

"Ten airships crossed the east coast last night between 9 o'clock and midnight. One airship approached the north of London at about 10 P. M., but was driven off by gunfire and pursued by aeroplanes. She attempted to return from the northwest, but was attacked by guns and aeroplanes and brought to earth in flames in the neighborhood of Potter's Bar shortly before midnight.

"A second airship attempted to attack London from the northeast and was driven off. Bombs were dropped.

"The remaining airships wandered aimlessly over the eastern counties. In Lincolnshire bombs were dropped promiscuously. Most of them appear to have been dropped in open country without doing damage.

"The airship destroyed was of the latest type.

"Police reports show that the total casualties in last night's raid were one man killed and one woman injured. The material damage was insignificant, although the raiders covered a wide area and dropped a great number of bombs. Four houses were seriously damaged. Some glass houses were demolished and a number of windows were broken."

Friends of Count Zeppelin were alarmed when they learned that another airship had been brought down in England last night, says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company. The Count intended to take part in the raid, the correspondent cables, but a message sent to Germany elicited the information that at the last moment, owing to the persuasion of his family, he decided not to join the raiders.

Berlin Admits the Loss.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (via London.)—With reference to the air raid on London and the east coast of England the following brief official statement was issued this afternoon:

"During Sunday night several naval airships successfully threw bombs on London and military works on the Humber. Despite the heavy firing by anti-aircraft guns all the airships returned except one which was hit and set afire by anti-aircraft guns and fell near London."

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The most interesting news from the war areas is the crossing of the Danube River by the Rumanians in the vicinity of Tutrakan. This movement, which is admitted by Berlin, has a most important bearing on the fighting in Dobrudja, and may well be the turning point in the battle which has been raging there for several days.

In order that the true nature of the Dobrudja fighting may be understood it may be well to look into the general phases of the fighting in this remote region. It is difficult to follow the war closely, checking up each move as it is made from the maps and recording all the minor advances, without exposing ourselves to the danger of losing the sense of proportion, and thereby acquiring a tendency to miss the larger aspects of a given campaign by regarding each move alone rather than as a part of something much bigger. This condition has been brought about largely by the situation on the western front, where for many months we have seen only small advances and have grown accustomed to measure each advance in feet. Our horizon has thus been blurred by the many minor points which intervene between our vision and the larger things which the allied High Command has in view. This has its application in the Dobrudja campaign, where the armies have remained stationary many days, in spite of Teutonic reports of victory over the combined Russian and Rumanian armies.

I would again call attention to the fact that it is a difficult matter to invade Bulgaria in force over any other route than through Dobrudja. The Danube, while a defensive barrier of great strength from a Rumanian standpoint, is equally so from the standpoint of Bulgaria. If, therefore, either side is to invade the other, the most logical path which this invasion would take would be by way of the Dobrudja border, where there is no defensive barrier to be forced. It is probable that the action of the Teutons in invading this province was defensive in conception. Were Rumania engaged single handed with Austria and Bulgaria no such presumption could be made. The very geographical form of Rumania would place her between the jaws of a nutcracker, which would be sure to crush her to pieces by a combined invasion by way of Transylvania and Dobrudja. Again, were it the beginning of the war, when the Teutonic powers were in full strength, with their armies unweakened and devitalized by two years of terrific struggle, the situation might demand that Rumania receive the same treatment that has been meted out to Belgium and Serbia, in order that her military strength might not prove a source of embarrassment later on.

But the situation is now entirely different. Not only has the war of two years bitten deeply into the man power of the Teutonic allies, but also there is not one of these powers which is not under the pressure of unceasing attacks at almost every point of contact.

Let us see what this means. An offensive against Rumania demands a heavy concentration of effectives. In order to effect such concentrations troops must be gathered, not from central supply depots, for such depots are already being drawn upon to the limit, but from other sections of the battle fronts. Some front must be weakened in order that sufficient men may be sent to the point of attack. From what point could they be safely withdrawn? Here lies the meaning of the attacks on all fronts which the Entente powers are now delivering against the Teuton lines. There is not a single point where the pressure of this concentric attack is sufficiently unremitting to permit such withdrawal without inviting defeat.

These are the principal reasons for regarding the Dobrudja fighting as a Teuton defense. By this move the hope was to prevent a Rumanian invasion of Bulgaria, to guard Constantinople and to prevent Turkey from being severed geographically from her allies. The efforts of the Bulgarians and the Germans carried them to within about twenty miles of the Constantza-Bucharest railroad, when they were halted and a pitched battle followed.

From the beginning of this battle it has appeared that the plans of the Rumanians involved a heavy attack on the left flank of the Teutons with the hope of beating back this flank and permitting a turning movement by which the entire campaign could be determined in their favor. This strategy has been almost successful on several occasions, but at the last moment has been checked by the Teuton manoeuvres. Now, however, it seems to be on the verge of final success.

After taking Tutrakan the Bulgarians evidently left there only small covering forces to guard the river and turned their main forces into the fighting which developed in front of the Constantza railroad. Taking advantage of this the Rumanians suddenly forced the crossing of the Danube between these two places and have established a sound foothold on the southern bank.

The Bulgarian left flank is now in grave danger. It is turned by the Rumanian coup, but whether in sufficient force or not is too early to tell. The fact that the crossing was made indicates that a not inconsiderable force is present.

Simultaneously with the crossing the Russian and Rumanian forces on the main front began an attack all along the line. The reasons are obvious. In order that the force which crossed the river may be able to move out from their positions without encountering a superior force of the enemy it is necessary that the enemy be so occupied that he cannot divert any troops from his front in order to drive them back. The plan evidently is to keep Mackensen so much occupied that the force which crossed the river may have practically a free hand.

It would not be surprising, in view of this latest development, to see Mackensen's line suddenly fall back, in order to guard against an attack in the rear, which would sever his line of communications. The railroad from the Bulgarian port of Varna, which parallels the Dobrudja frontier, is as important a part of Mackensen's communications as is the road which runs north and south through Dobrudja. By means of this first road the army is supplied.

The Rumanian thrust will carry them in between this road and Mackensen's line, and, if the retreat of this line is not made in time, involve it in the same sort of scissors movement as that which won the battle of the Marne. Nor will it stop with a mere retreat. A retreat under such pressure as the Russian and Rumanian forces are exerting on the Bulgarian front is a dangerous manoeuvre to carry out successfully without suffering serious losses in men and guns. The reports of the next few days will indicate just how precarious Mackensen's position is.

Berlin Newspapers Are Confident He Will Bring About Victory.

GERMANS RESIST DRIVE AT BAPAUME

LOSE ABOVE COURCELETTE

Heavy Fighting Goes On Despite Bad Weather—French Progress Near Bouchavesnes.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Bad weather on the Somme has materially reduced the military operations, but, nevertheless, there has been heavy fighting on the British front, especially in the region of Eaucourt l'Abbaye and Courcelette, where the troops of General Haig are pressing toward Bapaume.

Following up their success in entering Eaucourt l'Abbaye yesterday, the British last night cleared the Germans out of all the buildings in that little village. Today, however, the Germans made determined attacks in that region and regained a foothold in the buildings, according to the night report of the British War Office.

North and east of Courcelette the British improved their positions during the day. The line held by Haig's men was 1,200 yards to the north of the village last night.

The French have gained some slight successes east of Bouchavesnes since yesterday afternoon and taken a few score of prisoners.

The night bulletin of the British War Office reads:

A heavy rain fell on the front early Monday morning. During the day there has been severe fighting in and about Eaucourt l'Abbaye. The enemy succeeded in regaining a footing in the buildings.

During the day we improved our positions southwest of Gueudecourt and north and east of Courcelette.

In the last twenty-four hours in this area we have taken prisoner one officer and sixty-three men.

During Sunday operations our aeroplanes bombed several points of military importance. An enemy kite balloon was brought down in flames. There were many air fights, in the course of which two machines were destroyed and many others driven down. We suffered no losses.

The day statement of the British War Office says:

During the night our troops south of the Ancre beat off an enemy attack on our advanced positions east of Eaucourt l'Abbaye. We have now established our front in that area and have cleared the buildings of Eaucourt l'Abbaye of the enemy.

Further west during the night we also established our lines from a point 1,200 yards north of Courcelette in the direction of the Hessian trench. An enemy counterattack forced us to relinquish a portion of the Regina trench, which we had gained further to the north. This area has shown stubborn fighting during the last twenty-four hours.

Elsewhere on our front the night was calm. Successful raids on the enemy's trenches were carried out north of Neuville St. Vaast and east of Laventie.

The official communication, issued by the French War Office tonight, reads:

In the course of the day we progressed by grenade fighting to east of Bouchavesnes; about forty prisoners and six machine guns were left in our hands. In the same region a German detachment, caught under our fire in the direction of Epine de Malassise, was dispersed, leaving fifty men on the ground.

South of the Somme a small German attack, directed on one of our trenches south of Vermandovillers, was easily repulsed.

Bad weather has hampered the operations on the whole Somme front. There has been intermittent cannonading on parts of the front.

The day bulletin of the French War Office reads:

To the north of the River Somme an operation on our part resulted in our occupying a German trench to the east of Bouchavesnes, and we took some prisoners.

Elsewhere the night passed in relative quiet.

Adjutant Bloch has brought down a German captive balloon at a point to the east of Bapaume. This is the fifth balloon brought down up to the present time by this aviator.

Berlin Reports Allies Failed.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (via London.)—On a battlefront of twelve miles north of the Somme the French and British charged the Germans time after time yesterday, but were repulsed, the War Office announces. The bulletin reads:

Army Group of Prince Rupprecht: Fighting on a large scale on the twenty-kilometer (12.4 mile) front between Thiepval and Rancourt occurred again yesterday in the battle area north of the Somme. The British and French, after a great increase in their preparatory fire, advanced to the attack. They were sanguinarily repulsed many times by our well-directed artillery fire. Detachments which penetrated our lines were ejected by our unshakable infantry after bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

Immediately north of the Somme a French local attack was repulsed. The battle lasted throughout the night, and is still in full swing.

South of the Somme there was lively artillery fighting at places.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince: North of Les Mesnil (Champagne) a German reconnoitring detachment carried out a successful sortie and brought in one officer and thirty-eight men prisoners.

BAPAUME TWO MILES AWAY.

British on Edge of Le Sars—Cavalry Make Daring Raids.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Oct. 2.—Bapaume is now only two miles beyond the British advance line. The British are in the southern edge of Le Sars and around Eaucourt L'Abbaye, where the Germans still hold forth in the cellars of the old abbaye building.

Looking toward Bapaume behind Le Sars with the villages largely intact, it appears almost as normal as that ten miles back of the old trench lines on the British side.

So open has the fighting become in the centre that cavalry patrols have been used. It is daring business, riding forth in the darkness, not knowing at what instant some hidden machine gun might be aroused to action. Though some riders had their horses shot from under them, and some horses foundered in the abandoned trenches, others carried their scouting nearly a mile beyond the infantry advanced line and brought back valuable information.

Among the prisoners brought back was an officer who was astonished at the apparition of men on horseback looming out of the night.

GERMAN REPRISAL WINS.

No More Teutons to be Sent to Africa Nor French to Poland.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The German authorities, as a measure of reprisal, says the Overseas News Agency, had sent 10,000 French prisoners of war into the parts of Russia occupied by the Germans because German prisoners had been sent by the French to Morocco, Algeria, and Tunis.

The French authorities having now ordered these German prisoners of war sent back to France, the German measure of reprisal, the news agency says, has fulfilled its aim, and the 10,000 French prisoners are, therefore, being sent from Russia into German camps.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The Austrians made heavy counterattacks yesterday in an attempt to regain the ground lost in the new Russian drive on Lemberg. The War Office announced today that the attacks were repulsed and that 1,600 more prisoners were taken. This fighting occurred on the front southeast of Lemberg, where heavy engagements are still in progress. The announcement follows:

On the western front, in the region of the River Narayuvka and on the heights on the right bank of the River Zlota Lipa, stubborn fighting is continuing. The enemy initiated counterattacks which were repelled by our fire. He suffered great losses and left in our hands 1,600 of the rank and file. With the Austrian prisoners were also Turks and Germans.

On the River Bystritza, in the region of Bogorodchan, our patrols removed two field sentries and defeated the enemy advance guards, taking also a number of prisoners. The total number of prisoners taken by this section of General Leschitzky's army during the battle from Sept. 19 to 20 inclusive, in the Carpathians on the front extending to the Rumanian frontier is 13 officers and 2,596 of the rank and file. The war booty captured during the same period amounts to 4 cannon, 13 machine guns, 2 mine throwers, 1 trench mortar, 75 cases of shells and hand grenades, 100 cases of machine-gun belts, several thousand rifles, and a large number of cartridges.

Another bulletin, issued later, contains this additional information:

Galicia—Front of Prince Leopold.—On the Brody-Zlochow road the German and Austro-Hungarian troops recaptured by counterattacks all the ground lost Saturday. Twenty-four Russian officers and 2,306 men, together with eleven machine guns, were taken on the railway between Brody and Lemberg. The Russian attack ended with the complete failure of the enemy, who lost 200 prisoners.

Volhynia.—General Tersztansky's army was exposed all day Sunday to the heaviest artillery fire. Some attacks were repulsed. Early this morning the enemy directed strong columns against our positions northwest of Svinjusky. He was repulsed by counterattacks.

BERLIN, Oct. 2, (via London.)—On the front northeast of Lemberg, where the Russians advanced on Saturday in opening their new offensive, Austro-German troops made a counterattack yesterday. Today's official announcement reports the recapture of a position from the Russians, who left more than 1,500 prisoners in the hands of the Teutons. The announcement follows:

Army Group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: West of Lutsk (Volhynia) the activity of the artillery increased appreciably. Fresh enemy attacks were stifled by our curtain of fire. An attempt made by Russian artillery to drive forward the infantry by directing fire upon the Russian trenches was of no avail. Near Wojnta brief hand-to-hand encounters developed.

A counterattack carried out by Lieut. Gen. Melior led to the recapture of a position taken by the Russians north of Graberka (south of the Brody-Lemberg railroad) on Sept. 30. The enemy left more than 1,500 prisoners in our hands. His attempts to drive us back, as well as his renewed attacks on both sides of the Brody-Lemberg railway line, failed, 800 prisoners being taken.

Army Group of Archduke Charles Francis: Fighting east of the Zlota Lipa (southeast of Lemberg) continues around the small sections of our position won by the Russians

VIENNA, Oct. 2, (via London.)—Gains for the Russians in their new drive toward Lemberg are admitted in a statement issued by the War Office supplementing the official announcement of yesterday. The text of the statement follows:

Front of Archduke Charles Francis: Fighting in the Carpathians is slackening. Southwest and south of Przezany the enemy attacked with strong forces the Turkish troops operating between the Zlota Lipa and the Potuory railway station. The Russians gained some meters of ground.

Front of Prince Leopold: Opposite General Boehm-Ermolli's army the enemy attacked our positions to the north of the road from Brody to Zlochow, but were completely repulsed. At one spot three and in another seven attacks were shattered. South of the road the enemy penetrated the sector of one regiment. A counterattack, begun early this morning, is progressing favorably, and has regained the greater part of the lost trenches.

SKIRMISHES IN CAUCASUS.

Constantinople Reports Successful Patrol Attacks Upon Russians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1, (via London.)—"On the right wing on the Caucasus front," says today's official announcement by the War Office, "a surprise attack by our patrols against enemy camps was crowned with success.

"On the left wing our patrols repulsed superior enemy forces which were advancing, and captured arms and intrenching tools.

"Russian forces in Persia camping to the south of Sakiz, thirty miles southeast of Sonjbulak, were attacked and routed by the Turks. Sakiz was occupied by the Turks on the night of Sept. 26-27."

SAYS RUSSIA HELD UP ALLIES

German Paper Asserts Price for Fighting Was $5,000,000,000.

Readers of German newspapers are again being told that Russia is tired of the war and only remains in the conflict because she is thus enabled to extort gold from Great Britain. A recent number of the Schlesische Zeitung of Breslau contained the following dispatch from Amsterdam:

"It is reported from a reliable source that at the London conference of the Allies' Ministers of Finance, the Russian Finance Minister, Bark, delivered this ultimatum: Either a war credit of 10,000,000,000 rubles ($5,000,000,000) or a separate peace with Germany and Austra-Hungary, signifying the collapse of the Entente. Bark took such a decided stand that it was impossible to refuse, as had been the case in former attempts at extortion. McKenna and Ribot had to take up the demand of their Russian colleague, but they dickered over the matter and finally granted him 6,000,000,000 rubles, of which England is to furnish 4,000,000,000 and France 2,000,000,000."

ITALIAN GUNS ARE BUSY.

Infantry Skirmishes Reported in the Ledro Valley.

ROME, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The official communication issued today by the War Office says:

In the Ledro Valley (Trentino) infantry skirmishes took place, in the course of which our advanced posts drove off the enemy with loss. In the Astice Valley enemy artillery concentrated its fire on the railway near Seghe, without interrupting traffic.

Along the remainder of the front there were only artillery actions, the majority on the Carso sector.

VIENNA, Oct. 2.—The Austro-Hungarian War Office issued its report today on the operations on the Italian front:

The Italian artillery is again directing a very heavy fire against our positions on the Carso Plateau which has extended to our lines in the Vippacco Valley.

In the southeastern theatre there is nothing to report.

BERLIN CHANGES CLOCKS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The change last night from Summer to Winter time in Berlin occurred under circumstances somewhat resembling wild New Year's celebrations. Large crowds moved through the streets toward 1 o'clock by Summer time and assembled in front of the public clocks to watch the phenomenon of the first morning hour repeating itself.

Sure enough, after the clock had reached 1, Summer time, it suddenly traveled quickly back again to 12, again to begin its journey toward 1 o'clock, Winter time.

Many people remained standing in front of the clocks. They all were in a very cheerful mood, as were the enormous crowds which filled the cafés and restaurants, where the repetition of 1 o'clock permitted an extra hour of indulgence.

The general cheerfulness must mainly be accredited to good news from the various fronts and also to announcements of large contributions for a new war loan. These subjects, with Summer time experiences and its economic value, formed the main topics of conversation. It seemed that the public was largely in favor of making Summer and Winter time a standing institution, because the extra hour of sunlight was of great benefit to many people.

One Berlin morning newspaper jocosely wonders how the poor ghosts, whose proverbial hour of appearance is the first morning hour, spent the extra hour.

WANTS OUR AID FOR WORLD PEACE

English people to respond to President Wilson's proposal of a league of peace, or to recognize the sacrifice implied in the offer to the American Government to come into such a league with European powers and adds:

"Undoubtedly it is this offer alone which has given to the plan of the league substance and solidity. Europe is now for practical purposes divided into two great parties. The nations composing these parties might form a league of peace if they chose, but all the solid strength would remain, not in the league but in the parties. Under such conditions the suggestion of a possible union of powers to enforce the submission of disputes to the appropriate organ of the league embracing them all, wore a very academic character, but if America proposes seriously to throw her great weight into the scale, the plan acquires at once a different aspect. But Americans on their side must remember that we are very much occupied in getting on with the war. We have hardly asked ourselves yet what is to come after it, and indeed we know that what comes after it must in a very large measure depend upon the way in which we finish it.

"But they may do well to bear one thing in mind, while the war rages it is inevitable that policies and programs that appeal to war feeling will be popular, but when the passion has once cooled down there will ensue a reaction against all the horror that Europe is living through, which, if there is any reason left in man, will insure a welcome to the statesman or nation which will show how the dike against the renewal of war may best be built. Then will come America's chance to enter the community of nations, not, as others have done, in the guise of aggressor or conqueror, but as a messenger of peace and a minister of common law."

Bryce's Plea for Friendship.

In other parts of this article Lord Bryce writes:

"No country ever quite understands the political ideas and sentiments which fill the mind and guide the action of another country. This is especially so in war time as between belligerents and neutrals. The belligerent country, which feels the nobility and justice of its cause and lives in a state of high tension, naturaly expects neutral nations to see things in the same light and to extend to it the full measure of that sympathy which it knows itself to deserve. We are so nearly connected in many ways with the American people that reciprocal comprehension of ideas and sentiments is easier between them and us than with any other nation, so, although at divers moments there has been in some sections of the British nation a certain perplexity at the attitude of the United States Government and people during these two years of war, most of us have now come to grasp pretty well the fundamental facts regarding their view of the situation and the motives which determined the conduct of the American Government.

"Two things are quite clear. One is that the vast majority of those Americans who have any opinion at all, for of course there are many among recent emigrants who can hardly be as yet called Americans, are in sympathy with the Allies and wish them victory.

Hardly any native Americans venture to come forward as advocates of Germany. Her defense is left almost entirely to men of German blood and chiefly to those who have themselves come recently from Europe and still feel themselves to be Germans rather than Americans.

"The second thing that has become clear is that the United States is not now likely to enter the war. The only event that can be contemplated as calculated to draw it in would be a resumption by the German Government of that ruthless policy in warfare by submarines which sank the Lusitania, the Falaba and the Sussex. Such conduct, of course by no means impossible—there is nothing one can call impossible to a German Government driven to fury by failure—is at least improbable."

Washington as an Interventionist.

Lord Bryce refers to many people, particularly in the Atlantic coast cities, who hold that America ought to intervene and refers to the "illustrious ex-President of Harvard University," Charles W. Eliot, and points out why "it is not the view of the American nation as a whole." In the course of his recital of the reasons for this attitude Bryce remarks:

"It has been the fundamental principle of American policy from the time of Washington to avoid all intermingling in intrigues and schemes and dissensions in the alliances and in the wars of the Old World. Very possibly Washington, could he have lived to see the present situation, would have disregarded his own doctrine in the interests not only of the world at large but of the future security of America itself.

"Let it be understood, therefore," he concluded, "that it is not want of sympathy with the principles for which the Allies are contending that has kept the United States out of the war. Those who complain of their abstention and of the attitude of the Government would do well to remember that immense pressure was brought on members of both houses of Congress to pass resolutions forbidding the export of munitions to the Allies and at several moments it seemed possible some such resolution might pass, but each time before the critical moment arrived it was dropped. The members felt that the opinion of the nation was far too strongly anti-German to permit them to vote for it.

"(2) Many important business sections in America and to some extent the whole people have been angered by the way in which the Allies have exerted their sea power in interfering with neutral trade. These matters, including the treatment of mails and the so-called blacklist, have given offense all the greater because memories of those ancient quarrels which caused the war of 1812 have been aroused. But these things have been borne with comparative coolness, which shows that the annoyance is qualified not merely by recollections of British acquiescence in the civil war blockade, but also by the sense that whatever offense the Allies have, as Americans may think, given them, has been of a totally different kind from what the German Government did when they invaded Belgium and sank the Lusitania, crimes that called to heaven for punishment.

Position of German-Americans.

"(3) How far the German-American party which has conducted anti-British propaganda is from supposing that the United States Administration has been friendly to them and cold to the Allies may be judged by their fury against Wilson, equaled only by their fury against Roosevelt. In their eyes, at any rate, the Administration is pro-ally. They have been straining every nerve to defeat it, and that although they must know perfectly well that if the Republican Party wins in the coming election its policy will be not a whit more friendly to Germany, whoever wishes to realize what the attitude of the American people has been and what it has meant to us throughout the war should picture to himself what difference it would have made to Germany in a hundred ways through these two long years if they had been friendly to her."

GERMANY EXPECTS BIG TRADE WITH US

Undaunted by Allies' Plans to Cripple Her Commercially After the War.

GREAT PREPARATIONS MADE

Consul General Morgan Says Organization for Getting Foreign Trade Is Better Than Ever.

General Henry H. Morgan, United States Consul General at Hamburg, who reached New York yesterday on the Nieuw Amsterdam, said that Germany would be found ready for any trade war that England and her allies might wage against her after the close of hostilities in the field. He said that there were being formed in Germany cartels and business organizations on a scale surpassing those by which German world trade made such progress prior to August, 1914.

The General said that Germany expected America to be her closest trade associate after the war, and that Germany's business men were confident that after peace had been made there would be nothing but the most friendly business relations between their nation and the United States.

"Germany expects, in fact, she realizes, that for a time at least after the war her trade with the nations that are numbered among the Allies will be subject to great restrictions. Germany has not been blind to the action taken by the Allies at their recent economic conference in Paris. But Germany expects to do a big business with America. Regardless of feelings that may or may not have been engendered because of the war, Germany expects nothing but the most cordial trade relations with America."

General Morgan said that Germany's bankers would be in a position after the war to assist trade development in the fullest measure. He mentioned the circumstance that Germany had sent little money out of the country for war expenses, as compared with what the Allies had sent to America. He pointed out that before the war England had the greatest gold reserve, with Germany well down the line, and said that after the war the United States would have the most gold, with England next and Germany third. He thought that this signified no crippling of Germany's ability to meet England in a struggle for world trade after the war was over.

"Germany expects to do much business with South America," he said. "I do not believe she entertains any idea of having any less of that trade than she had before the war started."

General Morgan said that Germany attached considerable importance to the action of the Allies' Economic Conference, but, at the same time, was not at all dismayed, being willing to trust to the law of supply and demand in her struggle for her share of world trade.

"Germany is not entirely preoccupied with the war," he said. "Her business men and bankers are forming trade plans and shaping combination on a scale they never attempted before. They have the Government with them, and nothing that Germany as a whole can do to pursue trade advantages after the war will be left undone, I am confident."

SEABURY ATTACKS PERKINS AND MILLER

in which they hang the pictures of those accustomed to prey upon society. The gallery enables them to identify the suspected persons whenever they commence to be active. I trust that the portraits I hang in my gallery shall serve the same useful purpose. It is with this desire in mind that I have referred to the distinguished gentleman who presided over the recent Republican Convention. In his speech he pretended to be alarmed at the consequences which should follow my election. He knows well that if I am elected the lobbyist and the corporation lawyer bent upon the accomplishment of some evil purpose, or attempting improperly to get public money, will have little hope of success.

There is another picture which should be hung in the gallery. I refer to the lifelike picture of George W. Perkins. Having destroyed the Progressive Party in the nation and put it out of existence in the State, he has assumed the rôle of guide, philosopher and friend of the present Governor. He gives advice to the public daily. He is, therefore, a public character, and as such it is proper that the public should recall the facts of his career.

Recalls Indictment of Perkins.

His trust affiliations are well known. The manner in which he manipulated the funds of the insurance companies has not altogether been forgotten. I adhere closely to the facts when I say that a few years ago the facts in reference to his conduct were submitted to the Court of Appeals of this State in the case of the people, ex rel. Perkins vs. Moss, 187 N. Y., Page 410, and the Court, as then constituted, divided in his favor four to three upon the simple question of whether George W. Perkins committed grand larceny. I hope the public will bear this in mind in weighing his subsequent utterances and will give to his declarations the weight which they conceive his character and record entitle them to receive.

The part of Mr. Seabury's speech devoted to Mr. Perkins harked back to the days of the insurance investigation conducted by Charles E. Hughes in 1905 and 1906 when Mr. Perkins, then Vice President of the New York Life Insurance Company, as the result of the discovery of a fictitious transfer of Chicago & Northwestern and St. Paul stock between the New York Life and the New York Security and Trust Company, was indicted for forgery in the third degree with Charles S. Fairchild, President of the last named corporation. The indictments were found in December 1906, the Grand Jury in presenting them explicitly exonerating Mr. Perkins of any criminal intent in connection with the transaction which he had sought to conceal through the alleged forgery.

In 1909 both the indictments were dismissed after the Court of Appeals had decided that in the absence of criminal intent in a transaction it was sought to conceal by forgery, an indictment for forgery could not stand.

Mr. Seabury pledged himself of elected to a thorough reorganization of the State departments. He declared in favor of an executive budget and in opposition to a direct tax, as well as to the State tax on personal incomes, as low as $2,000, proposed by a committee appointed by the Republican Legislature of last year to investigate the subject.

Enthusiasm for Candidates.

The reception Mr. Seabury received from the members of the State Committee and other Democrats who thronged the big room on the second floor of the Hotel Knickerbocker went far to refute recent rumors that he would not receive the cordial support of the Democratic organization. The demonstration equaled in warmth that accorded Mr. McCombs, who admittedly is a great favorite with the leaders.

Mr. McCombs in his speech of acceptance pledged himself, if elected to the United States Senate to contend for Federal aid to improve harbor and river conditions in this State.

Congressman John J. Fitzgerald of Kings, who was Chairman of the unofficial Democratic State Convention at Saratoga, made the speech notifying all the candidates for State offices. W. W. Farley of Binghamton, candidate for Attorney General, responded for himself and the others, besides Seabury and McCombs.

Congressman Fitzgerald warmly praised President Wilson and his Administration, and praise of President Wilson was a feature, too, of Judge Seabury's speech.

ATTACK SURPRISES PERKINS.

George W. Perkins was plainly surprised yesterday to learn of ex-Judge Seabury's attack on him. Mr. Perkins had a conference with Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay in the afternoon, and when he returned to the city a copy of Mr. Seabury's speech was shown to him.

"And so Mr. Seabury is going to conduct his campaign on a basis of personal vilification and abuse,' he said. "All right, this gives us his measure and am sure he will not get anywhere with such a program. Mr. Seabury was only too glad to have my support when he ran for Judge, and he was aware of the fact that I gave it to him. Only a few weeks ago, while at luncheon with me, he told me that he hoped that if I could not support him I would at least remain neutral.

"The inherent weakness of Mr. Seabury's campaign is shown in the fact that he is Tammany's candidate. His only hope of winning is through Tammany. Any voter who wishes to place Tammany in control at Albany can do so by voting for Mr. Seabury. I am against him because Tammany is for him. If I were for him, does any voter think for a moment that he would have belched forth with such a vindictive attack as he has made on me this afternoon?"

Ex-Judge Miller Not Disturbed.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Over the telephone at a late hour tonight ex-Judge Nathan L. Miller said:

"Judge Seabury is merely disclosing himself. What he says requires no answer."

TO STUMP STATE OCT. 16.

Samuel Seabury and William F. McCombs, Democratic candidates for Governor and United States Senator, will begin their joint campaign tour of the State on Monday, Oct. 16. The trip will begin at New York and wind up in Buffalo on Oct. 28.

Governor Whitman will start on his campaign tour on Oct. 18. He will begin at Buffalo on that date and wind up in New York City. Before then, the Governor will make a campaign tour of several middle Western States, speaking in behalf of the national ticket.

Why Genuinely Hand-Tailored Clothes?

BECAUSE claims of hand-tailoring are made with bewildering abandon and abundance the WEAROSCOPE is not surprised at being asked this question.

The WEAROSCOPE does not believe in word acrobatics staged on paper, but in a "strict accountability" of statement.

When some hand-tailoring touches have been added to clothing (generally as talking points), they should be called "quarter-hand-tailored," "half-hand-tailored," etc., according to the degree of handwork injected.

Fully hand-tailored clothing is tailored just the same way it is done in the Fifth Avenue custom tailor shops.

Only such clothes deserve to be called genuinely hand-tailored.

Speaking of Fall and Winter Suits

What is the particular feature most calculated to induce you to buy a suit of clothes in this or in any other store?

IS IT VARIETY? We will make no bones about this subject—we here and now go on record that the Saks selections are the biggest, most diversified, and least affected by the woolen shortage of any clothing assortments in New York today.

IS IT STYLE? Saks' make their own clothes right here in town, cutting, tailoring and finishing every garment according to the last-minute custom creations of upper Fifth Avenue.

IS IT WORKMANSHIP? What better proof and what better protection can you possibly have on this score than the simple fact that the workmanship is exclusively our own and the Saks organization stands squarely behind it?

IS IT VALUE? If it is, then it should be obvious to you that by making our own clothes we are thereby enabled to put into them the money which is held out on other clothes to pay the middleman.

And if it is not any one of these four reasons, we can furnish forty others to prove that your money will go further and your satisfaction last longer in a Saks suit than in any alternative choice.

A Few Words to Farmers About Milk

This milk question will settle itself soon, but—

You farmers who want a market for your own milk and know our standards are good and our prices are right, use your own influence to keep your rabid neighbors from trying to carry out hopeless contracts by violence and mob law or by threatening their neighbor not to commune with him in church if he sells his milk where and when he wants to.

I was born on a farm. I milked cows for years. Later I drove a milk wagon and had a milk route of my own in New York.

I want you to know that now, since I have become the head of one of the largest milk handling concerns in the world, I have not forgotten the farm or the farmers.

Our relations have always been most pleasant. Together we have worked for years toward the end that New York's millions might get the purest, creamiest, and safest milk science could produce.

You know what milk used to be: It came from any old cow, whether she was sick or not. It was often kept too near the pump. It never had a test for richness (butter fat). It never had to be kept at a certain temperature. The dirty barn and the dirty milk went in with all the rest at the same price. Bacteria wasn't known. Anything that was white could be sold as milk. Sheffield Farms and Farmers do not go by these standards—you know that.

In four big ways we together have played a leading part in giving Greater New York milk of highest quality and safety—(I.) by building and maintaining barns and dairies and receiving stations of immaculate cleanliness; (II.) by increasing the percentage of butter fat through premiums; (III.) by greatly decreasing the bacteria count, and (IV.) by adding the final safeguard of pasteurization.

The higher your quality of milk the better we like it, and we have gladly paid you hundreds of thousands of dollars in Premiums for milk that satisfied the Sheffield Farms super-standards of quality and inspection. By working shoulder to shoulder we have produced milk which has materially aided in reducing the mortality of New York children under two years of age; reducing it from 14½% to 2½%. Surely no effort can have a nobler goal.

While you have been improving your cattle and producing a better grade of milk, the energy of the experts at the command of the Sheffield Farms organization has been spent in answering such questions as: "How can we give New York better, safer milk?" "How much higher than the Board of Health standards can Sheffield Farms milk be made?" For instance:

Sheffield Farms Were the First to Give New York Pasteurized Milk

When New York even opposed pasteurized milk—

When New York had no epidemic to startle it—

The Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Co. sent experts all over this country; sent them to Denmark, to Holland, to France, to Germany, to study the best ways to handle milk.

We engaged scientists to study at home.

We established laboratories in city and country to prove all tests.

We spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to install the first perfectly pasterizing plant in New York, or anywhere in this country, and had to spend thousands of dollars since, to show the people that this is the safest milk.

This is the sort of thing we went through before pasteurized milk requirements were even thought of by the Boardof Health of New York. This is the sort of pioneer work we have done in a lot of cases. In 1895 New York City received 8,027,040 cans of milk and cream. In 1915 New York City received 20,065,327 cans of milk and cream. This is an increase in twenty years of over 250%. How has this been brought about? By the improved quality and safeguards which you and we have placed about the production and handling of milk. People are drinking more milk because it's better milk.

Gone forever are the days when milk was "just milk"—no grading—no inspection—no safeguards!

Let us do everything in our power that the standards of the milk supply of New York City be raised higher—instead of lowered. That is why we have raised our prices just now to the farmers for high grade milk.

I have investigated the milk conditions in cities in eleven countries, and have inspected thousands of dairies, and can say with great pride that, thanks to your splendid co-operation, New York City is receiving as good milk as any other city in the world, and far better than hundreds of them.

Lowering the standards of milk would hurt the farmers' business, would hurt the milk dealers' business, would increase the death rate in New York City, and I for one do not intend to be a party to allowing it.

And that is why I will continue to deal with the farmers themselves, and them only, and not through some scheming third party who does not even know the milk business.

Loton Horton President.

INCREASE IS SHOWN BY 1917 TAX LISTS

Real and Personal Property Share in Rise Estimated at $150,000,000.

MANHATTAN'S VALUES LESS

But Times Square District Has Higher Assessment—Green and Brady Estates Largest.

The Tax Department opened its books yesterday and made public the tentative personal and real estate assessments for 1917. The figures show a net increase in real estate assessments in the city of $30,565,422, with a grand total of assessed real estate valuation of $7,599,214,601. The 1916 assessment roll was $7,568,649,179. Exclusive of the Borough of Manhattan the tentative real estate assessments show an increase of $85,617,842. The net decrease in this borough amounts to $55,052,420.

In announcing this decrease Lawson Purdy, President of the Tax Board, explained that it must not be inferred from the figures that the last year had been especially bad in Manhattan, though the decrease appeared large.

"The fact is," he said, "and always must be, that the Tax Department follows the evidence. When property is rising in value the assessments must be somewhat less than the actual value, because the assessment is based upon the evidence of the past. The same is true when property is falling in value. The sections of the borough in which values have declined in recent years are showing evidences of improvement, or at least greater stability."

In making public the tentative personal tax list, the board did not, as in last October, give any estimate of the aggregate of tentative personal assessments. Apparently the assessors have gone back to the methods of fixing personal taxes that prevailed prior to 1916. Last year it was announced that no one taxable was to escape, and club lists, social registers, and telephone directories were searched for those who might pay a personal tax. It is probable that the personal list has fallen to about 40,000. Last year it had 82,000 names on it, and after "swearing off time" only about 37,000 remained.

The largest single assessment is $15,000,000, levied against the estate of Anthony N. Brady. Colonel Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, is assessed for $10,000,000 personalty and Mrs. Sylvia H. Wilks, her daughter, is assessed for a like amount. It is a question still to be decided whether these assessments will stand, for Colonel Green is, it is said, a legal resident of Texas, and has the bulk of his personal property there. The estates of J. P. Morgan and of Charles W. Harkness in this State are each valued at $10,000,000.

The name of Andrew Carnegie is dropped from this year's tentative list, and this is because Mr. Carnegie appeared before the Board of Tax Assessors last year and swore that he had no personal property in this tax district. J. P. Morgan does not appear on the list, for Mr. Morgan claims residence elsewhere. Henry P. Davison, one of his partners, is assessed on $1,000,000. Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick's personal property is valued at $211,000. The amount of personal property owned by John D. Rockefeller and taxable here is placed at $5,000,000. His son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is assessed on $500,000.

There was criticism when it was announced that the tentative total of personal valuations for 1916 was $3,704,305,965. This was finally reduced by the elimination process to $376,530,150. It is probable that when the tentative total for 1917 is announced it will be in the neighborhood of $500,000,000. This is an estimate of a member of the board.

There has been a general decrease in the valuations in real estate in the district south of Fourteenth Street and north of Wall Street. In this territory the decrease was approximately $50,000,000, while south of Worth Street the books show a further decrease of $3,000,000. The area of decrease extends orth to Fortieth Street.

Real estate values, according to the tentative list, are improving in Times Square and vicinity. Mr. Purdy said that the lists showed that in the territory from river to river and from Fortieth Street to Ninety-sixth Street the net increase is about $20,000,000. North of the latter street and in the territory extending to 140th Street there is a decrease of about $11,000,000, while in the section lying north an increase of about $5,000,000 is noted.

The tentative tax lists show that the increases in the value of both land and buildings in Brooklyn is greater than in any other borough. The tax assessors find a reason for this in the increased values and the development that had followed along the lines of the rapid transit improvements. The increase for new buildings alone in Brooklyn is $34,205,885. In Manhattan this increase is given at $42,926,800, but in Manhattan large sums are devoted to the erection of single buildings, while in Brooklyn the improvements are more widely distributed.

With the exception of one section in the Bronx the figures show that there is prosperity in the borough and that values are mounting. The tentative list shows a net increase of $15,281,225 in real estate values in the Bronx. The only decrease of any consequence was in the southerly end—the factory section—a district bounded by Third Avenue, Westchester Avenue, St. Ann's Avenue and the Harlem River. Here the decreases on buildings amounted to a little more than $400,000. Elsewhere values are rising, and this is especially noticeable in the territory between Kingsbridge Road, Bronx and Pelham Parkways, the Bronx River, and 177th Street. The total increase is $7,200,000.

Richmond has shared in the general upward trend of real estate values. The increase on Staten Island was more than $4,315,990. Real estate valuations in Manhattan, as shown by the tentative list, have been enhanced by the erection of new and costly buildings. The two of greatest value erected during the preceding twelve months were the Albemarle Building, assessed at $2,325,0[illegible], and Astor Court, at $2,400,000. The Equitable Building still remains the most costly office building in the city, and Altman's the finest business premises. The assessment on the Equitable has been increased from $20,000,000 to $20,500,000, and the assessment on the Altman store remains at $14,100,000.

The Western Union building shows a great advance in valuation, and this is because recent months saw the completion of the great modern building which now occupies the site of its old building at Dey Street and Broadway. Placing the tentative assessment on personal property at $500,000,000 it is estimated that the tentative assessment this year will be approximately $150,000,000 more than last year's final assessment.

Last year, when the tentative assessment books were opened to the public, several thousand taxpayers descended upon the offices of the Tax Department, insisting that they had been overassessed. The scene undoubtedly will be repeated this year.

BAZAAR WILL NOT EXPLOIT SUBMARINE

IMPUGNS ITS NEUTRALITY

McGarvie Replies to Speech of Koelble Regarding First Undersea Craft.

The submarine Holland No. 9, first successful underwater craft ever constructed, will not be exhibited at the forthcoming Irish Bazaar in this city. The statement that the Holland would be one of the feature exhibits of the bazaar was made at a meeting in the Garden Theatre Sunday night by Alphonse G. Koelble, President of the United German Societies of New York, who is active in promoting the bazaar, to be held in Madison Square Garden the latter part of this month.

Mr. Koelble's promise to exhibit the first submarine was pronounced an incorrect statement by H. F. McGarvie, President of the Bronx International Exposition, who in a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday said that the submarine would be delivered to the exposition management next week. The Bronx Exposition, which is to be held next year, will commemorate the 300th anniversary of the settlement of the Bronx.

Mr. McGarvie in his letter said:

As I am not interested in politics and, as a native-born American, am strictly neutral in the cataclysm in Europe, I wish to protest against the exploitation of the old submarine boat Holland No. 9 in conjunction with the proposed Irish-German Bazaar which is to be held in Madison Square Garden. According to THE TIMES this morning Alphonse G. Koelble, at a meeting held last night, said that at the bazaar there would be exhibited the original submarine. He is quoted in THE TIMES in this manner:

> Years ago a young Irishman stood on the shores of his homeland and saw the flag of England waving from many ships. Then he began to think of how those ships could be sent to the bottom and, for liberty's sake, the flag of England with them. He made the submarine in his mind, but he could get no money to back him. It was years later that I saw John P. Holland launch his first submarine in this country, and it was Irish money that backed him. What Holland didn't finish about that submarine the Germans have, and they made a pretty good job of it. And what Holland didn't finish in attending to England, I hope the Germans will finish.

As I happen to be the man who at the present time has in his keeping the original Holland No. 9, known as the mother of all submarines, I do not feel that in view of the publicity that has been given to the coming of the Holland No. 9 as the centrepiece of the Palace of American Achievements in the Bronx International Exposition, it is fair that the public should receive the impression that the boat will be on exhibition at this bazaar to be held in the Madison Square Garden.

According to the present arrangement, the boat will be moved from its present location in front of the Commercial Museum in Philadelphia on Columbus Day, Oct. 12, and will come directly to the Bronx International Exposition, which is to be on the twenty-five acre tract owned by William Waldorf Astor, and known today as Bronx Oval. Admiral Grant, commander of the United States submarine flotilla; Captain Russel, commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard; a band and a battalion of 350 marines will escort the boat through the streets of Philadelphia. It also is arranged that Mayor Smith of Philadelphia and his official family, with an escort of police for themselves alone, will be in the parade.

So you readily can see that while the boat was preserved by Dr. P. J. Gibbons for sentimental reasons, he having, as he expressed it, "devoted his life to saving things," and presented in perpetuity to a Museum of the Peaceful Arts, while loaned to us temporarily, so that it could be exhibited in a place where the nations of the world can meet in comity and friendship, we do not care to have it exploited as the big feature of a bazaar whose cornerstone seems to be anything but neutral Americanism.

At Mr. Koelble's office at 80 Maiden Lane it was said yesterday that he had not been there for more than two weeks.

TO FORCE MILK DISPUTE INTO COURT

and Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms-Slawson Decker Company, predicted that they would distribute 60 per cent. of their usual output today. R. E. Van Cise, President of the Mutual-McDermott Company, the last of the so-called "Big Three," was even more optimistic, predicting a delivery of 75 per cent. of normal.

The shortage was felt more keenly yesterday in the suburbs than in Manhattan. Most of the nearby towns are dependent on the New York distributing companies for their supply. The companies were able to supply a large percentage of their city customers yesterday, but many Long Island patrons went without milk altogether or received considerably less than their standing orders called for.

Some of the Westchester County suburbs were practically unaffected, as they receive their milk from individual dairy concerns that both produce and distribute milk; but Jersey City and other Jersey suburbs got only about 65 per cent. of their normal supply, and milk drivers distributed notices among patrons that the usual supply might be reduced still further for a few days at least.

So far the shortage has been prevented from affecting the hospitals, dealers agreeing that these institutions shall be served first, but added discomfort is in store for the ordinary consumer, according to reports from various producing centres. These showed last night that even less milk had been started for the city than had been shipped the day before, and in some instances, it was reported, the Dairymen's League was imposing its authority by actual force. Farmers were held up on their way to milk stations, their milk taken from them and dumped into the roads. In many instances it was paid for on the spot by representatives of the league, but in any event it was not permitted to get to the distributers. In addition, it was said, the league was gaining converts in milder manner, many farmers agreeing to cast their lot with those already banded together, especially as they foresaw probable success for the league.

The knowledge that little real milk would reach this city caused the New York Milk Committee to send inspectors to all railroad stations last night to check the exact volume of milk received. Paul E. Taylor, Secretary, said the Health Department was anxious to learn just how much milk was being manufactured within the city by the addition of water to condensed milk. He said the committee was anxious to impress on all consumers the urgent need of using condensed or powdered milk for cooking purposes while the present situation obtained, conserving the fluid supply for those uses in which substitutes would not be satisfactory.

The Health Department also sent inspectors to the railroad stations to watch for milk from some 4,000 farms in the vicinity of New York, which the Department has put under the ban on account of uncleanliness and failure to comply with regulations.

Farmer Held Up and Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Irving P. Waite, owner of a 500-acre farm near Wingdale, was held up by fifteen men today while driving to the Wingdale creamery, dragged from his wagon and beaten, and his milk was dumped into the highway. Waite was then warned not to take any milk to the creamery in the future. He came here and complained to District Attorney Aldrich, who issued warrants for the men Waite recognized. Among them are prominent politicians and dairymen, including a Justice of the Peace and a Deputy Sheriff.

The defendants say they merely stopped Waite to talk with him and that he assaulted one of their party.

Less milk was shipped to New York from Dutchess County tonight than on Sunday night. Not more than thirty cans were shipped, and twenty were from the northern part of the county, where producers are not members of the league.

Dryden Farmer Armed.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—An outbreak against producers who refused to join the milk boycott occurred in Dryden and Virgil, near here. An automobile filled with men said to belong to the Dairymen's League made the rounds of the producers in these sections. Where milk cans stood in front of farmhouses waiting for Borden men, these men warned the producers to take the milk back into the house. If they refused, the milk was emptied into the road. Wagons were stopped and milk spilled out of the cans. One producer drove into Dryden with a shotgun on his wagon seat, but he didn't have to use it. Sheriff Mackey warned the raiders that they must desist, and no further trouble is feared.

Urge Dairymen to Stand Firm.

DELHI, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Considerably less milk was offered to the big distributors today. This was due partly to success of yesterday's blockade and partly to sporadic outbreaks of violence along county roads, where several loads of milk were upset. Business men's associations in various towns are urging dairymen to stand firm, promising aid and co-operation.

Attack by Masked Men.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Officers of the Dairymen's League report that 95 per cent. of the milk producers in Oneida County are standing by the league. They say this is true also in Herkimer, Madison, and surrounding counties. At Cassville yesterday morning three masked men dumped a farmer's milk by the road when he insisted on taking it to the station, and other farmers turned back when they saw the empty cans and milk on the ground.

Borden Trucks Guarded.

Special to The New York Times.

CARMEL, N. Y., Oct. 2.—No milk was shipped today from Putnam County, which ordinarily sends 40,000 quarts of milk daily to New York City. Farmers picketed the roads in the neighborhood of the milk plants all day, and are staying up all night to keep any milk from going out.

The Borden Company sent two motor trucks, each protected by about ten guards and local constables, to try to get milk from neutral farmers today. They rounded up thirty quarts in all, but while it was being transferred from the trucks farmer pickets nearby succeeded in upsetting all of it on the road.

Oscar Bailey, the head of the Dairymen's League for Putnam County, said this evening that he had offered to deliver 20,000 quarts of certified milk per day to the New York Health Department free of charge for the use of infants and hospitals, but that the offer had been refused because he had no means to pasteurize the milk.

Pickets at Milk Trains.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The producers' milk strike in this section is a success. In Broome County milk trains went out empty. Pickets went on duty at 4 A. M. and remained until the milk trains departed. Only three farmers brought milk to the Borden plant in Chenango County, and dairymen refused to deliver milk to twenty-one shipping stations controlled by the large distributing companies. Deliveries were made to three creameries which are to handle the milk independently. Throughout this section the producers converted their first day's accumulation of milk into butter and cheese.

Pay For Milk Destroyed.

Special to The New York Times.

OSWEGO, Oct. 2.—Milk shipments from Oswego County today were from 25 to 50 per cent. normal, according to railroad officials. Riots were reported from Mexico, where non-members of the Dairymen's League, bringing milk to the station, were met by league members and their milk spilled into the road. The owners were paid for the milk destroyed. Milk formerly shipped to New York is now being delivered to co-operative creameries and made into butter and cheese.

Cheese Factories Open Up.

Special to The New York Times.

HERKIMER, Oct. 2.—Manager Taylor of the County Farm Bureau reports that only 150 cans of milk were shipped to New York dealers today from Herkimer County, which is only 8 per cent. of normal. About 1,800 cans were held here and will be made up into cheese and butter. Nine cheese factories reopened Saturday and Sunday to handle the surplus.

Newburg Reduces Shipments.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Local milk conditions are unchanged. The Central Hudson steamboat which usually carries 400 forty-quart cans from here every night left tonight with none. A local hardware dealer has been asked to furnish 1,200 forty-quart cans for a party of farmers in the immediate vicinity. The producers of the league have notified Newburg dealers they may have until Wednesday to decide whether they will meet the advance. Milk has been retailing here at from 8 cents for unpasteurized to 11 for pasteurized and 13 for certified.

Special to The New York Times.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Shipments of milk from points along the Delaware Hudson were still further reduced today, the league workers enlisting other dairymen in the movement.

Special to The New York Times.

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 2.—Only ten cars of milk, with some of the cars containing only a few cans, left here tonight for New York. No milk came in over the Central New England road, and only one car came down on the Litchfield Branch. The Berkshire train had only nine cars, one car containing only six cans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., Oct. 2.—Only a few cans of milk were shipped to New York from this section today. The milk train which goes through here in the afternoon contained 150 cans instead of 1,800.

CONDEMNS MILK SHIPMENT.

8,000 Quarts Turned Back Because They Were Not Pasteurized.

Eight thousand quarts of milk shipped to this city yesterday, presumably by some member of the Dairymen's League, were condemned by an Inspector of the Health Department and ordered to be shipped out of the city. The milk arrived at 1 A. M. on the New York Central from Newport, N. Y., and had no tags to show that it had been pasteurized. The shipment, in 200 forty-quart cans, was claimed by a Brooklyn dealer, but the Health Department Inspector demanded that it be pasteurized before it was put on sale.

The dealer refused to assume the extra expense, and later in the morning Health Commissioner Emerson ordered that the milk either be dumped out or shipped away. It was said that it probably would be sent to New Jersey, where the regulations are less strict.

READY FOR GAELIC SCHOOL.

Language, Music, and Dancing Will Be Taught Here.

Men and women interested in the Gaelic language and literature, who met last night at 154 East Fifty-fourth Street, completed the organization of classes for the study of Gaelic language, music, literature, and dancing, modeled on the line of instruction in St. Enda's School, Dublin, Ireland, founded by the late P. H. Pearse, leader of the Irish rebellion. This work is to be carried on by the Irish Gaelic League, which will change its name to the St. Enda's Branch of the Gaelic League of the State of New York.

Studies are to continue under the direction of Professor James Donnellan, formerly Professor of Gaelic in Connacht Irish College, Galway. He will be assisted by J. McHugh, T. Burke, and others. The classes in Gaelic dancing will be conducted by James Landers. James Cranley will be leader in the instrumental music classes.

New Fall Suits for Men at $24.75

Individuality is indelible—in men and in Macy Clothes. Time and hard wear may leave their impression on both, but true individuality is ineffaceable.

Men inherit it or acquire it—Macy Clothes are born with it.

Just as there are many types of men, so are there many styles of Macy Clothing to fit their personal tastes and requirements.

There is Individuality in Macy Clothing, Whether You Pay $14.75 or $38.50

Naturally, there are differences of materials and finishes, but no matter at what price you buy, a full measure of contentment goes with each suit.

Materials, patterns and models were selected by a staff of men who are wide awake to the demands of fashion, yet discriminating enough to recognize and omit those features that are flashy and, at best, short lived.

The price of Macy Clothing is lower—always—than you pay elsewhere for clothing even approximating it in distinction, comfort and serviceability.

200,000 CHILDREN STAY FROM SCHOOL

Absence of Pupils Attributed to the Infantile Paralysis Scare.

26 NEW CASES IN TWO DAYS

Government Research Workers Predict a Drop to Ten Cases a Week by Nov. 15.

More than 200,000 pupils who had registered for attendance in the schools this Fall were not in attendance on Sept. 27, according to figures published by the Board of Education yesterday. It was supposed that the infantile paralysis scare kept many of these away. The number registered was 829,191 and the attendance 628,728.

These figures include elementary, high, training, vocational, and truant schools. The registration record showed 758,138 pupils registered in the elementary schools last year, which was 5,606 more than this year, but only 69,745 in the high schools last year, which was 2,866 less than this year.

There were 26 new cases of infantile paralysis and 14 deaths due to the disease in the last two days, according to the Health Department's report issued yesterday. Sixteen cases occurred on Sunday and 10 yesterday. Six deaths were reported Sunday and 8 yesterday.

The cases and deaths by boroughs were as follows: Manhattan on Sunday reported 4 new cases and 5 deaths; yesterday the report was 6 new cases and 5 deaths. Brooklyn reported Sunday 5 cases and no deaths; yesterday, 3 new cases and 3 deaths. The Bronx reported Sunday 6 new cases and 1 death; yesterday, 1 new case and no deaths. No cases or deaths were reported from Queens either day. Richmond reported 1 new case on Sunday, but no other cases and no deaths.

Florida lifted the ban it had placed on travelers from New York on Sept. 30, Pennsylvania lifted it yesterday and New Jersey will do so today, according to Federal health officials.

Members of the Government corps of research workers sent here under Dr. C. H. Lavinder to study poliomyelitis have figured out mathematically that by Nov. 15 there will be only ten cases of infantile paralysis to be reported a week. The entire corps are unanimous in declaring that poliomyelitis as an epidemic has passed.

Readers of THE TIMES yesterday contributed $68 for the fund to buy toys and braces for the victims of the epidemic. The contributors were as follows: Mrs. C. J. Govern, $50; "Three Little Friends," $8; "A. L., B. L., and E. L." and Natalie Steiner, $5 each.

INTERBORO CARS SHAKEN.

Frightened Women Carried Across Third Rail After Collision.

Two carloads of passengers were badly shaken and frightened, one passenger was painfully hurt, and a dozen got small cuts and bruises at 9 o'clock last night when a shuttle train of the Interborough, eastbound to the Harlem River station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, took an open switch 150 feet from the station and crashed into a standing electric engine and crane on the westbound track.

A dozen policemen from the Alexander Avenue Station, on strike duty in the nearby yards, gathered in time to carry frightened women across the third rail and to the station platform. Two ambulance surgeons treated several of the passengers for minor injuries, and one, Joseph Seiter of 436 East 138th Street, a New Haven brakeman, was taken to Lincoln Hospital because of multiple contusions. The motorman blamed the towerman for the open switch, and the towerman blamed the motorman for running into it. Both were old employes of the Interborough.

DANES DISCUSS SALE.

President of Parliamentary Commission Urges Quick Decision.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 2, (via London.)—The Parliamentary Sale Commission commenced its work today. The two Conservative members demanded that certain documents be produced and asked a lot of questions, whereupon the commission's President, Mr. Nergaard, who is also President of the Radical group in the lower house, earnestly warned the members to try and finish their work as quickly as possible. The negotiations will be continued tomorrow.

It is expected that the commission will not finish its work before Governor Helweg Larsen of the West Indies, who is on his way home, arrives here and is able to appear before that body.

J. Noble Hayes Seriously Ill.

J. Noble Hayes, a lawyer of 111 East Seventeenth Street with offices at 80 Maiden Lane, is seriously ill in Roosevelt Hospital. Mr. Hayes underwent an operation for stomach trouble two weeks ago. He is now suffering from peritonitis, and a relapse yesterday led his friends to feel uneasiness as to the outcome. Mr. Hayes was one of the founders of the City Club. He is a member of the Professional Ethic Committee of the Bar Association, and has been counsel to many public commissions.

BETRAYED BY A QUARREL.

Post Office Clerk Pleaded Guilty to Theft from Sheepshead Bay Station.

The hiding place of Fred C. Young, the Post Office clerk who disappeared from his home at 159 Bleecker Street, Brooklyn, on Sept. 25 on the eve of his arraignment in the Federal Court on an indictment charging him with the theft of $198 from the Sheepshead Bay Post Office station, was revealed yesterday to the Federal authorities by a relative with whom he had a quarrel. Deputy Marshal Hyman Shorenstein went to Cooper Street and Central Avenue and arrested Young, who was taken before Judge Veeder.

He pleaded guilty to the larceny charge and was sentenced to eighteen months in the Federal prison at Atlanta. Young is married and has a wife and child. When he left home he told his wife that he was going to commit suicide.

On the Wings of Autumn

Clothes That Fit
The Spirit of the Wind

THE season of ruddy cheeks and glowing hearts is upon us. Facing the wind in an aeroplane or a motor car—shooting duck from a boat or grouse from the heather—hunting moose in Maine or an October day's pleasure on the links—we are all country gentlemen and country gentlewomen.

Through the haze of Indian Summer comes the invitation we cannot resist, and would not if we could. In our sporting clothes we take on the bright colors of the Autumn leaves or the chromes and tans of the stubble and the moor—those smart accessories which quicken the keen enjoyment of sport.

When frosty mornings are followed by sunny afternoons—when there is inspiration in the open and a touch of melancholy in the shadows—who wouldn't be a Robin Hood for a week-end, or a day stolen from the office? And to feel the part means to look the part.

An Abercrombie & Fitch Co. Country Club Suit from the Largest Assortment of Women's Sporting Apparel Ever Presented

Smartness That Is Not City Made

There is a fashion of the fields—a style among sportsmen—that grows up out where the aeroplanes and golf balls are flying. It passes from one sportsman to another, and is approved by men and women who feel instinctively the correctness of the thing.

One feels it sitting around the fireside of the country club, or in the company of seasoned hunters—observes it in the hang of a hunting coat, or in the English fabric of a country knockabout suit.

• • •

For many years we depended upon England for these ideas, because the men and women of Engand had more time for sport than we had. To-day America leads in so many of the sports—her army of sportsmen and sportswomen has grown so prodigiously, and sport has become such an essential part of American life, that it is only natural we should have in New York "the greatest sporting goods store."

And it is equally natural that the smart correctness of sporting apparel should be developed in this establishment.

• • •

On separate floors of the Abercrombie & Fitch Co. store are the largest men's and women's sporting apparel departments in the world.

Every suit and coat, every hat and other accessory, has been developed to its present form by the actual demand of sportsmen who are the leaders in their different fields of sporting activity.

Hand-woven fabrics have been brought from every corner of the earth—in many instances have been specially woven to the specifications of the house—in order that this sporting apparel shall represent the utmost that the world can supply.

* * *

Explorers in the Arctic are to-day wearing outfits designed and made in this men's sporting apparel department, of materials no other house in America or Europe could supply.

Hunting parties from Maine to California, now in the woods, are using Abercrombie & Fitch clothes, as well as guns and camping outfits.

Officers in nearly every army in Europe have received some portion of their equipment from this store.

Foresters in the Northwest and golfers in Long Island, alike have been supplied with the clothes and hats and shoes suited to their needs.

And where is the country club whose women do not look to the women's sporting apparel department of this house for the things which combine correctness and smartness in a measure unknown elsewhere?

• • •

If your need is a knickerbocker golf suit—here is the largest assortment in existence, at $25 to $38—with long trousers if you choose. Women's suits, $30 to $100.

If it is an automobile coat—here is everything from an imported "trench coat" to a big, loose sporting ulster, as high as $110, as low as $30 for men and $19.50 for women.

If it is an aeroplane outfit—here are the new Abercrombie & Fitch fleece lined suits for Autumn.

If it is a hunting outfit—here are the clothes for the North Woods, the Rockies or the Carolina canebrakes, and for the duck blinds and wild rice fields of the nearby coast.

In sporting boots and shoes—literally everything, from the high boots of the hunter, the forester and mining engineer, to the correct type of country walking shoes for women—a line of exclusive footwear, designed by this house, developed to a point never before known.

THINKS JAPAN'S AIM IN CHINA IS FRIENDLY

Tokio Believes Purpose Is to Consolidate Positions and Influence Now Held.

RIGHTS IN SPECIAL ZONES

South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia as Spheres for the Mikado's Subjects.

TOKIO, Sept. 12, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—In connection with the pending negotiations with China over the Cheng-Chiatun incident, the impression exists in diplomatic circles here that Japan merely desires at this time to consolidate the position and influence she already has obtained in China. Concretely this would take the form of obtaining certain police rights in South Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia which Japan regards as special Japanese zones of influence. It might also include the right to the appointment of Japanese advisers for these districts.

A treaty concerning South Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia was signed at Peking in May, 1915, following the presentation of an ultimatum by Japan to China. This convention gave to Japanese subjects the right to lease land and erect buildings in South Manchuria necessary for commercial, industrial, and agricultural purposes, as well as the liberty to enter, travel, and reside in that district. It also granted the right for subjects of Japan and China jointly to carry on agricultural and industrial undertakings in eastern Inner Mongolia. Also, China engaged to open as early as possible suitable cities and towns in eastern Inner Mongolia for the residence and trade of foreigners.

Loans from Japan.

Among other things China agreed that when it was proposed to build railways in South Manchuria or Inner Mongolia Chinese capital would be employed, but that if foreign capital should be required China would negotiate first with Japanese capitalists for a loan. Furthermore, when China proposed to raise a loan abroad on the security of the taxes of these two regions, excepting the salt-gabelle and customs duties, it was agreed that the Chinese Government first would consult Japanese capitalists.

This treaty gave Japan many privileges in the two districts, and it is apparent that Japan now desires to consolidate what has been acquired by obtaining the right to establish police stations and acquire some measure of police control. Japan gives as reasons for her move the insecurity of life and property caused by collisions between Chinese troops and Mongolian bandits, as was evidenced at Cheng-Chiatun, when seventeen Japanese soldiers and an officer were killed or wounded.

It is evident that the Japanese do not consider that police rights would involve a change in the status quo in China, regarding it merely as a desirable extension of Japanese influence, which, they contend, will work for the best interest of China. It is understood that George W. Guthrie, the American Ambassador, has had a series of conferences recently with Viscount Ishii, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, and it is believed that they concerned informal inquiries regarding the demands on China, as well as the alliance with Russia.

Secret Clauses Rumored.

The report persists in Tokio that the alliance contains secret clauses, and third parties are anxious to know whether there is anything to affect their interests. Japan officially has assured the United States Government that the alliance in no way affects the status quo of China. Neutrals appear especially interested as to how it would affect the question of equal opportunity, but they have been assured that the equality of opportunity will exist in the future, as in the past.

Some Americans here say the facts that Great Britain and France declare they are familiar with the treaty in its entirety and that it meets with their approval are in the nature of a guarantee for America, because the interests of those countries in China are huge and doubtless will be developed after the present war.

It is believed here that the Far East will take on an added importance after the war and it is thought likely that among other things Great Britain will greatly augment her fleet in Oriental waters.

Meantime, as stated above, it is regarded as likely that Japan will seek to develop her pacific ascendency in China by affirming her position and sphere of influence in eastern Inner Mongolia and South Manchuria. A loan by Japan in conjunction with the Entente Allies seems very probable. It is reported here that Kinichi Kawakami, a well-known financier, formerly on the board of the South Manchuria Railway Company, will be appointed to the post of financial adviser to the Chinese Government on the recommendation of Baron Hayasai, Japan's new Minister to Peking. The engagement is said to be connected with the proposed loan to China. Of even greater importance, according to the Japanese, is the recent appointment of General Nobuzumi Aoki, of the Japanese Army, to the post of military adviser to the Chinese Government.

All these developments are interpreted as steps by Japan toward the spread of her friendly influence in China, which, according to Japanese doctrine, should continue, until it becomes predominant as compared with that of other powers.

ROOKIES ON THEIR WAY BACK

Start for Plattsburg After Defeating Enemy Again Near Border.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 2, (by Courier from Ellensburgh Centre.)—The turning point of the homeward hike began this morning, when the student soldiers left Churubusco, which was the furthermost point from the base camp. About half way between the camp of last night and this place the advance guard of the Tenth Training Regiment came in contact with an advance guard of the enemy force, the enemy today being the cavalry and machine gun troop. Motor cycle scouts hurried back to the main body with the news of the enemy's approach.

The defenders, who were composed of the infantry and a company of field artillery, took up a position on a farm equipped with thick stone fences. In the meantime the infantry's advance guard had a brush with the enemy advance guard, capturing three of the troopers and their mounts, and putting the remainder to flight.

It was an hour later before the enemy advance guard again appeared, this time riding directly into the intrenched position of the defenders, and followed at an unusually close distance by the main body of troopers and the machine gun men. Both the infantry and artillery sent out "a murderous fire" when the enemy was within 800 yards of their line, and before the troopers, who had been thrown into confusion, had recovered from their surprise the infantry, after firing another volley, jumped the fence, and charged with bayonets fixed. An entire enemy troop was captured, as were several of the machine gun men, and the remainder of the force was put to flight.

ALIEN NURSE LOSES POINT.

Court Overrules Miss Prengle's Demurrer in Suit to Oust Her.

Miss Eugenia S. Prengle, supervising nurse in charge of the milk stations conducted by the Board of Health in Brooklyn, who is a defendant with other city officials in a taxpayer's suit brought by Robert Hillyer to oust her on the ground that she is an alien, lost a point yesterday in the contest by the decision of Justice Kelly in the Supreme Court. He overruled the demurrers filed by the defendants to the complaint. Hugo Hirsch, her counsel, said he would appeal.

According to the decision the complaint stands, and Miss Prengle, with Controller Prendergast, Health Commissioner Emerson, and the Municipal Civil Service Commission, must file an answer to it. The demurrers alleged that the complaint did not state a cause of action and that the Municipal Civil Service Commission waived the question of Miss Prengle's nationality when she was permitted to take the competitive examination leading to her appointment.

Miss Prengle is a native of Germany. She entered the employ of the city in 1910 at a salary of $900 a year, as a nurse. Her salary is now $1,140. The court is asked to enjoin Controller Prendergast from paying her this salary. The complaint alleges that the law prohibits the employing as well as the appointment of aliens to classified civil service positions.

Miss Prengle has taken out her first papers, but has not received her final citizenship papers. Last Spring she was the object of much criticism by twenty nurses under her charge, who complained that she had threatened to make it unpleasant for them if they did not sign a petition asking the United States Government to prohibit the exportation of munitions.

ZEPPELIN DESTROYER TRIED

New Curtiss Triplane Rises 10,000 Feet in Ten Minutes.

A Zeppelin destroyer was tested on Sunday at the Curtiss Aeroplane Company's flying grounds in Buffalo, N. Y. Reports of its performance which reached here yesterday say that it is the most remarkable machine ever built for pursuit and Zeppelin chasing. Victor Carlstrom, the long-distance record holder, was the pilot and tested the aeroplane under all conditions, remaining in the air for more than an hour and landing with ease.

The aeroplane is a tractor triplane and was developed in answer to the demand for an aeroplane which could leave the ground, overtake and destroy a raiding Zeppelin. The new machine made a maximum speed of 120 miles an hour and throttled down until it made 45 miles an hour. This is probably the greatest difference between the high and low speeds of any machine now in use. Both the British Sopwith and the French Nieuport pursuit machines make about the same high speed but cannot be throttled down to much less than 65 to 70 miles an hour, thus making it difficult to land without breakage.

The chief feature of the new triplane model is its ability to climb. On Sunday it ascended 10,000 feet in ten minutes, or at the rate of 1,000 feet a minute. It left the ground after a very short run and climbed at an angle nearer the vertical than any of the other fast machines yet developed.

ORMSBY RETURNS TO BROWN

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2.—Brown came through its first game Saturday with Rhode Island State in very fair shape. The only man reporting at the field this afternoon in poor condition was Jemail, one of the half backs, who received a slight ankle sprain.

There was no scrimmage this afternoon, the five catches devoting their time to drilling first and second elevens on plays and signals. Ormsby, one of last season's ends, was a welcome addition to the squad, for there has been a seeming lack of candidates for this position. There has been much uncertainty as to who would take Butner's place, this player having not returned to college.

CARTER SAYS HUGHES MISREPRESENTS LAW

Head of Firemen's Brotherhood Denies Labor Forced Eight-Hour Enactment.

SAYS THE RAILROADS DID IT

Declares No Labor Organization Demanded That Congress Should Yield or Surrender.

Special to The New York Times.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 2.—W. S. Carter, President of the Locomotive Firemen's Federation, today issued a statement charging Charles E. Hughes with gross misrepresentation to get votes. His statement in part follows:

"If Congressmen, Senators, the President, and other men in public life are to suffer defeat simply because they favor an eight-hour day and say it was just and right, then any man in public life would be a fool to again support an eight-hour day.

"As a part of his political program Mr. Hughes is including as a special feature of his campaign speeches an attack on the eight-hour law and upon all connected with its enactment.

"Nothing can be further from the truth than to say that the railway brotherhoods 'demanded' of Congress the enactment of the eight-hour law. The railway brotherhoods sought no such law. The enactment of the law was the culmination of a stand-pat policy on the part of the railway officials.

"Either Mr. Hughes has been grossly deceived by his political advisers or he is deliberately attempting to grossly deceive his hearers in order to get their votes. No labor organization has asked Congress 'to yield' and no body of labor men has asked Congress or Mr. Hughes to 'surrender anything.' When a candidate for President or any other aspirant for a political office seeks to make political capital out of the position of either the Presidency of the United States or of these brotherhoods in the negotiations and developments that led up to the enactment of the eight-hour law, he knowingly or unknowingly misrepresents the facts."

E. P. COSTIGAN FOR WILSON.

Colorado Progressive Leader Approves President's Efforts for Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 2.—Edward P. Costigan, for four years a leader of the Progressive Party in Colorado and twice its candidate for Governor, has issued a statement pledging his support to Woodrow Wilson on the ground that "the public welfare will be best safeguarded in 1916 by a national Democratic victory under the present forward-looking leadership."

"There are many Progressives," he says, "who feel that the present national Administration should have dealt more firmly and skillfully with riotous chaos in Mexico and with a world in arms; yet, we decline to follow the political critics who fail to take account of the responsible burdens of the present Administration, and who, with the manifest purpose of riding into office, without declaring whether their own policy is definitely for war, pour wholesale condemnation on an Administration which, when the scales were evenly balanced, threw the weight of its influence for peace, rather than aggression.

"Had the course openly or impliedly sanctioned by Republican leaders been pursued, we might now be needless partisans in the strife of Europe, and the soil of the South would be freshly reddened and fertilized by the blood and bodies of countless American boys who would have sacrificed all following our flag through flaming fields to vanquished heights.

"Speaking as a Progressive onlooker, contrasting the rank and file of Republicans and Democrats, I find justification in the apparent circumstance that at this time the greater proportion, though by no means all, of course, of what Lincoln called the plain people of this country are to be found in the Democratic Party."

MURPHY MEETS McCORMICK.

Tammany Leader's Loyalty Assured, National Chairman Says.

National Chairman Vance McCormick met Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, unexpectedly at the reception to the Democratic State candidates at the National Democratic Club last night. The two men shook hands and were soon quickly engrossed in a deep conversation. The conference lasted for ten minutes, when Senator Robert F. Wagner and Stuart Gibboney joined it.

When Mr. McCormick was asked later if Mr. Murphy had given assurance that Tammany would support the ticket to its utmost, Mr. McCormick answered:

"Mr. Murphy did not have to give me any such assurance. He is a loyal Democrat, and, of course, will do all he can for the national ticket. We had a very delightful conference."

WINDOW WASHERS STRIKE.

They Demand $18 for 48 Hours' Work, Rain or Shine.

And now the window washers are on strike. They left their work yesterday morning some 800 strong and their leaders asserted that persons moving into new apartments and others reopening their houses for the Fall would have to look through dirty panes until the employers agreed to their demands. Members of the employers' association replied that they would soon be able to replace the strikers with strike, not window, breakers, and that they would not yield to their former employes because they were not financially able to do so.

Daniel Fraad, President of the Vienna Window Cleaning Company, one of the employers, yesterday addressed a letter to his customers telling them work on their windows might be delayed. He added that the employers were willing to pay $16 a week for fifty-one hours work, with Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays off. The men are striking for $18 a week of forty-eight hours, with half a day off on Saturday and double pay for work on Sundays and holidays, as well as pay on rainy days when they say they cannot work.

ENDS 250-MILE FLIGHT.

Hydroaeroplane Reaches Boston in Test Journey for the Army.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—A hydroaeroplane flight from Amityville, L. I., to this city, a distance of approximately 250 miles, ended today when Captain Leo A. Dewey, U. S. A., and Lawrence B. Sperry, an aviator, of Brooklyn, landed at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The flight began on Saturday, but a heavy gale forced the aviators several hours later to alight on the sea off Block Island

They were rescued by a Coast Guard crew and continued their trip today, passing over Forts Rodman and Adams. Following the shore line, they flew over the northerly side of the Cape Cod Canal, rounded Minot's Light and passed over Boston Harbor to the navy yard.

The flight was made to test the adaptability of ordinary flying boats as a means of national defense. The route and progress of the machine were checked by signals dropped by Captain Dewey and radio messages to the forts along the line of flight.

Nujol
For Constipation

AS CLEAR AS CRYSTAL

Hold a bottle of Nujol up to the light. Its crystal transparency is without a flaw. Every trace of impurity, every vestige of color or "bloom" has been removed by varied and many times repeated processes of refining.

Nujol is water-white, tasteless and odorless. It neither looks, tastes, nor smells like "medicine." As a matter of fact it isn't medicine at all, in the ordinary sense. It is not a laxative or a purgative, is not absorbed by the system, hence doesn't form a habit. It acts in effect as an internal lubricant, softening the contents of the intestines and so promoting normal movements.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."

LAUGHTER APLENTY IN 'BUNKER BEAN'

TAYLOR HOLMES AS BEAN

This Facile Farceur Clowns It Extravagantly and Half the Possibilities Escape Him.

HIS MAJESTY BUNKER BEAN. A Comedy in Four Acts and Five Scenes. By Lee Wilson Dodd. From the novel of the same title by Harry Leon Wilson. At the Astor.

Pops	Charles Abbe
Bulger	Jack Devereaux
Larabee	Horace Mitchell
The Flapper	Florence Shirley

The Very Young Minister	John Hogan

"His Majesty Bunker Bean" has finally come to town. This dramatization of Harry Leon Wilson's famous story was a little old last year's triumph in Chicago, but only tantalizing echoes of its laughter reached Broadway until last evening, when it came to the Astor Theatre, with Taylor Holmes as the immortal Bunker. Mr. Wilson's book is a penetrating study of the psychology of timidity, a memorable and richly amusing development of "As a man thinketh." Now this book, which is a delightful and probably a permanent contribution to American literature, has been turned into a superficial, workaday, laughable farcical comedy which every one who read it will want to see. And the "Bunker Bean" enthusiasts will be amused by the play, even if they are not completely satisfied.

Here are all our old friends. The choleric and explosive Breed is played to perfection by the veteran Charles Abbe, easily the best performance of the evening. Pretty Florence Shirley, who has borrowed Elsie Leslie's voice for the occasion, just perfectly knows how to play the Flapper, and does so to her heart's content and ours. Grandma the demon, the greatest pitcher the world has ever known, the blatant Bulger, the wily Balthazar—all have stepped lifelike and welcome from the pages of the book. All save Bunker himself. The directors of this enterprise had no right to count on any one in the audience being indifferent to the original, and, to those who were devoted to the original, the disappointment of the evening will be Taylor Holmes's embodiment of His Majesty Bunked Bean.

Long and favorably known in this neighborhood, Mr. Holmes is an expert, engaging and facile farceur, whom many of us believe capable of fine work in high comedy. He is a born entertainer, and, from the beginning to the end of the new play at the Astor, he is amusing. But he is disappointing, because half the subtleties of the rôle escape him. Any persistent playgoer could name several of our younger actors who could play Bunker Bean ten times better than Taylor Holmes does. For that matter, Mr. Holmes himself is one of them.

It is not merely that he indulges in wild and inexcusable exaggerations nor that he resorts from time to time to vaudeville tricks of a Harry Foxy kind. It is not merely that Lee Wilson Dodd, in making his dramatization, did not build the character of Bunker with much care. Such aids as he did furnish to the actor of the rôle Mr. Holmes throws away as if he had no use for them—as if, in fact, he did not know what they were for.

Consider, for example, what Mr. Holmes does with those priceless lines which Bean used to use in so telling a fashion. You remember that poor, timid Bunker, who yearned to be lofty and distinguished, was much struck when the Flapper airily referred to a fine automobile as "a little old last year's car," and when Breed said superbly on one occasion: "I can imagine nothing of less consequence." Bunker pondered over them in secret, rehearsed them to himself, and then used them with a nonchalant grandeur that was simply devastating. Mr. Holmes, for reasons that do not appear on the surface, simply fritters these opportunities. It is he who is the Waster. And so it goes all through.

That is why those who laughed immoderately at Wilson's story, reread it several times, quoted it daily and can never forget it, will be disappointed in the play. But they will be amused by it, nevertheless. They will find that the dramatization follows the book with surprising and easy fidelity and tells neatly enough the story of a cowed and credulous youth, who became kingly when he was tricked into believing himself a reincarnation of Napoleon, a blood-thirsty Doge or so, and an Egyptian king of the pre-dynastic era.

This delusion of grandeur lasted long enough for him to daze every one, make a fortune on the stock market, and elope with the Flapper. And even though his dream came to an end, it had lasted long enough for him to realize that, whereas he was nothing but little old George W. Upstart, that was all one had to be to get on in this world of bluff. You see it is just another version of the idea Mr. Thomas used so well in "As a Man Thinks."

As for those who have never read "Bunker Bean"—well, it takes all sorts of people to make a world.

"THE PINK RUBY" SHOWN.

Josephine Victor Appears at the Palace in a Comic Blood-Curdler.

"The Pink Ruby," another one-act play to be added to the list of chromatic aberrations by John Willard, was presented at the Palace yesterday afternoon. It was screamingly funny, although there is no certainty that the author intended it to be. Still he must have meant us to laugh when, for Josephine Victor, as Shifty Sadie, he wrote these deathless lines:

"I'm a confidence woman, but I'm straight and clean. I know I'm a crook, but otherwise I'm as good as your own mother."

The piece was acted in the same spirit in which it was written. Other entertainers this week are Belle Storey with all her high notes in good repair, Charles E. Evans and Helena Phillips in an old-fashioned and amusing sketch; the beautiful Morgan dancers, and Joseph E. Howard, who sings his old songs and a new one. Wearied of Hawaiian ditties, Mr. Howard has gone to Brazil and brought back from there an unforgettable couplet that is all about a hero from Rio de Janeiro. You see the possibilities.

"ST. FRANCIS" IS SUNG.

Ariani's New Oratorio Makes a Deep Impression at Franciscan Jubilee.

In commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first church of the Franciscan Order in New York, a concert was given at Carnegie Hall last night at which there was a first performance of an oratorio written for the occasion, "St. Francis," text by Father Sixtus Lagorio and music by Adrian Ariani, for which the soloists were Mme. Alda and Messrs Luca Botta, Adamo Didur, and Mario Laurenti of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The chorus was that of the Metropolitan Opera House, and the orchestra was made up principally of members of the Philharmonic Society. Many dignitaries of the church attended the presentation.

The new oratorio made a very deep impression. The composer, appropriately enough, has laid the foundation of his style on the ancient modes that still survive to some extent in the Gregorian plain-chant of the Catholic Church. Through Mr. Ariani's music this influence is always to be felt. But it is only a basis. On it he has woven a score that is thoroughly modern in its attention to coloring, its clarity of form, and its breadth of line. Orchestral and choral resources are explored to far reaches, and the results are put forth with deep musicianly skill.

Mr. Ariani has been rather obscure here during the comparatively short time he has been in this country. It was with an effort of the memory that he was placed as an artist who had appeared here in a few piano recitals and as soloist with an orchestra. It will be easy to remember him after this, for, without going into details, it may be said his work established itself as a genuinely significant creative effort. If the performance had not suffered from the necessary limitations imposed when a purely temporary organization attempts so complicated and extensive a task, if the composer had been so fortunately situated as to have his music put forward in a manner more nearly approaching its worth, one is tempted to think that "a genuinely significant creative effort" would not seem a phrase inclusive enough to sum up the impression.

The presentation will be repeated again tomorrow evening, and on that occasion it should be heard by an audience far larger than assembled last night to hear it. The work makes such demands that it will probably not be repeated soon, and there will not be many students and amateurs of choral music who will not be able to learn something from hearing it.

'BACKFIRE' IS 'MELODRAMA.'

Dramatic Speeches in Stuart Fox's Play Provoke Laughter.

Hiram Page	Frederick Truesdell
Lydia Page	Mary Boland
Marjory Page	Adrienne Bonnell
Mathew Garth	Ogden Crane
Herbert Garth	Henry Gsell
Sally Garth	Aileen Poe
Silas Donaldson	Harry Burkhardt
Bob Padgett	Roy Briant
Frederick Harvey	William Bonelli
Doctor Maynard	Fred W. Peters
Dupin	Fred W. Peters
Jules	Martin Cheesman
Maid	Caroline Campe

"Backfire" is the title of a play which opened last night at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre. The program described the entertainment as a "melodramatic play," but the gales of laughter with which the audience greeted most of the "tense" situations and dramatic speeches made it seem that the audience regarded it differently.

The play is by Stewart Fox, the pen name of an out-of-town business man, and is, by the way, his first. The acting of Mary Boland, who took the part of Lydia, and of Frederick Truesdale, who played Hiram Page, relieves an otherwise uninspired cast.

$10,000,000 FILM COMPANY.

Standard Film Industries, Inc., Has Anthony J. Drexel as a Director.

The Standard Film Industries, Inc., is the name of a general motion picture company incorporated under the laws of Virginia with a capitalization of $10,000,000. Louis B. Jennings, President of the American Film Laboratories, Inc., is President of the new concern and among its directors are Eliot Norton, Anthony J. Drexel, Philip O. Mills and George J. Hurty. The temporary offices of the corporation are in the American Laboratories Building, 69-71 West Ninetieth Street.

The Standard will engage in every branch of the film business. It will license companies to manufacture high-grade photoplays and has arranged for a distribution service throughout the United States.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

E. H. Sothern's tour in "If I Were King" for the benefit of the British Red Cross will begin Nov. 6 in Providence. All of the principal cities of the country will be visited.

O. E. Wee and Edwin F. Reilly, who recently formed a partnership to produce plays, have acquired the dramatic rights to Mary J. Holmes's novel, "Dora Keane." Lem B. Parker, who dramatized Miss Holmes's "Lena Rivers," is making the stage version of the book.

Joe Jackson, whose pantomimic act is familiar in these parts, introduced his act in the Hippodrome revue yesterday. The Pavlowa Polka was another new number added to the program.

Fay Bainter has been placed under a long-term contract by William Harris, Jr., as the result of her success in that manager's production of "Arms and the Girl."

"Miss George Washington," the story of a girl who could not tell the truth, will be the next picture for which Marguerite Clark will act. Miss Clark has only recently returned from a long vacation.

NOVEL PLAYLETS IN COMEDY'S NEW BILL

Alice Brown's "The Sugar House" Is a Well-Written Study of New England Life.

A TYPICAL FRENCH FARCE

Washington Square Players Also Present "A Merry Death," a Harlequinade, and a Burlesque.

A MERRY DEATH—A harlequinade by Nicholas Evreinov, translated from the Russian by C. E. Bechofer; LOVER'S LUCK—A comedy by Georges de Porto-Riche, translated from the French by Ralph Roeder; THE SUGAR HOUSE—play by Alice Brown; SISTERS OF SUSANNE—A farce by Philip Moeller. Four playlets acted by the following Washington Square Players: Philip Tonge, Edward Balzerit, Erskine Sanford, Florence Enright, Helen Westley, Gwaldys Wynne, Jose Ruben, Jean Strange, Arthur Hohl, Marjorie Vonnegut, Miriam Kiper, Robert Strange, Spalding Hall, Mary Coates, and Ralph Roeder. At the Comedy.

The program presented by the Washington Square Players last night, the first new bill this band of adventurers into the exotic has given since taking possession of the Comedy Theatre, is for the most part good. It consists of a stern little American melodrama, a typical French comedy, a Russian harlequinade, and a thoroughly W. S. P. burlesque.

The melodrama opens the program. It is called "The Sugar House" and its author is Alice Brown, whose "Children of Earth" won the $10,000 prize offered by Winthrop Ames for the best American drama several years ago. Miss Brown's stories of New England life have long been familiar to magazine readers. In this little play she has translated some of her characters to the stage and has told effectively the story of the reclamation of a husband through his wife's unselfish love and the magic of the knowledge that he is to become a father. The action passes in a sugar house in a New England wood, whither the man has gone with the village jade and whither follow the enraged villagers. It is a well-written genre study that sustains the interest to the end.

Georges de Porto-Riche's comedy, "Lover's Luck," has for almost a score of years been a favorite with French audiences, but unless the information at hand is in error this is the first time it has been acted here. It is frankly Gallic in its point of view, and yet it is so brightly written and was acted with such discretion that it did not seem distasteful. One could not help wondering, though, whether marital infidelity would be the principal theme of French comedy after the war.

"A Merry Death," a harlequinade by Nicholas Evreinov, translated from the Russian by C. E. Bechofer, was acceptable primarily for the setting designed by Robert Edmond Jones and the costumes from designs by George Wolfe Plank. Mr. Jones provided putty-colored draperies, a neutral background against which Mr. Plank's lovely colorings showed to fine advantage. The harlequinade itself was interesting as a novelty, but this form of entertainment has always proved an alien spirit to American audiences.

Philip Moeller's "Sisters of Susanna" is in the vein of burlesque employed in his earlier sketch, "Helena's Husband." It purports to deal with an episode recorded in the Books of the Apocrypha, wherein the men of a certain biblical city spent their time peering through chinks in garden walls to see what they could see.

The thing began capitally and was excrutiatingly funny, but it descended into hopeless vulgarity toward the end because its author did not seem to be able to discriminate between wit and filth. But it was almost worth while for the stunning setting provided by Lee Simonson, a brilliant orange wall reared against a blue sky.

The most promising feature of the program is that the organization has been strengthened by the addition of several excellent players. Chief of these is José Ruben, who was one of the mainstays of Lucien Bonheur's Théâtre Français several seasons ago. Mr. Ruben gave a delightful performance in the rôle of the husband in the French sketch, a performance touched with much grace and humor. Then there were Gladys Wynne, a niece of Edith Wynne Matthison; Mary Coates, Philip Tonge, Marjorie Vonnegut, Miriam Kiper, and Edward Balzerit, all competent for the rôles assigned them and valuable additions to the company. Arthur E. Hohl and Helen Westley, among the older members, should be mentioned for their contributions.

All in all the new program marks a distinct step forward for the Players.

NO DELAY OF PHILADELPHIA.

Liner, Despite Fire, Will Be Ready to Sail as Scheduled on Saturday.

Despite the fire which caused the Philadelphia of the American Line to race from midocean to this port, the ship will be ready to sail for Liverpool again on Saturday, according to schedule.

F. W. Ridgway, Manager of the operating department of the International Mercantile Marine Company, said yesterday the hatches had been taken off No. 7 hold of the liner and the cargo removed.

There was a quantity of straw braid, used in making women's hats, and bales of silk in the hold, he said, but no goods that might be likely to start a fire. There was little water in the lower hold, as the fire had been kept under control by steam. Some of the wood sheathing at the side of the ship was scorched.

Resinol
the tested skin-treatment

If you want to experiment on your skin, there are plenty of treatments to experiment with. But if you want something whose value has been proven by years and years of successful use, if you want a treatment that doctors prescribe constantly, that you know contains nothing harsh or injurious, you will find it in Resinol Ointment, aided by Resinol Soap. It usually checks the irritation instantly, and rarely fails to clear away all trace of eczema or similar tormenting skin-trouble.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. For trial free, write to Dept. 27-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

"THE PARTY THAT MERELY WANTS CONTROL."

Mr. WILSON'S speech at Shadow Lawn Saturday will be illustrated and complemented by the funeral harmony act, the meeting of Mr. TAFT and Mr. ROOSEVELT at the Union League Club tonight. The leaders of the two factions of the Republican Party, unchanged, unreconciled, irreconcilable, are lugged into one room to create a phantasmagoria of Republican unity. But no funeral handshake is needed to make the Republican Party united on its cardinal policy of getting back to power, of recovering the offices.

Through all his cloud of commonplaces, his rambling indirections, his "vacillating" hunt for issues, this is the only discernible object of Mr. HUGHES'S campaign. His "Americanism" is but the hare-hearted circumlocution and generality of the 100 per cent. candidate who dares not offend the men of dual allegiance. Mr. WILSON'S Americanism is plain, defiant. He will not truckle for votes. Preparedness is a Democratic achievement. Much of the legislation of "social justice" which the Progressives cried for the Democrats have passed. The "motley company," as Mr. WILSON calls it, of Republicans and returned Progressives is united in longing for the heaven-high protective tariff. The country is prosperous, but Democratic prosperity is "false." Both Progressive and Hunker Republicans rally around the Ark of Protection. They yearn, as Mr. WILSON says, for "the good old days of MARK HANNA." A tariff made by its beneficiaries: that is the true Republican tariff. Mr. LIPPITT and Mr. CRANE and Mr. PENROSE and Mr. SMOOT can be one with Mr. ROOSEVELT on that sacred platform, no matter with what gauze of dupery they seek to cover it.

The voters showing no wild longing for Republican prosperity, "the party that merely wants control" picked up the eight-hour legislation as an eleventh-hour issue. The humbug that permeates and drips from every part of this campaign for the swag of office is nowhere richer than in Mr. HUGHES'S tirades against a measure largely supported in the House by his own party, and which a single Republican member of it in the Senate could have checked. "A damned good speech," said Uncle JOE CANNON at Peoria the other day of Mr. HUGHES'S denunciation of the eight-hour law, which Mr. CANNON and seventy-three other Republican Representatives voted for. Humbug and false pretenses and evasions all the way from Carnegie Hall in August to the Union League in October.

Mr. ROOSEVELT'S Americanism and Mr. HUGHES'S being utterly different, preparedness having been made fact by the Democrats, miscellaneous carpings at Mr. WILSON having grown palpably tiresome to many Republicans, the talk about the Adamson law being a doubtful experiment, the Republicans smile at the foreign policy of the Administration.

If they are going to change our foreign policy, in what direction are they going to change it? There is only one choice as against peace, and that is war! The certain prospect of the success of the Republican Party is that we shall be drawn in one form or another into the embroilments of the European war, and that to the south of us the force of the United States will be used to produce in Mexico the kind of law and order which some American investors in Mexico consider most to their advantage.

So Mr. WILSON. There must be peace or war. There is no alternative. The Republicans simply patter that "firmness," like all good qualities strictly Republican, will keep us out of war and give us peace, with a "firmer" assertion of American rights which a large part of the Republican Party has conspicuously refused to support.

The country is grateful for the honorable peace it enjoys. It is asked to supplant the man who has guarded it in difficult and perilous days by a weaver of ambiguities, who must either change peace to war or avoid war by that Republican magic and wizardry which consists in trying to juggle the people into the illusion that the Republicans have the secret of impressing foreign Powers with the superior wisdom, courage, and all-around sagacity, "firmness with sagacity," of Republicans.

Mr. WILSON set forth the want of "intellectual interest" which marks this Republican campaign of humbug. He was talking to young men. Sixty years ago the Republican Party was largely the party of young men. It meant something. It had a clear purpose, to oppose the extension of slavery in the Territories. With its present insincerities and ambiguities, its want of a definite program, its utter lack of any other moral or intellectual or political idea than to "beat WILSON," and divide the loaves and fishes, what appeal does it make to young men, to men of any age who are not mere automatic partisans?

THE TWO MEXICAN POLICIES.

Mr. FRANKLIN K. LANE, Secretary of the Interior, sums up the Mexican situation, so far as our relations with it are involved, in a fair and lucid manner in the latest of the three articles he has written on that subject. It is indisputable that all justifiable condemnation of President WILSON'S Mexican policy must be based on the firm conviction that a stable and responsible Government cannot be established in the sister republic except through forcible intervention by an outside power. It has been from the first a question of peace or war. Several times, as Mr. LANE says, we have been "on the edge of war," but each time a way has been opened by which Mexico might still prove her ability to take care of her own problems.

Involved with the Mexican problem is the whole question of our future relations with the other Latin American countries. This is a highly important question, and one that will increase in importance. Latin American co-operation with the United States kept us out of war at the time of the Vera Cruz incident. Recognition of the de facto Government of CARRANZA was urged upon the United States by the representatives of South and Central America. The man who really believes that it is our national duty to conquer Mexico by force, to put it in order by force, to establish a sound and responsible Government by force, must throw to the winds all considerations affecting our newly developed relations with the other countries of the western continent. He must also firmly believe that it is our duty, having conquered Mexico, to keep that country under our control for all time. Mr. LANE explains this clearly:

> The government that we would give to Mexico would be the kind of government that we have and which makes life tolerable to us in our communities. Its standards would not be Mexican standards. Its ideals would not be Mexican ideals, its genius would not be Mexican genius. The moment we withdrew from Mexico there would be a return after a very short time to Mexican standards.

A war policy, therefore, would involve conquest and permanent occupation. On the other hand, the policy of patience and hopefulness, which the Administration has adopted, is the only one that may lead to a satisfactory settlement of the Mexican question by the Mexicans themselves:

> Mexico will never be a nation in any real sense, nor will the Mexicans ever be a people of agricultural, commercial, industrial, or political consequence until the individual Mexican has had an economic and an educational chance. He must be tied to Mexico, and not to any landlord, by the ownership of a piece of land; he must be able to read and write, so that he may know what the needs of civilization are.

The American citizen who believes we ought to conquer Mexico and make it over according to our own lights has the courage of his convictions when he denounces Mr. WILSON'S policy. If Mr. HUGHES believes that we ought to have gone to war with Mexico, that we ought now to make war on Mexico, his criticism of the President is justifiable. But it is impossible to comprehend Mr. HUGHES'S stand in regard to Mexico, while Mr. WILSON'S is now and always has been perfectly understandable, and has been approved throughout this country except by the outspoken interventionists.

THE OPERA.

Mr. GATTI-CASAZZA'S prospectus for the season of opera is most satisfactory. The list of famous singers is longer than last year's, and if grip and pneumonia do not interfere with the impresario's plans, there should be no lack of brilliantly effective performances. Mmes. DESTINN, FARRAR, OBER, MATZENAUER, HOMER, BORI, (happily restored to health,) BARRIENTOS, GADSKI, ALDA, and SCHUMANN-HEINK, Messrs. CARUSO, AMATO, SCOTTI, FERRARI-FONTANA, DIDUR, MARTIN, MARTINELLI, WEIL, and SEMBACH appear in the list, with many others of good promise. The novelties of the season include an opera by two Americans, REGINALD DE KOVEN'S setting of the most interesting imaginative work of PERCY MACKAYE, "The Canterbury Pilgrims," and a new Italian work, GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO'S "Francesca da Rimini," set to music by ZANDONAI. Scarcely less novel will be GLUCK'S masterwork, "Iphigenia in Tauris." BIZET'S "Pecheurs de Perles" is not unknown here, but has not been heard lately. "Thaïs" will be new at the Metropolitan. The disposition to brush up the French part of the repertory will receive general praise.

There will be no TOSCANINI to lead, unfortunately, but both POLACCO and BODANZKY have received New York's cordial approval. There is room for scenic improvement at the Metropolitan, and as there cannot, with the abundant prosperity, be the slightest doubt of a full subscription and a succession of crowded houses, we have no doubt that the director will endeavor to meet the requirements of modern pictorial taste. With such a list of singers, and a repertory including the greatest productions in music drama of all countries, the season should be memorable.

THE MILK TRUSTS.

This city's troubles about its milk supply arise from the fact that there is a struggle between the producers' trust and the distributers' trust. When there was only the distributers' trust the main trouble was about the price, the supply being sufficient. Now that there are two trusts, the difficulty is more about the supply than the price. The producers' trust claims to be the consumers' friend and defender against the distributers' trust, which, it is alleged, claims as its share of the cost to the consumer more than the producer gets for his share. The impulse is strong to condemn both trusts impartially, and let it go at that. But it is hard to overlook the fact that the distributers' trust is doing what it can to serve the public under conditions which it did not create, and that the producers' trust is offering every impediment it can to the service of this necessity of life.

Be the merits of the controversy what they may, it is hard to regard with indulgence the emptying of cans of milk into the roadside, or the use of violence to prevent the distributers from getting their supplies. The waste of milk will not increase the profits of the producers. The resort to violence is usually a confession of the lack of other arguments, and of weakness on the merits of the contention.

It is a singular fact in the situation that the producers' trust is promoted by New York State Foods Commissioner DILLON. The product also is under the regulation of the Health Department, whose rules operate equally upon both trusts. Thus it is not possible for the supply of milk to be increased by grades which are not certified and pasteurized and otherwise officially declared fit for use. There was no secret about this. It must have been particularly well known to Commissioner DILLON. Yet he interrupted the regular sources of supply, although he lacked the ability to pasteurize what he offers to supply in quantities insufficient for the city's needs. However excellent his motives, and however obnoxious the trust which he is combating, his procedure is not commendable for prudence. Nor if he commanded the supply the city needs could he distribute it. He talks both about the extortionate prices of the distributers' trust and about his establishing depots where people can go and get their milk. They will do nothing of the sort. The price of the producers' trust for milk which people go and fetch is not comparable with the distributers' price for the milk to be found on the doorstep or in the dumbwaiter as surely as sunrise.

It is to be remarked that the disturbance is fomented by officials who have no interest in the profits of either party to the dispute, and yet who are undertaking to regulate the profits of both, reducing that of the distributers and increasing that of the producers. That would be a proper thing for them to do for themselves in accordance with economic considerations. It is arguable whether it is a proper thing for officials to undertake to do for them. No outsider can tell what the merits of the dispute are. The producers say that the entire cost of making the milk supply is borne by them for the benefit of the consumers, and for the profit of the distributers, to the loss of the producers. That is a hard case, and commands the sympathy of all who like to see all make all the money they want, if they do it in a proper way. The distributers' defense is that the farmers know little of the costs of distribution, and that the profits which they envy are not so great as they think, and are fairly earned. What seems wrong to the outsider is that the distributers fix the prices to both the producers and the consumers, and thus regulate the price of milk and their own profits, virtually without control. They are virtuous and frank in their confidences to the public. They tell to a mill what their profits are according to accounts much better kept than the producers'. The officials do not have to keep any accounts, and therefore are able to make their appeal to the public on the ground of the good intentions of their intervention. All concerned deny that they are trusts or that they "fix" prices in any obnoxious sense.

The distributers were indicted for conspiracy in restraint of trade, but the prosecution was dropped. Now there is talk of prosecuting the people's friends as a trust. It would seem that both are equally innocent or guilty. Perhaps the District Attorney and Senator WICKS'S investigators will in due course supply the facts justifying an opinion on the merits. Meanwhile the situation is worse than the traction strike. The use of milk is as general as the use of the street cars, and as indispensable. Moreover, there are more substitutes for a street car ride than for milk. Walking is good for the health, but starving is not practicable for infants and invalids in hospitals.

CAMPAIGNS WITHIN BATTLES.

"Capture of Combles Ends Brilliant Campaign" was the headline The Charleston News and Courier placed over its account of that Franco-British victory. The phraseology gives one a start, but it is quite correct; this war has altered the meaning of words old as the language. It was a campaign for the possession of Combles; and this campaign was an incident of what? The battle of the Somme. What was a battle before this extraordinary war began? An incident in a campaign. What is a campaign now? An incident of a battle.

A battle was formerly a thing of hours and a few square miles; it took its name from a town, and sometimes, when no town was near, from some handy object, Chrysler's Farm, Gaines's Mill, Pittsburg Landing, Shiloh Church. Now a battle is what a campaign used to be, a thing of months, stretching over an expanse of territory, the course of a river, perhaps a province. The battle of Champagne, the battle of Bukowina, the battle of the Dobrudja are already historic names. In one such battle, as that of the Somme, there may be many small campaigns; the campaign of Combles has ended and the campaign for the capture of Bapaume or Péronne comes next. These are merely some of the curiosities of a war where everything is gigantic.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Have Power, but Fail to Use It. In another column on this page Mayor GRIFFING of New Rochelle protests that, however it may have been as regards a predecessor in office, he cannot be held responsible for the so-called fifteen-day ordinance from which his town, like others in Westchester County, has suffered so severely. As he was not Mayor when the New Rochelle Councilmen sacrificed the general interests of the community to those of one small class, it is true that he cannot be blamed for not vetoing it, and he is to be commended for stating explicitly, even if not very emphatically, that his influence has been and will be exerted to secure its repeal.

It does not seem improbable, however, that the Mayor, if he exerted all of his well-known energy, could bring so much pressure of public opinion to bear on the New Rochelle Councilmen as to make them realize that there are more "votes" than one in the little city. The street car strikers and their sympathizers are, indeed, so well organized, and so capable of acting as a group on election day, that the small politician has good reason to be afraid of them, but there are dangers as well as advantages in sacrificing the rights of the rest of the population at the demand of this particular group. So outrageous has become the maintenance of this hopeless strike that the members of the legislative boards in the affected towns may well confront the political future with grave apprehension.

But Mayor GRIFFING is entirely right in saying that "the electorate has full power, if it desires to take the trouble, to nominate and elect city officials to represent the wishes of a majority of the community." He is not so obviously right when he adds, "and frequently it does." It would have been enough to say, "and occasionally it does." As a rule, the greater part of "the electorate," especially in towns like those that now have been suffering for weeks from an ordinance of which the intent, like the effect, is to make the stoppage of street car service complete and permanent whenever there is a strike, takes small part in nominating candidates for office. As a result it, too, usually finds its choice on election day restricted to men none of whom is at all likely "to represent the wishes of a majority of the community."

The election of Mayor GRIFFING himself was one of the exceptional cases, but as much cannot be said for the Councilmen, whom he can only advise to do what they should.

An Enigmatic Charge of Insanity. It would be interesting to know just what ALBERT BALLIN, the head of the great Hamburg-American Line, meant by saying in the statement published yesterday: "I believe this insane war might have been avoided if the English statesmen had acted wisely."

To speak of the war as "insane," and to do it without any limiting of the characterization to the antagonists of the speaker's country, is, for a German as eminent as Herr BALLIN, to bring criticism dangerously close to those at home who have been declaring Germany's part in it holy because purely defensive. It would seem inadvisable for any European, and most of all for any German, to call the war as a whole "insane." To do it contradicts the assertions that each of the nations involved makes in its own behalf, and at the same time it vitiates all the arguments on which they depend for the sympathy of the countries still remaining out of the struggle and officially neutral.

Only the combatants that are in the wrong are open to the charge of insanity, and nothing could be more unjust or base than to join them all in a common condemnation. Surely they are not mad who offer their lives for the preservation of national existence and national liberties. Some of us think the Allies have done this magnificent thing, and others give the Central Empires like credit, but we do not talk of "this insane war" unless we belong to the group that calls all war indefensible and would prefer to it any sort of peace.

Small Profit in War Like This. If each Zeppelin raid on England, as have, now, three in succession, is going to cost the raiders one of these expensive machines, with every member of its crew, the making of war in this particular manner cannot long seem profitable to those who are engaged in it. Evidently, the British have learned how to defend London and their larger cities from aerial attack. They have at last cannon that can hit the flying ships more than occasionally, and put those they miss in such danger as to make retreat seem advisable, even to the boldest and most determined of enemies. Their aeroplanes, moreover, do not hesitate to give battle to the huge antagonists, and have demonstrated, at least once, the power to conquer them by equal arms and superior agility.

Of course, the loss of men, when a Zeppelin is destroyed, does not count for much in these days, so far as concerns mere numbers, but the navigators of such craft are specialists, the products of careful selection and long training, and they cannot be easily or quickly replaced. The fatalities so far inflicted in England are far from compensating, from a military point of view, for the killing of two Zeppelin crews and the capture of another.

And the newest of the airships are evidently not immune to destruction. At least two of them are reported to have been of the latest type, but none the less they have come blazing to the ground. Those who believe the German rather than the English accounts of the damage done by the raids can perhaps find some consolation for the recent disasters, but they must be extremely credulous to do so. Bombs dropped practically at random are almost sure to be wasted for every other purpose than that of exciting indignation in England and out of it.

MAYOR GRIFFING EXPLAINS.

If the Electorate Wants Good Officials It Can Have Them.

New Rochelle, Oct. 2, 1916.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial in your issue of Sept. 28 does not correctly represent my position, and I object to being blamed for matters concerning which the city charter gives me no official authority.

The so-called fifteen-day ordinance was not approved by me; it was approved by a former Democratic Mayor.

At the time of the previous strike I presented to our City Council the matter of repealing this ordinance; but no action was taken. I joined the Mayors of the other Westchester cities affected in writing the "useless" letters, and also prepared and filed a petition to the Public Service Commission of the Second District and sent the Corporation Counsel specially to Albany to urge action as soon as possible, believing both steps to be futile, but trying them in response to a great public demand that I do everything that was possible, no matter how apparently useless.

I am ready and eager to approve a resolution of the Council repealing the ordinance, and have so advised the Councilmen. I have always believed that a city official should conduct the municipal business for the general good of a majority of the community, and have acted accordingly. Sometimes, I believe, some of my fellow-citizens have not liked it.

The electorate has full power, if it desires to take the trouble, to nominate and elect city officials to represent the wishes of a majority of the community, and it frequently does.

EDWARD STETSON GRIFFING,
Mayor of the City of New Rochelle.

THE DANCERS' DRUM.

Now on the field for France,
You lead the great advance,
You who have sped the dance
In times gone by—
Times when, the lamps alight,
France like a merry sprite
Danced through the happy night—
Thought not to die.

Yet, when the need arose,
Fair France, beset by foes,
Heard the resounding blows
Upon your sides—
Heard and her lightness flung
Far from her heart and tongue,
Onward her armies swung,
Like surging tides.

You who have seen the floor
Crowded from door to door
Shall view such scenes no more—
Theirs was to give.
They, stern and strong and true,
Heard the mad beat of you,
Gave God the breath they drew—
That France might live.

O. C. A. CHILD.

WOMEN BEGIN TOUR OF LAND FOR HUGHES

Twenty-five Feminine Orators Aboard Special Train Bound for the Pacific Coast.

FIRST STOP AT ALBANY

Four Meetings Held There and Five in Syracuse, Where Shouts for Wilson Disturb the Program.

Special to The New York Times.

ON WOMEN'S HUGHES CAMPAIGN TRAIN, SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Nationalism, Americanism, industrial welfare of women and children, President Wilson's Mexican policy, and abolition of class legislation are to be the five chapters from the Republican gospel which the twenty-five feminine orators aboard the first national political train to be financed and managed exclusively by women, will preach in twenty-eight States and nearly 100 cities during the next thirty-one days. Though they have been less than eight hours on the transcontinental jaunt, the campaigners have held nine meetings—four in Albany this afternoon and five in this city tonight.

The entire party and a number of invited guests, totaling about 1,000 persons, were the breakfast guests this morning of Mrs. Payne Whitney at the Hotel Plaza in New York. Mrs. Charles E. Hughes, wife of the Republican nominee, was the guest of honor.

After the breakfast the campaigners motored to the Grand Central Station. There a sort of jubilee was held, with Marie Dressler, the actress, standing on the rear platform of the last car of the eight-coach train, and through a megaphone urging the crowd to "step up and see the first women's campaign train." While Miss Dressler acted as barker, a band tumtumed patriotic airs; excited campaigners, with flowers, instead of boxes of cigars, in their hands, rushed from one end of the train to the other, hunting up the trunks—and they weren't a few—that held the mauves and dovegrays and other indispensables of a feminine swing around the circle.

Off promptly at 11 o'clock, the special reached Albany shortly after 2 o'clock. The women campaigners were met at the station by Mrs. George Curtis Treadwell and a committee of women representing the Albany section of the National Hughes Alliance and in motors drove to the Executive Mansion, where Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of the Governor, was hostess at luncheon. Later, Dr. Katharine B. Davis, Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, wife of the ex-Chargé d'Affaires at Mexico City; Miss Mary Antin, and Miss Helen Varick Boswell spoke to a small crowd from the porch of the Governor's home, while three automobiles, filled with speakers, were stationed at the busy corners of the city. Miss Antin chose Americanism as her subject, and found in Mr. Hughes a stalwart for that principle and no friend of the hyphenates.

When the train reached Syracuse a brass band led the speakers of the night, Dr. Davis, Mrs. O'Shaughnessy and Miss Maude E. Miner, Secretary of the New York Probation Association, and founder of Waverly House, to the Regent Theatre, where they addressed an audience of 800 persons. Most of these were present by invitation and were warm toward the speakers. At the street meetings, however, there were frequent shouts of "We want Wilson!" and other disturbing demonstrations.

Leaving Syracuse at 3 P. M., meetings will be held tomorrow in Rochester, Buffalo, and Cleveland.

HOPE TO IMPRESS HUGHES.

Under the caption, "Where the Germans Stand," the New Yorker Herold said yesterday:

"Every now and then we receive letters the contents of which may be summarized in the following question: 'In the face of the fact that Messrs. Roosevelt, Bacon, and other rabid anti-Germans are standing by Hughes, don't you believe that German-Americanism is entering upon a dangerous path when it unreservedly supports the Republican candidate?'

"In answer to this we are able to say that, judging from Hughes's past, he will not, under any circumstances, allow himself to be influenced by these elements in his environment. But even in the worst case, even if Charles E. Hughes should wish to take into office with him the pro-Britishism and the anti-Germanism of which Woodrow Wilson has given such practical and extensive proofs, every citizen of German origin should cast his vote for Hughes, for the reasons outlined, as follows, by a German pastor writing in the Herold des Glaubens:

> In case the German-Americans give Mr. Wilson a sharp lesson in the election, his successor, Hughes, in order not to spoil the prospects of a second term, will take this well to heart and not feel under the obligation of treading on the German-Americans' corns too much à la Wilson. "German blows" have already had their effect more than once in this country and brought refractory politicians to their senses. In my opinion, this mode of procedure is the only way by which the German-Americans can extricate themselves with propriety from the dilemma that has developed and assert themselves politically with respect and honor, without incurring derision and being exposed to ridicule.

"These words come from our own heart. United and powerful action is needed—and every vote for Wilson is a vote for unneutrality, partiality, and England."

FAIL TO AGREE ON ELECTORS

Moose Fear Republicans Won't Play Fair if They Indorse G. O. P. Men.

An effort of the Republican and Progressive leaders to settle the controversy over the Progressive representation on the Republican Presidential electors' ballot failed yesterday. The Progressives demand at least eight places on the ballot, but the Republicans insist that they should be satisfied with six.

Republican State leaders suggested that the Progressives hold a meeting of the State Committee before the Republicans take any definite action, indorse all the Republican electors and name the six candidates of their own. They said it might be arranged to have two Republican electors withdraw and have the places filled by Progressives, if the Republicans should later decide to allow eight Bull Moose names on the ticket.

The Progressive leaders fear if they call their State Committee together again that the anti-Hughes element may get control, and at the same time they are not satisfied that the Republicans will carry out their part of the program.

Seabury League Spent $3,396.

ALBANY, Oct. 2.—In the unsuccessful attempt to obtain for Samuel Seabury the Progressive nomination for Governor, the Seabury Progressive League received $3,450 and spent $3,396, according to the primary expense statement filed at the Secretary of State's office today. The statement of the Seabury Progressive Primary Committee showed receipts of $631 and disbursements of $628.

MONTCLAIR HUGHES'S HAVEN

Candidate Will Rest There After Big Reception Tonight.

Charles E. Hughes, who is resting after his recent campaign tour, has arranged to motor to Montclair, N. J., tomorrow to remain until Sunday night or Monday morning. This evening he will attend the reception in his honor at the Union League Club.

Mr. Hughes will stay at the Hotel Montclair and will devote his time in Montclair to almost anything other than politics.

All previous records in the New York State Hughes Alliance were broken yesterday, according to Republican campaign headquarters, when 4,000 enrollments in a single day were received. More than 3,000 came through the mails from up-State, and the remainder came from the Hughes Alliance campaign stores. The Republican campaign managers regard the heavy enrollment as strikingly significant of the trend to ex-Governor Hughes, not only in New York but elsewhere throughout the country.

Kentucky, South Dakota, Colorado, and Nebraska yesterday were added to the list of States in which National Hughes Alliance branches have been formed.

TO TEST MACHINE GUNS.

New Army Board Will Have an Open Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—By direction of Secretary of War Baker, the board of five army officers and two civilians appointed last week to make an investigation of the relative merits of automatic machine guns, in order to select a type or types for the United States Army, met here today and mapped out a plan of procedure. The board will examine all the reports of tests of machine guns in recent years.

The object of the Secretary of War in appointing the board was to bring about in the shortest possible time the adoption of a type or types of machine guns, but the board has been especially enjoined to make a recommendation of a type that can be procured quickly in the event of an emergency. The recommendation of this type will not be prejudicial to the selection of any other design that the board, after a more thorough investigation, may decide to recommend as a standard for the army.

All types of machine guns submitted to the board will be tested. The competition will be open to all. Secretary Baker desires the fullest investigation of the controversy, which centres about the claims that the gun invented by Colonel Isaac N. Lewis, a retired officer of the army, has been shown to be superior in actual use on the British front in France to other machine guns. The Lewis gun was not adopted by the War Department, but recently a number of guns of the Lewis type have been purchased for use in military aeroplanes along the Mexican border.

Colonel Francis H. French of the Army General Staff, who represents the infantry arm of the service, called the board to order today in the offices of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification. The other military members are Colonel Joseph D. Dickman, Second Cavalry; Colonel Tracy C. Dickson, retired, a former officer of the Ordnance Department; Lieut. Col. Henry D. Todd, Jr., Coast Artillery Corps, and Captain Robert H. Willis, Jr., Signal Corps, who will serve as recorder in addition to his duties as a member of the board. The civilian members are Bascom Little, former President of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and B. M. W. Hanson, the head of the mechanical department of a machine tool manufacturing company in Hartford, Conn.

TO STANDARDIZE GASOLINE.

Government Scientists Seek a Way to Check Adulteration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Complaints that automobile users are receiving adulterated gasoline from dealers has prompted the Department of Commerce to undertake standardization of the oil. The subject was discussed today by Secretary Redfield and Dr. W. S. Stratton, Director of the Bureau of Standards, and it was agreed that Dr. Stratton should appoint a committee of scientists from his bureau to draw up specifications for a standard gasoline. The department at a later date will devise methods by which the standard can be made effective.

$40,000 GIFTS TO COLUMBIA.

Anonymous Donation of $7,500 for Legislative Drafting Committee.

Gifts amounting to $40,000 were announced yesterday by Columbia University following the first Fall meeting of the Trustees. The largest gift is one of $7,500 from an anonymous donor toward the maintenance of the Legislative Drafting Committee, and the smallest a gift of $2 from Richard H. Troy, to be applied toward the uses of the Law School. This gift comes in each year, always for the same purpose. In addition to the gifts already received by the Columbia Dental Committee toward the new dental school, the trustees announced that about $7,000 had been received for the proposed new building.

Dr. T. Matlack Cheeseman of the class of 1874, who had been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1904, resigned because of ill health. Benjamin B. Lawrence of the class of 1878 succeeds him.

Among the gifts were $5,000 from Clarence H. Mackay, to be added to the fund for surgical research; $5,000 from Edward D. Adams, to meet the cost of certain research work in astronomy; $2,500 from the France-America Committee, toward the maintenance of the Maison Française for 1916-17; $1,385 from an anonymous donor, for salaries in the Department of Pharmacology; $1,300 from Mrs. Louis K. McClymonds, for the maintenance of the Louis K. McClymonds Scholarships in Columbia College; $1,000 from Willard V. King, '89, to be applied toward the Medical School Removal and Rebuilding Fund, and $1,000 from Professor and Mrs. Frederic S. Lee, for salaries in the Department of Physiology.

James Kendall, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, was promoted to be Associate Professor of Chemistry; James M. Nelson, Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, was promoted to be Associate Professor of Organic Chemistry.

BRITISH PRAISE OF THE TIMES

Manchester Paper Pays Tribute to Its Influence and Fairness.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—In an article on the newspaper in America, in the special American number of The Manchester Guardian, appears the following:

"THE NEW YORK TIMES, which has just completed its twentieth year under the present proprietary, holds by common consent the premier place, with a great circulation nad powerful influence. It is ardently pro-Allies and Democratic in politics, although in its news columns it gives the Republican party a generous show.

"American politics are fierce enough; but on the whole it would be true to say that its news and special correspondence are strikingly free from partisanship."

D. K. E. CLUB INCORPORATED.

Former Yale House Made Over for Fraternity's Home.

Supreme Court Justice Gavegan approved yesterday the incorporation of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Club, Inc., of which he is a member. Among the incorporators are Ogden Mills Reid, A. Barton Hepburn, James J. Colgate, Herbert H. Gibbs, and James A. Hawes.

The former Yale Club in Forty-fourth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, which was purchased by the fraternity, was redecorated and enlarged in the Summer. An additional floor has been built for squash courts and other athletic purposes, and part of the building will be open to members by Oct. 15.

DARES HUGHES TO SAY ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT

McCormick Asks Candidate to Indorse Colonel's Statement About Seizing Interned Ships.

CALLS SPEECH UNPATRIOTIC

And Challenges Roosevelt to Say if He Wants Eight-Hour Law Repealed—Peace or War Issue.

Vance C. McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in commenting yesterday upon Colonel Roosevelt's speech at Battle Creek, Mich., said he thought the country would await with eager interest to know if Mr Hughes had congratulated the Colonel. The people, he said, have every right to know if the Republican Presidential candidate indorses Colonel Roosevelt's admission that, if he had been President, he would have seized every interned German ship in American waters following the torpedoing of the Lusitania.

"According to this admission," said Mr. McCormick, "the United States would have been at war with Germany today had Colonel Roosevelt been President. Will Mr. Hughes, in a congratulatory telegram to Colonel Roosevelt, indorse this as his own position with regard to the Lusitania incident, or will he remain silent and continue to bid for the support of disloyal Americans?

"I marvel at the effrontery of the man to stand before an audience of American people and prate about his interest in mankind, after having attempted to betray into the hands of the men he denounced as 'porch climbers' the Progressive Party that accepted his 'Confession of Faith' four years ago at its face value.

"A feature of the speech that must have impressed every one was that, although he was speaking in the interest of Mr. Hughes's candidacy, he barely mentioned the name of the Republican candidate, but devoted most of his time to heaping vituperative abuse upon President Wilson and criticising the Democratic Party. He offered no reason why Mr. Hughes should be elected and made no attempt to outline what Mr. Hughes would have done in the same circumstances, or may do in the event of his election.

"The Colonel's speech was not without a humorous chord. He challenged a test of character and courage between President Wilson and Mr. Hughes with reference to their attitude as regards the threatened strike. Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Hughes are in the same box with respect to this question. If either of them had any attitude during the pendency of the threatened strike or when the legislation was before Congress, they contrived skillfully to conceal it. It is as absurd to try to compare the firm and courageous stand of the President in this crisis with the silent and unknown attitude of Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Hughes as it is to compare the courage of a lion with a lamb.

"I confidently expect that before the Colonel proceeds much further in the campaign he will profit by the experience of Mr. Hughes and declare himself to be in favor of the 'principle of the eight-hour law.' It required some time for Mr. Hughes to see the light, but he did eventually, and now the only difference between President Wilson and Mr. Hughes on this question is the difference between promise and performance. Mr. Hughes indorses the 'principle' and Mr. Wilson enforces the performance of this 'principle.'

"It is to be hoped that in his next speech Colonel Roosevelt will tell the people whether, if he were President, he would repeal the eight-hour law, or whether he would insist upon its repeal if Mr. Hughes should be elected. The Colonel's speech on the whole was undignified and unpatriotic, and, when not inconsistent or humorous, most of his statements were disingenuous."

Commenting upon President Wilson's speech on Saturday at Shadow Lawn, Chairman McCormick said that that part of it in which the President pointed out that the success of the Republicans would mean the entrance of this country into the war in one form or another defined the paramount issue of the campaign.

"All Americans who desire the continuance of peace and prosperity will vote for the re-election of President Wilson," he said. "All who wish war should vote for Mr. Hughes. There can be no mistaking the issue. There is only one alternative of peace, and that is war."

ASK ROOSEVELT FOR MORE.

But Colonel Hesitates to Increase Speeches for Hughes.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—George W. Perkins on behalf of the Republican National Committee, visited Sagamore Hill today and pleaded with Colonel Roosevelt to increase the number of speeches he is to make for the Republican ticket, pointing out that Republican leaders throughout the country were clamoring for the Roosevelt "punch," a demand that has become more insistent since the Colonel's Battle Creek speech last Saturday. The Colonel appeared gratified, but he did not promise to make any more speeches than he has already contracted for. He did not definitely refuse, however, and it is possible that after his conference in New York tomorrow with Chairman Willcox he will agree to extend his tour.

His original plans call for four speeches, one in New York City. The Republican managers are anxious to have the Colonel go to the Pacific Coast, and the South, but the Colonel is not enthusiastic over the idea.

Mr. Perkins, with E. A. Van Valkenburgh, the Philadelphia Moose leader, now working for the Republican candidate, told the Colonel that it was imperative for Mr. Roosevelt to offset the impending "drive" by President Wilson. Mr. Hughes, they hastened to say, is making a most effective campaign, but the American people like lots of "pep."

The Colonel tomorrow evening will attend the Republican reception at the Union League Club. Exceptional care will be exercised to see that nothing occurs to embarrass either Roosevelt or Taft. The Colonel will shake hands with his former friend and intimate, but that, it is expected, is as far as the reconciliation will go, so far as the Colonel is concerned.

TAFT 100 POUNDS LIGHTER.

Returns to Yale with Praise of Golf as Weight Reducer.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—Professor William H. Taft of Yale today returned to his classroom duties, arriving here last night after spending the Summer at Point-a-Pic, Murray Bay, Canada. His weight has been reduced to 266 pounds, nearly 100 pounds lower than when he was President of the United States.

Professor Taft said today that golf deserved most of the credit for placing him in fighting trim for the campaign which will begin for him at the Hughes ratification meeting in New York.

The ex-President met Colonel Roosevelt two years ago at the funeral here of Professor Thomas Lounsbury of Yale, and their mutual attitude was formal and frigid. He declined to say tonight whether he expected a higher temperature to prevail at their coming meeting at the Hughes meeting. He will speak at a Trenton, N. J., rally Wednesday evening.

MINING MEN ASSAIL CARRANZA'S LEVIES

American Commissioners Hear a Protest Made in Behalf of 45 Companies.

RUIN OF THEIR PROPERTIES

Mexicans Again Urge Pershing's Recall—Rumor That Carranza Will End Parley.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 2.—The Mexican members of the American and Mexican Joint Commission submitted a new plan for withdrawal of the Pershing expedition and substitution of a border patrol at the first local session today at the Hotel Traymore. This is the second plan which has been urged by the Mexican members, and the first serious return to the question of withdrawal of the Pershing expedition since the Villa raid on Chihuahua City. Members of the commission refused to discuss the details of the new project.

A committee which represents forty-five mining companies in Mexico and a total capital of about $250,000,000 appeared today at the Hotel Traymore at the request of the American commissioners and presented to them a long account of the mining situation in Mexico, urging that, next to finding a way to protect life and property from violence, the action most necessary was the repeal of the heavy taxes under the Carranza decrees and a restoration of the constitutional law which existed before the legislation of the First Chief.

The committee, which was headed by William Loeb, Jr., representing the Guggenheim interests, urged that Mexico was hard hit by the ruin of American mining interests, because of the thousands of Mexicans thrown out of profitable employment, the loss to the revenues of the country through the closing of mines, and the scaring away of investors. Others on the committee were Henry Bruere, ex-City Chamberlain of New York, who acted as spokesman, representing the American Metals Company; Judge D. J. Haff of Kansas City, counsel for Phelps, Dodge & Co.; George Young of the Greene Cananea Mining Company; Charles Earle of the United Smelters, and Julian W. Beaty of the American Metals Company.

Mining Industry's Losses.

The statement showed that the mining interests represented by the committee paid $18,726,090.69 in wages in 1912, the last normal year, and that the payroll this year would be about $7,000,000. In 1912 the copper production of the companies represented was 74,677 tons, and only 23,156 tons were produced in the first six months of this year. The zinc output has been reduced more than 50 per cent., from 46,765 tons for 1912, to 11,183 in the first six months of this year. The lead productions amounted to 68,269 tons in 1912, and 3,046 tons for the first six months of this year. The companies produced 33,119,919 ounces of silver in 1912, and 6,152,736 in the first six months of this year, and 243,337 ounces of gold in 1912, against 38,356 in the first six months of this year. The companies employed 62,216 Mexicans in normal times. The number now employed is estimated at 6,000.

The statement presents a schedule to show how the export tax of 2½ per cent. on gold production under the old constitutional law had been advanced to 10 per cent. by Carranza fiat. The tax on silver was increased similarly, while an export tax of 5 per cent. was placed on lead, zinc, and copper, which had not been subjected to an export tax before. At the same time, it was shown, the land tax on mining property had been greatly increased and made progressive, so that the larger the acreage the heavier the tax.

These taxes are described in the statement as "grossly excessive and confiscatory." The statement quotes James Linn Rodgers, Special Agent of the United States in Mexico City and adviser to the commission, as making the following official explanation on behalf of the Mexican Government of the new land tax on mining property:

"The intent of the new law is to develop small holdings and to place prohibitive taxes on undeveloped large holdings."

On the general character of the Carranza mining tax decrees, the committee made the following statement:

"It is the apparent belief among foreigners and mining interests in Mexico that the enormous increase in mining taxes is aimed to be confiscatory. Certainly the amount of revenue to be obtained will be far less than would be realized under the former schedule of mining taxes, because of the necessary forfeitures by the holders of all claims that are not now productive of more than normal profit. This enormous tax, we believe, will paralyze, rather than encourage, the mining industry. We believe also that whatever may be gained from the repudiation or arbitrary cancellation of the Government's obligations and contracts will be more than offset by the disastrous effects that will result from inspiring the belief or fear that the Mexican nation will not respect its obligations, legally and sacredly entered into, whenever it deems it to its interest to avoid them.

Equitable Laws Needed.

"Economic laws apply with stern equality to nations as to individuals. Private enterprises cannot succeed without credit, and credit depends upon business methods and the will as well as the ability to fulfill all obligations and contracts. Immediate assurance to the world that the Government of Mexico will faithfully protect foreign capital invested in the republic, that it will be treated fairly and taxed equitably, and that the Government will redeem all of its obligations and respect its prior contracts and protect and defend vested property rights and interests, particularly of foreigners, would at once quicken the national credit, if it has any life left, and would ultimately restore it to health and vigor. It would change despair and fear into confidence and good will, and this could not but help utimately to infuse activity into every branch of industry."

Activities in the mining industry cannot be resumed in Mexico, according to the statement, without the following "pre-requisites":

1. There must be protection of life and property.
2. There must be provision for the transportation of products, equipment, and foodstuffs.
3. There must be a system of taxes which is neither confiscatory nor prohibitive to enterprise.
4. There must be a labor supply, dependable, helpful, and efficient.
5. There must be provided the ordinary facilities and assurances of commercial and industrial activities, namely, a dependable currency system, freedom from exactions and demands for tribute from public authorities, certainty and definiteness of regulation under which business activity is to be carried on, which regulations must conform in general to standards recognized throughout the civilized world, and there must be assured a reasonable efficiency and integrity in the public service.

The committee did not make any recommendations as to the methods to be pursued by the joint commission to effect these ends. Intervention was not mentioned. The American Commissioners will take up the subject of the Carranza mining decrees with the Mexican Commissioners.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 2.—General Carranza will recall the Mexican members of the American-Mexican Commission, and will issue an ultimatum to the United States, demanding the recall of the punitive expedition, when Ambassador Eliseo Arredondo reaches Mexico City. This is a rumor circulating persistently in Mexico City, according to an American who arrived here today from that place. Carranza, he says, desires to bring about war with the United States to reunite all Mexican factions.

Rumor of Recall Denied.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2, (via Galveston.)—Señor Aguilar told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent late tonight that the "reports regarding Carranza's purpose of recalling the Mexican Commissioners are absolutely false, as are false other reports published by the American press. The conference is continuing satisfactorily, and Ambassador Aredondo is returning to Washington shortly."

MEXICAN BANKS REOPEN.

Agree to Permanent Installation of Government Examiners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Official information has reached the Mexican Embassy here that the largest two foreign banks in Mexico which were ordered closed by the Carranza Government about ten days ago, have been reopened in accordance with the conditions prescribed by that Government. These institutions are the National Bank of Mexico, in which most of the capital is held by French interests, and the Bank of London and Mexico, in which British capital predominates. The two banks had refused to obey a decree issued by Carranza vesting authority in Government bank examiners to have access to the vaults and to remain in the banks permanently. The British and French Governments protested to the Carranza Government against this action.

A telegram received at the Mexican Embassy states that the banks have consented to have the de facto Government put an "intervenor" in each institution. It was explained at the Embassy that these "intervenors" corresponded to the American national bank examiners, but that they were to be stationed permanently in the banks.

Both of the banks have sixty days within which to bring up their specie to the amount required by the Carranza decree, and sixty days in which to redeem on presentation at par value their outstanding notes.

ARREDONDO EXPRESSES HOPE.

Believes Joint Commission Will Reach an Agreement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—In an interview with a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today, Eliseo Arredondo, Ambassador-designate to the United States, declared a statement that he was visiting Mexico to lay before General Carranza proposals of American bankers for a loan to this country was entirely erroneous.

Mr. Arredondo said he believed that the result of the conferences of the joint commission would be favorable to Mexico, which had justice on its side, and that the agreement arrived at would be satisfactory to both countries. Asked if he believed the political campaign in the United States would have any effect on the conferences, he replied that perhaps the contending parties would try to wield an influence, but that he felt their efforts would not cause any difficulties.

The Ambassador-designate expressed appreciation of the American people and said a great majority was with Mexico, wishing no complication with this country, since all they desired was peace.

Mr. Arredondo finally stated that the American press had wrongly interpreted the statement he made regarding Villa's death, as he had said the Villista party was completely dead with no hopes of resurrection and, regarding the bandit, he was unable to say whether Villa was dead or alive as no one could state this certainly.

TOWN LOOTED BY VILLA.

Bandit Got Recruits in Cusihuiriachic, Mining Man Says.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 2.—Following the battle with the Carranza troops at Cusihuiriachic Sept. 26, Francisco Villa, Jose Ynez Salazar and their joint command, left the mining town after looting it of food supplies, killing several civilians and impressing all able-bodied men into their command, a resident of the mining district who arrived here reported today.

Villa issued a proclamation in Cusihuiriachic inviting American mining men to return to Chihuahua and promising them and their property complete protection, according to two Mexican mining men from San Andres. Villa announced, they say, that he is fighting only the Carranzistas.

Two hundred Carranza soldiers left Juarez this morning on the Mexico Northwestern Railroad to reinforce the garrison at Casas Grandes. General Francisco Gonzales, commander at Juarez, will lead an expedition south from Casas Grandes against Villa, it is said.

GUARDS AT BORDER DOUBLED.

Special to The New York Times.

McALLEN, Texas, Oct. 2.—All units of the New York division on detached duty guarding pumping stations or other posts along the Rio Grande tonight received orders to take extra precautions by doubling guards and outposts and issuing sixty rounds of service ammunition to every man. Men in the regimental camp here heard that their comrades on the border were getting ready for a brush and the report spread that armed bands had been seen on the Mexican side.

It was learned that these were only the heavy patrols of Carranza cavalry that Major Juan de la Flores, in command of the garrison at Reynosa, had thrown out in increased numbers a few days ago.

It is said that Carranzista troops patrolling the Mexican side of the river had instructions to watch all of the fords and ferries for bands of Mexicans.

LOAN TO HUSBAND CUTS BROWN ESTATE

Daughter of Daly Advanced $1,200,000 to Him, on Which $22,314 Was Realized.

HELD SHARES OF NO VALUE

Stocks Listed as Worthless in Appraisal of Wealth of Woman Who Died in April, 1911.

Mrs. Margaret Daly Brown, eldest daughter of the late Marcus Daly and sister of Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the Ambassador to Germany, loaned $1,200,000 to her husband, Henry Carroll Brown, and after her death on April 29, 1911, her estate was able to collect only $22,314 in settlement. Accordingly, the estate, which would have netted about $1,500,000, was appraised yesterday at only $674,558 gross and $247,718 net.

Henry Carroll Brown, who married Miss Daly on Jan. 2, 1911, admitted the justice of his wife's claim against him. He organized the banking firm of H. C. Brown & Co., which was compelled to liquidate when the heavy indebtedness to his wife was disclosed after her death through inquiries made by Marcus Daly, brother of the decedent and executor under her will. Mr. Brown turned over all his assets except his Stock Exchange seat to apply on his wife's claims, but they yielded only the small sum mentioned.

The assets, with the amounts realized on them by the estate, were:

The husband's interest in Brookland Wood, a country estate near Baltimore, $19,732; automobile, $1,500; note to Percy H. Goodwin, partner in H. C. Brown & Co., for $132,520, on which $1,042 was realized, and note of George Brown, Jr., brother of the decedent's husband, for $90,579, on which only $40 was realized.

The decedent did not mention her husband in her will, but left her entire estate to her two children, Margaret Price Brown and Frances Carroll Brown, who are not to get their principal until they are 30 years old. They are under the guardianship of their father who, in 1913, applied in the Surrogate's Court for permission to use $24,000 a year out of the income from his wife's estate for the benefit of the children, then 11 and 6 years old respectively. Surrogate Fowler, however, allowed them only $5,000 each.

Mrs. Brown owned many thousands of shares of worthless stocks, among which were shares in mining and development companies.

WILL AIDS CHARITIES.

Income from Mrs. Thorburn's Estate Goes to Her Daughter.

The will of Mrs. Emily Thorburn, who died at Patchogue, L. I., on Aug. 16, and who lived at 117 East Tenth Street, leaves $15,000 to the Home for Incurables and $5,000 to St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Patchogue. Mrs. Thorburn, who left an estate of more than $250,000, gave the income from her residuary estate and her personal effects to her daughter, Clara M. Thorburn, and on her death the principal goes to the beneficiary's heirs.

Mary A. Dalrymple, who lived with the decedent, is to have $20,000 outright and an annuity of $2,000 so long as she lives with the decedent's daughter. Other bequests go to nephews and nieces.

SETTLE SUYDAM WILL FIGHT.

Relatives of Wealthy Realty Owner Withdraw Objections.

The litigation over the $2,000,000 estate of Lambert Suydam was settled yesterday when the relatives of the realty owner withdrew their objections to the probate of the instrument which gave the bulk of the estate to the decedent's nephew and business associate, Lambert Suydam, Jr. The other large beneficiaries were Mrs. Emilie L. Moore and Mrs. Louise S. Austin, sisters of Lambert Suydam, Jr. They contended they had been favored over Richard L. and Harry Suydam, nephews of the decedent, who opposed the will, because the contestants always considered themselves socially superior to their uncle while he lived.

The amount paid to the contestants to consent to the probate of the will was not disclosed.

A. J. Cummings Estate $1,500.

A belated appraisal of the estate of Amos J. Cummings, who died on May 2, 1902, when he was a Congressman from New York, was filed yesterday, showing that he left only $1,500 in personal property. The fact that his estate had never been appraised was disclosed recently when the estate of his wife, Mrs. Frances C. Cummings, was taxed.

O'Connor Estate's Value $1,536,800.

The estate of Thomas H. O'Connor, who was a trustee of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, and who died Feb. 5 last, was appraised yesterday at $1,536,800, of which $1,114,408 was in securities. He gave from $1,000 to $5,000 each to twelve Roman Catholic institutions, and $1,000 to the Children's Society. He divided the bulk of the estate between four sons and three daughters

MARRIES BRITISH GENERAL.

Senator Lippitt's Daughter Frances Weds Moreton Foley Gage.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2.—Senator Henry F. Lippitt tonight announced the marriage of his daughter, Miss Frances Lippitt, to Brig. Gen. Moreton Foley Gage of the British Army in Paris on Saturday.

Miss Lippitt met Brig. Gen. Gage while he was attached to the British Embassy at Washington. At the outbreak of the war he volunteered, and at the present time is a cavalry officer commanding a division of Indian troops in France.

Miss Lippitt arrived in France three weeks ago. She left New York on the liner Rochambeau with Miss Katherine Dorr of Boston. Both will engage in relief work in Paris during the Winter.

Brig. Gen. Gage will return to his troops after a short furlough.

Mr. Lippitt was elected United States Senator from Rhode Island in January, 1911, to succeed the late Nelson W. Aldrich. He has two sons, Henry and John Lippitt. Mrs. George Sinnickson of Philadelphia is his elder daughter. His first wife died in 1910. In April, 1915, he married Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin, a sister of Mrs. William H. Taft.

Benjamin Kidd.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Benjamin Kidd, author of works on social evolution which were translated into many languages, died yesterday at his home in South Croydon, in his sixty-ninth year. He was also formerly a member of the Inland Revenue Office and had traveled extensively in the United States and Canada studying economic conditions.

Mr. Kidd was for many years a special correspondent for The London Times and wrote many books. During 1910-11 he had written articles on civilization, Darwinism, religion, and ethics. He belonged to the Savile and Athenaeum.

MRS. ELLIS DEAD IN LONDON.

Mrs. Edith M. O. Ellis, wife of Havelock Ellis, the psychologist and author, and herself a psychologist, died on Sept. 14, at her home in London, according to a letter received here yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Sanger. She died from pneumonia, which resulted from a cold caught while watching a Zeppelin raid.

Mrs. Ellis, who was a Miss Lees and was married in 1891, was the author of several books, among which were "Kit's Woman," "A Cornish Idyll," "Attainment," "My Cornish Neighbors," "The Imperishable Wing," "Love-Acre," and "Three Modern Seers." She also wrote several plays. Mrs. Ellis held advanced views on marriage and the relations between husband and wife, and was the author of several works setting forth these views.

A year ago Mrs. Ellis made an extensive lecture tour here, and the Woman's Club of Chicago had expected her to give a course of lectures there this Fall.

Her body was cremated, and her ashes, in accordance with her wishes, were scattered over Hampstead Heath, sacred to the memory of Byron, Keats, and Shelley.

DR. DOMINICK DIES AT SEA.

New York Physician Expires of Tuberculosis on the Pastores.

Dr. George C. Dominick, son of M. W. Dominick of Englewood, N. J., a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Dominick & Dominick of 115 Broadway, died at 8:25 last night on the United Fruit Company's steamer Pastores, as the vessel was passing through Ambrose Channel on her way to Quarantine. He had been ill for some time and left for a trip two weeks ago. The Quarantine doctor ascribed his death to tuberculosis.

ROBINS STRENGTHEN GRIP ON PENNANT AT EXPENSE OF GIANTS

SUPERBAS ADVANCE BY BEATING GIANTS

GOOD CHANCES IGNORED

Kauff's Strike-out with Bases Full Among Things Which Enable Robins to Win.

Having climbed due north for twenty-six straight games, the Giants have turned right around and are hotfooting it due south at a merry gait. Over at Ebbets Field, in far-off Flatbush, yesterday McGraw's record-annihilators slipped just as if they had stepped on a banana peel and tumbled to a 2-to-0 defeat, the Brooklyns, almost pennant winners, taking all the glory out of the feverish mêlée.

As everybody seemed mighty anxious to know how many games the Giants won in a row, everybody might just as well know that the Polo Grounders have now lost two games in succession. Forsooth, this baseball is an uncertain, whimsical diversion.

By throttling the Giants in yesterday's scuffle the Dodgers got something approaching a hammerlock hold on the National League's flag de luxe. Rotund Robbie's lads are now a full game in front, and if the Boston Braves trim the Phils in only two of the remaining four games, while the Dodgers take one out of the remaining three from the Giants, the titular crêpe de chine will be unfurled to the Flatbush breezes. And then maybe there won't be a lot of noise turned loose in Brooklyn. You'll need earmuffs to protect your hearing, just as sure as you're breathing.

Big Crowd for Washday.

As a rule, washday isn't much of a baseball occasion in Brooklyn, but yesterday 18,000 persons, including the Fourteenth Regiment, sat in and gloated over the Giants' downfall. Life looked brighter to Squire Ebbets last evening. He doesn't care what team loses as long as Brooklyn doesn't. Squire Ebbets made yesterday's occasion a holiday by calling it Rucker Day, in honor of old Nap, the southpaw, who has done valiant work for the Dodgers in days gone by, and can still pitch a bit. Rucker has been pitching for the Dodgers for ten years, and is one of the most popular players on the club. Yesterday's big turnout was a flattering tribute to Nap.

The Giants seemed nervous and overanxious in yesterday's game. They lacked that supreme confidence which carried them to the world's record. It must have been the presence of the Fourteenth Regiment which scared McGraw's men, because there isn't a baseball club on earth of which they are afraid. While the official score doesn't show many errors, there were plays made by Fletcher and Schupp which looked like errors, but the score gives the benefit of the doubt to the Brooklyn batsmen.

Ferdie Schupp pitched seven innings for the Giants and allowed only three hits, one of which was a fluke by Daubert, which most folks believed should have been scored an error.

A Question of Hits and Errors.

It was this questionable hit which paved the way to Brooklyn's first run. In the fourth inning, after Jimmy Johnston had ballooned to Kauff, Daubert hit a bouncer straight at Fletcher. The Giant shortstop fumbled the ball, and it rolled away from him and Daubert was safe at first. This is the rap which the official scorer called a hit. Then Hy Myers fanned, and Zack Wheat slapped a hot liner over Fletcher's roof to left field, and Daubert raced home. Cutshaw ended that session by shooting a fly to Davey Robertson.

The other questionable hit was made by Cutshaw in the seventh inning. With two down, Cutshaw rolled an easy bouncer to Schupp. The Giant southpaw stopped the ball, and, after making two or three attempts to pick it up, discovered that the runner was high and dry at the first pier. The hit didn't count for anything, because on the next play Mike Mowrey forced Cutshaw at second for the third out.

Hans Lobert was sent in as pinch hitter for Schupp at the beginning of the eighth, and Hans responded nobly with a fly to Wheat. George Anderson, whose pitching skill has entirely deserted him, was the next hurling choice, and while he was on the slab in the eighth inning he had the wildest kind of career. His pitching went from bad to worse, and, after finally loading up the bases, he unraveled a wild pitch, which gave the Dodgers their second run.

Anderson's moist toss was working finely while Olson was at the bat, and his twists bothered Ole so much that he struck out. Miller fared better, and poked a hit to centre. Coombs rolled out to Holke, and Anderson got wild while Jimmy Johnston was facing him, and he gave James a pass. Daubert then got another one of his lucky infield hits. The ball bounced off Anderson's shoes and rolled toward Herzog, but by the time the ball was under control Daubert was safe at first, and there wasn't even standing room left on the bases.

Moist Ball Goes Wild.

While Hy Myers was at the bat one of Anderson's moist tangents went on a rampage, and, after digging a rut in the earth, the ball bounded over to the Brooklyn bench and Miller scored. In another jiffy Myers struck out.

Jack Coombs, the rare, venerable Iron Man, who has been passed down from another generation of Athletic stars, did the pitching for Uncle Robbie's boys. As on other occasions in the past, Coombs toyed with the Giants, and while his tosses didn't appear as if they would any more than break through tissue paper, the Giants were unable effectively to puncture the old boy's service. Coombs ruled as a monarch over the Giants when they lurked on the bases and threatened danger.

The New York clan had the game all laid out for it, ready to fold up and put away, in the first inning, but it fell down disappointingly when the moment of test came. After Burns had skied to Wheat in the first, Herzog got a hit through short, and went to second when Robertson beat out a tap to second base. Zimmerman hoisted a long fly to Myers, and Herzog romped to third after the catch. Fletcher was a patient young soul and got a base on balls.

The bases were filled and Benny Kauff was at the bat. Naturally, these folks who went over from New York looked to Benny to show no sign of mercy with the ball. Benny swung and chopped and sliced a half dozen fouls into the crowd, and then, when every one was holding his or her breath and had his or her eyes fixed on the fleecy clouds overhead, watching for the ball, Benny struck out.

New York had another chance to score in the seventh, when, with two gone, Holke laced a single to centre, and went around to third as Myers let the ball trickle through his feet. Rariden could have sent him home with a single, but they are still waiting for that single.

Odds Favor Brooklyn's Pennant Chances as National League Crisis Nears End

Old Jack Coombs and big Ed Reulbach—one fighting to keep his team in the lead and the other, with memories of happy days spent as a member of the Brooklyn team, struggling to check the Phillies—struck blows in behalf of the Robins yesterday which now makes it a three-to-one proposition that the National League pennant will hang over Ebbets Field next season.

When Grover Cleveland Alexander, a pitching marvel, came out of an apparent slump and shut out the Braves in Philadelphia yesterday, he put the Phillies in front in the National League race by the margin of a single point. But when Reulbach came back in the second game and let down the present champions with one run while his mates were making four, and when Jack Coombs, the cool, clever veteran with an arm of iron and a world of nerve, toppled the Giants in their tracks at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn again went to the top of the pile and is leading today by a full game. Brooklyn now has won two more games than the Phillies and has lost an equal number.

Before yesterday's game it was necessary for the Robins to win three out of four from the Giants if Philadelphia took four out of six from Boston in order to have the flag wave in Brooklyn. Today the Dodgers need only to win a single game from the Giants, provided the Braves win two out of the next four from Philadelphia.

The failure of Philadelphia to win both games yesterday and the failure of the Giants to stop Brooklyn puts an entirely different complexion on the jumbled, complex situation in the National League, and all the laws of mathematics now favor the Robins' chances to win.

Philadelphia used its two trump cards yesterday, it seems, in Alexander and Demaree, but Brooklyn still has its one best bet to spring on the Giants—Rube Marquard—who pitched wonderful ball against the Moranites in the second game of the double-header in Brooklyn on Saturday. Should Philadelphia win only one game of its remaining four, Brooklyn could afford to lose the three games it still has to play with the Giants and still be the National League's nominee to meet the Boston Red Sox in the world's series.

Should it so happen that Brooklyn wins one out of three from the Giants and Philadelphia three out of four from Boston, Brooklyn would finish with one more victory than Philadelphia.

Boston is out of the running. There is now no possibility of the Braves winning. Their hope rested in capturing six games from the Phillies while the Giants were taking four straight from Robby's men, and this hope was dashed to pieces yesterday.

The standing of the two leading teams is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	92	59	.60927
Philadelphia	90	59	.60402

Here are some of the combinations which might result from the next three days' play:

Brooklyn can win the pennant by taking one out of the three from New York if Philadelphia wins one out of four from Boston, for the final standing would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	93	61	.60389
Philadelphia	91	62	.59477

Again, Brooklyn can triumph by winning two out of three if the Phillies break even, for the standing would then be:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	94	60	.61039
Philadelphia	92	61	.60130

And then again, Brooklyn would oppose the Red Sox if it swept the Giants in three games while Philadelphia was taking three out of four, with the standing as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	95	59	.61688
Philadelphia	93	60	.60784

Philadelphia could not even win by taking four straight if Brooklyn wins three more, and would finish half a game behind, with the following result:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	95	59	.61688
Philadelphia	94	59	.61437

Another way Brooklyn can win the pennant is by losing all three to New York if Philadelphia loses three out of four, for then they would finish as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Brooklyn	92	62	.59740
Philadelphia	91	62	.59477

Reversing the argument of figures, there are two ways Philadelphia can win the pennant. One if to win three out of four from the Braves, if the Giants take two out of three from Brooklyn, and then the finish would be:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Philadelphia	93	60	.60784
Brooklyn	93	61	.60389

The other is for Brooklyn to drop all three with the Giants while Boston and the Phillies split even on their four remaining contests, and then the Quakertown players would triumph with this standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Philadelphia	92	61	.60130
Brooklyn	92	62	.59740

There is a much stiffer task facing the champion Phillies now than at any previous time this season. Boston still has Rudolph, Nehf, Tyler and Hughes to fling against them, but Pat Moran must combat with Rixey, who is erratic, although a fine pitcher when steady; Kantlehner, the former Pirate southpaw; Mayer, Bender, and several others of less importance. The odds, so far as the pitchers are concerned, are with Boston. Alexander cannot come back for another day, unless in desperation Moran should attempt to use him this afternoon. Robby has Marquard to shoot against the Giants, or Sherrod Smith, who has pitched good ball late this season. Cheney has also been effective against New York, and Pfeffer as well.

It was not strange that Brooklyn should beat the Giants yesterday. The game was the thirteenth out of the eighteen played between the teams that the Robins have won.

There will be no change in leadership in the National League today unless the Giants beat Brooklyn while the Phillies are winning two from Boston. Such a happening would give Philadelphia half a game advantage with 92 won, 59 lost, against 92 won, 60 lost for Brooklyn. If the Robins lose and the Braves get a fifty-fifty split, Brooklyn would lose half a game of its full game margin but would still hold the lead.

If Philadelphia lost two to the Braves and the Dodgers won, Brooklyn would lead by two games and a half, and even if they lost the two games they would still have to play with New York while Philadelphia won two more, the Robins would hold a half-game advantage on next Thursday night.

It appears likely that the opening game of the world's series will be played at Braves Field in Boston beginning Oct. 6 or 7. The suggestion has been made to the National Commission that the usual formality of tossing a coin for the privilege of staging the initial contest be dispensed with this season and the first two games awarded to the Boston Americans. The suggestion is put forward by the officials of the latter club and will in all probability be adopted by the commission, if acceptable to the National League club owners, who are considering the proposition.

RED SOX RELAX, BUT WIN.

Seven Substitutes Used in Game, Still Macks Are Beaten, 4 to 2.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—With the pennant won, the Boston Americans eased up today but nevertheless defeated Philadelphia by 4 to 2. It was a hitless shut-out during the five innings that Ernest Shore pitched for the world's champions. He was then relieved by Jones, in pursuance of Manager Carrigan's policy of giving the pitchers whom he will call upon in the world series only enough work to keep them in condition.

Most of the other Red Sox regulars were kept in for only part of the game and after the sixth inning the line-up had seven substitutes, including the veteran Heine Wagner, now employed as coach. Their playing presented an indication of the strength of the Boston reserves. The probability that Captain Jack Barry, who has been out of the game a month with a broken hand, would be able to play in the big series developed with his appearance at practice. He favored the hand in catching, but threw with considerable strength. George Foster, the convalescent pitcher, also tosed a few balls in practice today, but he is still weak. The score:

FAVORED PHILLIES JOLTED BY BRAVES

Even Break Leaves Moranites with Only a Fighting Chance to Overtake Dodgers.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 2.—The Phillies' pennant chances had a setback this afternoon when they split a double-header with the Boston Braves while the Dodgers were beating the Giants.

Al Demaree pitched the second game, after Alexander had shut out the Braves in the opening encounter, and he lost it by a score of 4 to 1. The curving cartoonist performed creditably on the mound, allowing only six hits in the seven innings he officiated, but bad breaks in his defense at critical stages of the contest precipitated his defeat.

A crowd that jammed the stands and the bleachers, leaving no seat or standing space unoccupied, rooted hard for Philadelphia to win, but the efforts of 20,000 voices could not break the spell. That single defeat would not have hurt so much had the record-smashing New York Giants come up to expectations and dealt a blow to Brooklyn.

From a favorite the Phils were converted into a contender with only a fighting chance as a result of the day's unexpected results. Although the race has three days more to go, in which time the men of Moran will be engaging the Braves in four games and the Dodgers will be battling with the Giants three times, legions of Philadelphia now are not so confident.

As was feared, the absence of Shortstop Bancroft, who may not play another game until 1917, had its effect upon the Phillies and their chances. So well did Alexander perform in the opening engagement that a star of the Bancroft type was not missed, but things were different with Demaree pitching in the nightcap battle. Three of the four Boston runs, exactly their margin of triumph, could be traced to the absence of Bancroft. Milt Stock performed as well as could be expected, but he was far from being a Bancroft.

Pat Moran treated the capacity crowd to a surprise when he assigned Alexander to go in quest of the victory. Alexander worked only last Saturday at Brooklyn, and the fans never dreamed that he would come back to pitch his third game since last Thursday. Opposed to Alex was Pat Ragan.

Snodgrass greeted Grover C. with a drive to centre that Paskert held to a single by brilliant fielding. Maranville sacrificed, but nothing came of this spurt, because Alex dusted off the next two Braves. With one down in the Phils' half of the opener, Byrne singled to left. Stock hoisted a fly back of second that appeared to be easy for Snodgrass, but he muffed it. Byrne had hugged first, and was easily thrown out at second. Stock expired stealing. The Phils pushed over a run in the second. Whitted started with a scorching double to left centre. Cravath moved him to third on a sacrifice. Luderus pumped a double to the flag pole, Whitted depositing a run.

George Stallings rushed three pinch-hitters into the breach in the eighth. With two down, Collins reached first by virtue of Stock's error. Magee, batting for Ragan, was the third out on a fast play by Byrne. Two were down in the Braves' ninth when Wilhoit beat out a hit to Stock, the third and final blow of the Braves. The curtain was rung down on Alexander's thirty-third conquest and sixteenth shutout when Konetchy forced Wilhoit at second.

Boston jumped away to a one-run lead in the opening session of the second game because of a bit of loose fielding by Milt Stock, substituting for the injured Bancroft. Snodgrass started with an infield hit. Maranville sent an easy chance to Stock, but Milt fumbled it with a double play in sight. Wilhoit lined to Stock, whose throw to Niehoff doubled Snodgrass off second. A solid single to right by Konetchy sent Maranville to third. The Boston rabbit scored on an attempted double steal.

A bad-bounding poke by Snodgrass was a break that enabled the Braves to tally two after two men were out in the seventh, increasing their lead to three runs.

Cravath started the Phils' last round auspiciously with a single to right, but the next three hitters were flagged, and it was an untimely defeat for the men of Moran.

Smith Will Meet Cox Tonight.

Gunboat Smith, the California heavyweight who has showed a surprising return to form in his most recent boxing contests, will oppose Joe Cox, the Springfield, Mo., heavyweight, in the principle bout of ten rounds this evening at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn.

A good card of bouts has been arranged for the weekly show of the Hunts Point A. C. tonight. The main ten-round bout will bring together Johnny Harvey, the Italian lightweight, and Harry Pierce of Brooklyn. In the other ten-round bout Young Rosner will make his first local appearance since his return from London against Willie Astey of the West Side.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

This world's series doping is enough to set a fellow crazy. Here I started in to calculate the comparative strengths of the pitchers and catchers of the Boston Red Sox and the Phils and Dodgers. (This was before it became certain which team would grab the National bunting.) I was all set with the idea that the Red Sox would certainly show undoubted superiority over their rivals.

The figures reveal the superiority all right, but it is so confounded slight that an accident or a bit of luck either way might change it entirely. It is very close figuring, and it requires some odd doping on all the men involved. The thing that puts me right up against it is Carrigan, himself. Carrigan would not, under ordinary circumstances, essay to catch in the world's series, believing he can do his team more good as a bench manager, but, with Barry out of the game and the team in need of a directing general on the field, he is almost compelled to take his turn and work with the toughest of his pitchers in order to steady them and direct the field work of his men.

If Barry is able to get into the battles, Carrigan can breathe a sigh of relief and attend to other duties. That makes tough figuring, for, to calculate the strength, either offensive or defensive of any team, it is necessary to know who, in all probability, will catch the games. I have made a composite of Carrigan, Cady, and Thomas, and figure Cady to carry the bulk of the work, probably catching three games if the series goes to five or six.

Carrigan May Catch for Ruth.

Carrigan has a theory, (and a sound one,) that one catcher is better with some pitchers than with others. His catchers and pitchers have for years worked in pairs, and this season he has adhered to his system as closely as possible. You may figure Cady to catch Shore, and Thomas will probably work with Foster, but the chances are that old Father Carrigan will be in there himself to handle his baby wonder, Ruth.

Carrigan is heavy, has slowed down, and is not in the best of condition. Besides, in spite of his present shortage of antelope assets, he is there with the punch and can help break up games. Cady has slumped frightfully as a batter, and he hadn't far to slump at that, while Thomas is not a great hitter, either.

The catchers of the Red Sox are not liable to do much damage to the pitching of Alexander or Jack Coombs or Pfeffer, but they may harm some of the other pitchers to a considerable extent.

The defensive ability of Boston's and the Phillies' catchers is one of the remarkable features of the dope. In calculating the strength of teams, I figure the offensive part of the game at 62 per cent., and the defensive at 38 per cent. Each position, of course, differs in value, and I figure the catcher worth 14 per cent. of the total team strength. In this doping, we find that the catchers of both the Phils and the Red Sox figure to be worth more than the average value of their position on defensive end, while the Brooklyn squad is below the average in strength.

The Brooklyn Club will rely upon Chief Meyers in the series. He is their best bet, of course, although never a great backstop and one who held his job with the Giants for years through his hitting power. He still is the ranking batting catcher of the world's series aspirants, with the exception of his team mate, Miller, who is quite a swatter. You may figure safely that, if the series is a six-game one, the Indian will catch four and Miller two, should Brooklyn break in.

Robin Catchers Good Hitters.

This pair figures stronger in attack than any of the others and much weaker in defense. On total value, they rank below either of the others. But, supposing this series develops into a slugging match after the first two games, what then? Immediately the hitting power of Brooklyn's catchers would tell greatly, and they would become even more valuable than the Red Sox squad. If it is a pitchers' series, as such series usually are, then Brooklyn's strength ebbs rapidly.

The Philadelphia pair ranks well up in catching. Killifer is not the backstop he was a few years ago. His arm, while it has come back to a large extent, is not as strong as formerly. Burns, forced into the series last season because of Killifer's bad arm, caught a creditable brand of ball. He muddled up Alexander's second game in bad shape, and had an attack of the panics. But the experience helped him wonderfully. He has caught better this year as a result and shown more confidence. He no longer is "second catcher," but the team mate of Killifer, and the moral effect has been good.

Tomorrow we will tackle the pitchers. After all, pitchers are mostly the whole thing in a series like this, and it is only when the boxmen wabble or weaken that the other points of strength or weakness of a team become glaringly evident. The comparison of the pitchers ought to show us a lot about the team strengths. I have tried not to hint what my figures will show, but the truth is I had to dope the pitchers first before starting to figure the strengths of the other positions. I can promise some surprises, especially to you fellows who look only at the won and lost games.

YANKEES WIN ON RETURN.

But Only a Few Fans Watch Them Beat Senators at Polo Grounds.

The multitude that witnessed the end of the Giants' winning streak on Saturday was sadly missed when the Yankees came back to the Polo Grounds yesterday for a game with the Senators, which resulted in an easy victory for the home team by the score of 5 to 1. Furthermore, a large percentage of the 500 persons present gazed as intently at the score board which denoted the progress of the crucial contests in the National League race as they did at the scrap that was going on before their eyes.

Boy Shawkey took full advantage of the opportunity to run his total of victories for the season up to twenty-three, and there never was a time that the southpaw was in danger. Two comparatively new hurlers were opposed to him, and they suffered badly from the vigorous stick work of the home batters. Thomas, a recruit from Des Moines, was the man selected to hold the Yankees down, but after ten hits had been gathered in seven innings he was replaced by Goodwin, a semi-pro from Virginia.

Shawkey was in command of the situation throughout, and held the men from the Capital hitless until Menoskey connected with a ball that shot along the right field foul line for two bases in the fourth inning. This led to the only run made by the visitors and Shawkey finished the fray with only three safeties marked up against him.

To help along the Yankees there was plenty of loose fielding. In the second inning Baker singled to centre and Menoskey kicked the ball away from him so that the home run king was able to go to third. Hendryx was allowed to reach first without the formality of taking a crack at the ball, and Gedeon singled to left, scoring Baker. The Washingtonians began to show a little life then, for on Walter's bunt to the pitcher Hendryx was caught at third. Shawkey hit to Shanks, who stepped on the second bag, disposing of Gedeon, and then tossed to Judge, who retired Shawkey.

There was more activity by New York in the fourth, when Pipp singled back of second and Baker followed with a neat single over the central bag. Hendryx responded to the call for a hit and broke the tie by doubling to left field, scoring Pipp and leaving Baker on third. Gedeon was out on a short fly to left, and Thomas, anticipating that Walters contemplated hitting the ball, purposely passed him, filling the bases. Then Shawkey hit to Leonard, and Baker was caught racing to the plate and the ball was relayed in time to nip Shawkey at first.

Pipp was again the aggressor in the sixth with a single to right. Baker beat out a slow grounder to Foster and on a poor throw Pipp went to third. Hendryx flied out to right and Pipp came home. Baker scored on a squeeze play. Shanks was responsible for the final run scored by the Yankees in the eighth. After Aragon was thrown out by Foster, Hendryx received a free trip and when Gedeon singled to second Shanks dropped the ball instead of forcing Hendryx at second, Gedeon singled and Hendryx scored. Columbia Harriers on First Run.

Fifteen candidates for the cross-country team at Columbia reported yesterday for the first practice and were sent on a four-mile jaunt along Riverside Drive. The veterans are Captain H. W. Look, J. P. Hunt, A. L. Huelsenbeck and C. N. Carlin. Promising new men included Ward, Battle, and Stephan. Practice will be held daily in preparation for the two or three dual meets which are to be scheduled by Manager C. M. Heydecker, and the annual intercollegiates.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Mrs. J. V. Hurd of the Pittsburgh Field Club won the qualifying round of the women's national amateur golf championship over the course of the Belmont Springs Country Club today from a field of fifty-eight starters, with a card of 42, 44—86. She was the only golfer in the field to get below the 90 mark, as the tricky greens and baked condition of some parts of the course kept most of the good scores hovering between 90 and 100.

Although Mrs. Hurd's name has not been familiar in golf tournaments of late, her victory in the qualifying round can in no way be called a surprise when it is remembered that as Dorothy Campbell she won more distinction on the links than any other woman golfer here or abroad. She was twice American title holder, twice Canadian champion, and twice winner of the British title. Moreover, she held all three distinguished positions in a single year, 1909.

All the favorites for the title qualified well up in the championship thirty-two, the highest score to qualify being that of Mrs. Harry A. Knox of Oxford with 102. Miss Georgeanna M. Bishop of Brooklawn, former national title holder; Mrs. W. A. Gavin of Taconic, women's Eastern champion, and Mrs. John H. Lapham of San Antonio tied for second place with scores of 90. Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, the young Southern champion, had a spell of wildness from the tees and finished her round with a 92. Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, former Western champion, had the same figure, and Miss Marion Hollins, former metropolitan champion, was two strokes worse, at 94.

Draw Joins Good Players.

The draw for the match play rounds has placed six fine players in close proximity in the middle of the lower half. Three of them must drop out tomorrow in the first round of match play. In the first of these matches Miss Hollins will encounter Mrs. Leila C. Stockton of Somerville, winner of many low gross prizes in the one-day tournaments this season in the metropolitan district and medalist in the women's metropolitan championship at Baltusrol. In the second match Mrs. Gavin is drawn against Miss Bishop, and either a former national champion or a present Eastern champion will be eliminated by tomorrow evening. The third match finds the hopes of the East conflicting with the hopes of the West, with Miss Elaine Rosenthal, the young golfer from Ravisloe, former Western champion, bearing the wishes of the Westerners, while Miss Fanny Osgood, a former national champion, is upholding the prestige of the Boston district as well as she can.

In winning the low score medal Mrs. Hurd played steady rather than sensational golf, even if she did slip in a six-foot putt for a 2 on the 114-yard sixteenth hole. She confined her attentions and her efforts to playing on the fair green, with only an occasional stop-over in a sand trap or bunker. On the 137-yard fifth hole she rimmed the cup on her second shot, taking a 3, but one of her rare visits to a bunker on the sixth hole gave her a 6 to balance it. She added another 6 on the seventh hole by putting a ball out of bounds over a fence to the left, and reached the turn in 42.

On the tenth hole she was trapped again and took a 6, but she saved a shot with a good putt on the twelfth hole that brought her a 4. The remainder of her journey was ordinary except for the 2 on the sixteenth, and she made the inward journey in 44, for a total round of 86. Mrs. Hurd's card was as follows:

Out ....5 4 4 5 3 6 6 5 4—42
In ....6 5 4 5 6 6 2 5 5—44—86

Miss Stirling Not at Her Best.

In view of her recent victory over the present national champion, Mrs. C. P. Vanderbeck of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, at Huntingdon Valley, Miss Stirling, the Southern champion, drew the largest gallery of the day. She started by hooking her approach to the first green, but for the rest of the journey she displayed the opposite fault and found continual trouble through a disconcerting slice. She sliced the next four tee shots in succession without any great disadvantage to her score, as she recovered well to the green on each occasion. On the sixth hole she put her drive into a bunker, came out well, pitched her third beautifully to the green, and missed a three-foot putt for her 4. A long drive on the seventh hole was spoiled by three putts on the green, and her pitch shot to the eighth green on the hillside struck at the top of the embankment and rolled back down the hillside. Her worst moment, however, was on the ninth green where she missed a putt about one foot long and took 6, making the outward journey in 46 strokes.

Her inward journey was chiefly notable for the frequent requirement of three putts to hole out when nicely on the green. She was not alone in her inability to control the smallest club in the bag, for Miss Fannie Osgood reported seven three-putt greens in succession with a flying start of four putts on one green. After hooking her tee shot to the left of the sixteenth green into a little hollow, Miss Stirling chipped up within a yard of the pin and holed out for a 3. Her second shot on the seventh found her in the woods, but she got a five on the hole, and she closed her round appropriately by taking three putts on the home green, giving her 92 for the round.

Miss Marion Hollins of Westbrook, the most prominent metropolitan entry, had a fine round with the exception of two deadly holes that completely wrecked her score. On the 500-yard fourth she was short of the green in 3 with an easy pitch to the pin. For some unaccountable reason her next shot went off at right angles and landed wrong side up in a trap, and when the ball was finally coaxed into the cup, Miss Hollins wrote down an 8 on her score card.

From the seventh tee only the longest drivers were getting beyond a road that cuts across the course at this point. Miss Hollins carried to the road and stuck there. Her second shot jarred the ball a little, but it still stuck to its original position. A third shot weakened its resolution, and the fourth got it well started toward the green and meant another 8 for Miss Hollins's score card. Aided materially by these two holes, she was 50 to the turn, and made the inward journey in 44, for a total of 94.

Mrs. Gavin Poor with Irons.

Mrs. Gavin, who was regarded as a probable medalist, was getting wonderful length from the tees, considering that her strength usually lies in her short game, but poor control of her irons to the green cost her many strokes. Mrs. Stockton, with whom Mrs. Gavin played, is by no means a short hitter, but the little Englishwoman was leading her at times by thirty and forty yards from the tee.

Mrs. Gavin was bunkered on her tee shot at the second hole, and she completely flubbed her drive at the third. She topped it into a road, and after climbing up a pair of stairs the ball landed high and dry in a fine position on the bank. She should have taken a 5 on the hole, but she missed a short putt and took a 6. Her second shot on the long fourth hole was hooked, and it landed up against a stone wall behind a tree. She reached the turn in 44, and from the sixth to the fifteenth hole she had a string of 5s, varied only by a 6 on the tenth, where she took three putts. On the seventeenth she put her second shot into the water, and, thinking discretion the better part of valor, she dropped back for a penalty stroke instead of playing the ball where it was. Her 46 on the inward journey gave her a 90 for the round.

MANY OARSMEN AT YALE.

185 Candidates Attend Meeting to Form Fall Rowing Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—In response to the call of Captain Cord Meyer of the Yale crew 185 candidates reported at tonight's mass meeting to outline plans for the Fall work. Coach Guy Nickalls was warmly received on his return from England and praised the size and enthusiasm of the men. He set the first squad to work on the harbor today. He and Captain Meyer will coach the 'Varsity and class crews this Fall, and Professor Mather Abbot will drill the freshmen in preparation for the Fall regatta next month.

COLUMBIA ROWING PLANS.

Work of Fall Season Will Be Launched at Meeting Today.

Plans for Fall rowing at Columbia University will be made this noon at a meeting of all prospective 'Varsity and freshman candidates with Coach James C. Rice. Measurements and statistics of the squads will be taken today and the first practice on the Hudson will be held tomorrow or Thursday afternoon from the crew boathouse at Edgewater, N. J.

Rice was plainly disappointed yesterday at the announcement that Coach Nickalls of the Yale crew had refused to let his 'Varsity engage in races this Autumn other than the annual Fall regatta. The Columbia director said that in view of this he would work out a plan for giving more time to his freshmen during the next two months while rowing is possible on the river, so that by January, when the indoor work begins on the machines, his cub squad would be better drilled in the fundamentals than has been the case generally in previous years. The 'Varsity, however, will have daily or thrice-a-week workouts this Fall and there is a possibility that a dual race may be arranged with another college eight.

SHIVERICK KICKING WELL.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The Cornell football coaches opened the second week of practice today and another hard scrimmage was on the program. The 'Varsity used straight football most of the time and got two touchdowns, but the second team's resistance was much stronger than Saturday, and in most respects the battle was a draw. A feature of the game was two field goals by Shiverick, whose kicking already reminds observers of his accurate work of a year ago.

The 'Varsity line-up was the same as Saturday, but the improved defensive work of the scrubs hints at a possible change or two before long. Fischer, who has been a substitute for two years, put up a good game at right tackle for the second team, while Sutton at left guard also showed good stuff. Speed, the sub quarter, is improving right along, and Bretz at right half also looks good. Ryerson and Eckley were at ends for the 'Varsity; Gillies and Jewett, tackles; Miller and Anderson, guards; Brown, centre; Shiverick, quarter back; Benedict and Hoffman, half backs; Mueller, full back.

TWO WORLD'S MARKS FOR THE REAL LADY

Wins Two-Year-Old Kentucky Futurity, Trotting the Heats in 2:07½ and 2:07.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 2. — Two world's records were made by The Real Lady in winning the 2-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity, the principal event of the opening day of the forty-fourth annual meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association here today.

The Murphy entry trotted the first heat in 2:07½, lowering the former mark of 2:07¾ for 2-year-old fillies held jointly by Native Belle and Volga. Then she lowered that mark in the second heat, trotting it in 2:07, and by so doing established a new two-heat record for 2-year-old fillies.

Mary Coburn was second in each heat, while third place went to Bertha McGuire, when Worthy Volo and Harvest Gale, third and fourth, respectively in the first heat, were distanced in the second heat. The Real Leady was bred at Walnut Hall Farm here, and is the third filly by Moko to win the 2-year-old Futurity. The mark set by the Real Lady gives Thomas Murphy both the 2-year-old filly and colt record, he having driven Peter Volo when this colt made the record of 2:04½.

LEOCHARES WINS HANDICAP.

Takes Feature on First Day of Meeting at Laurel.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 2.—The Maryland State Fair Association opened its annual Autumn meeting here this afternoon. In the last few years the Laurel course has taken much the same place in the Fall that Saratoga holds in the Summer. Since the plant has been under the management of Colonel Matt Winn he has made many innovations and improvements. Racegoers who saw the place five years ago would not recognize it today.

The track has been raised and graded with new sandy soil and is now looked upon as one of the fastest in the country. A handsome clubhouse has been added, and this was where many notables from Washington and Baltimore congregated this afternoon and entertained their friends at luncheons before the races. Instead of six, there will be seven races each day, an increase of one event over last Autumn's program, a steeplechase accounting for the extra number. Long before the first race was called this afternoon, at 1:45 P. M., the new time for starting, the trains from Washington and Baltimore had begun to arrive, and with the first saddling bell the grandstand and clubhouse was crowded and the lawns and paddock almost had the appearance of Belmont Park on a Futurity Day.

The feature of the program was the Laurel Handicap, a six-furlong race for all ages, to which $1,000 had been added. The event was a comparatively easy victory for W. Orr's Leochares, which defeated a fine field of campaigners, including Prince of Como, High Noon, Ormesdale, and Hanson.

The winner carried top weight with an impost of 127 pounds and was ridden by Haynes. The field of twelve was sent away to a good start. Prince of Como took the lead. The Cochran gelding set a merry pace and hung on to the front position for a quarter of a mile, but after this the fast gait began to tell and he gave way to Startling. Meanwhile the winner, to escape being pocketed, came all around his field and was soon a contender. One by one he raced the other horses into submission, finally taking the lead from Sir Edgar and won by two lengths.

The summaries, with straight, place, and show odds:

YALE LACKS SEATS FOR HARVARD GAME

Committee to Consider Increasing Capacity of Bowl by at Least 8,000.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—The Yale football management expects record-breaking attendances at both the Yale-Princeton match at Princeton and the Yale-Harvard game here next month. Because of the new stadium at Princeton and the new Bowl at Yale, every alumnus and undergraduate will be allowed four tickets this year.

Within twenty-four hours after applications were sent out it became evident that the massive Yale Bowl, the biggest football inclosure in the world, will be entirely inadequate to the task of seating the Yale and Harvard men who wish to see the climax of the gridiron season in the East. The present seating capacity of the bowl is 60,617 persons. Word has already been received from Harvard asking 24,000 seats, leaving only 36,000 for the Yale home crowd and for spectators from all over the country.

A Yale football official said tonight that Yale cannot take care of its own crowd unless it has 50,000 seats, and it became known tonight that a meeting of the committee of twenty-one would be called immediately to consider the question of building about 8,000 more seats around the parapet of the fortlike inclosure. This committee built the Bowl and has charge of it. It is generally believed at Yale that this committee will decide to erect the stands and thus do the best that Yale is able to relieve a situation which, eight weeks before the scheduled game, has already become acute.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—Tad Jones, the Yale football head coach, sent practically every veteran player into the line-up for a sharp scrimmage drill today. Scrimmaging on the Monday after a Saturday game is unorthodox at Yale, especially for the players who have been in a stiff game the previous Saturday, but the line-up ordered by Jones this afternoon excused only the ends, Captain Black and Tackle Club Sheldon. Sheldon was excused because he had a recitation. Captain Black has a slightly bruised ankle, and Gates and Church were clearly exhausted by their strenuous play of Saturday.

Today's practice was held in the Bowl, which will be used most of the time during the remainder of the season, the gridiron on old Yale Field being reserved for the freshmen. Today's work was ragged, but the fumbling was regarded as excusable because of the strenuous game on Saturday. Legore made a 5-yard kick. The practice was devoted chiefly to punting and catching kicks.

COLUMBIA DRILL SECRET.

Preparations for the first game of the season with Hamilton College on Saturday were commenced yesterday by the Columbia football squad on South Field, and Coach Metcalf began the last week's work by having practice behind closed gates. The linemen came in for the greater part of the coaches' attention yesterday, and after an unusually severe drill in line bucking and defensive tactics, the 'Varsity had a half hour's scrimmage with a succession of substitute combinations. Zychlinski, who alternated at right half back, made the only touchdown, after dodging the scrub tacklers around left end for a 70-yard run.

Injuries to two of Columbia's regulars may cause a change in the plans of Coach Metcalf. It was announced yesterday that Van de Water first string line substitute last year and foremost contender for the right guard position this Fall, would be away from practice for two weeks or more. He hurt his right knee last week but the results were not found serious until yesterday. Howard Miller, veteran drop-kicking quarter back, twisted his right knee yesterday and retired from practice, although Trainer Gus Petersen felt that Miller would probably be back in togs by tomorrow. Donaldson played at right guard and Reese piloted the 'Varsity at quarter back yesterday.

Ninety Oarsmen Start at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 2.—Ninety candidates reported at the first day's workout of the Harvard 'Varsity crew today. Under direction of Coaches Herrick and Haines four eight-oared shells went out on the Charles River. Other recruits worked at the rowing machines.

TIGERS ON HOME FIELD.

Hard Scrimmage Marks Opening Practice at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON N. J., Oct. 2.—The Princeton football team came out of the game with Holy Cross Saturday without any injuries and practically all the 'Varsity men were able to participate in the hard scrimmage which the coaches ordered today for the afternoon practice, the first on the home field. Three regulars were out of the lineup. Driggs is still suffering from the attack of grip which handicapped him while the team was at Camp Minnewaska and Captain Hogg was also allowed a respite from hard work. Nourse, the right guard, was not on the field because he is studying to pass the examinations for a Rhodes Scholarship.

The players apparently enjoyed the smooth level turf on Osborne Field after the rough conditions at the camp, which were responsible for many injuries. The scrimmage was more spirited than any which has been indulged in this season by the Tigers.

The 'Varsity was apparently not up to form for they were able to make only one touchdown after fifteen minutes of play and this was by no means easily earned. Ames, Moore, Brown and Haas composed the first string backfield. Ruth, a member of last year's Freshman team, was in at one of the guard positions and Bryan was chosen for Nourse's regular place.

Eberstadt, 'Varsity quarter back of two years ago, appeared in football togs for the first time today and was put among the backfield candidates. The addition of this veteran should make the solution of the quarter back problem, which has been causing the coaches much trouble, a trifle easier. Ames has the call on the position at present, but both Eberstadt and Eddy are likely men and the appearance of any one of these at the position would not cause any surprise.

LIGHT DAY FOR HARVARD.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 2.—There was not very much football for the Harvard players on Soldiers' Field this afternoon. The entire squad, with one or two exceptions, reported and was ready for work, but the coaches held the men in the locker building at the blackboards until long after the usual hour for going out onto the field.

Later there was a signal drill in which all the regulars except Moseley Taylor took part. Taylor hurt his leg last week, but it did not bother him until after the Bates game. The injury, however, is not considered a serious one. The loss of Murray Taylor, who has gone back to the Mexican border, has upset the plans for quarter back somewhat, but Billy Murray, formerly of Andover, did splendid work Saturday, and is likely to make a hard fight for the regular place against Robinson.

About the Entree—and other things

You don't simply say, "I'll have an entree," "I'd like a salad," or "Bring dessert."

You specify exactly the kind of each you want.

Then, why not be as careful to specify your drink as clearly?

If you carelessly order just a cocktail, or rickey, or fizz, you may get an inferior gin.

But if you specify El-Bart—the first and best English dry gin distilled in America—you know you will get a perfect drink.

Insist on El-Bart Dry Gin—distilled for years in Baltimore, Maryland, according to the famous, original Sceats & Willis process and formula of England, in imported English copper gin stills.

NEW YORK'S EXPORTS $10,796,000 A DAY

Total for September, $269,981,000, Largest in Port's History, Except in August.

ONE-HALF IS MUNITIONS

Last Month's Figures Exceed Those of Entire Country for Equal Period Prior to 1915.

New York is now by far the largest exporting port of the world, according to a statement made yesterday by the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank in making public its analysis of this port's outward foreign trade for September.

The bank's analysis of the September movement shows that a new export record was made here in September.

"This does not necessarily mean," said the bank's statement, "that the total exports of the port in September exceeded those of August, for September had but 25 business days, while August had 27 business days. But if the revised figures of the port's business coincide with the daily reports during September, the daily average per business day in September will be greater than in August or in any earlier month in the history of the port. The total of exports of August was $271,243,000, or $10,046,000 per business day; that of September, as shown by an aggregation of the daily reports, was $269,981,000, or $10,796,000 per business day."

The analysis made by the bank's foreign trade expert showed that practically one-half of this very large total for the month of exports was for the battlefield.

Commenting on the foregoing figures, the statement said:

"The total exports of September are larger than those of any preceding month except August, and the average for each business day in September is even larger than that of any earlier month in the history of the port. The September exports of New York alone were larger than those of the entire country in any month preceding the year 1915, and formed about 53 per cent. of the exports of the entire country, against an average of less than 40 per cent. in the period immediately preceding the war."

TYPES OF NEW GOWNS

An exhibit of models on living mannequins in a Fifth Avenue house yesterday emphasized the wide variety that is to be seen in the costumes of the Winter. In cloaks, for instance, one with the material falling from the shoulders, rippled out with great fullness at the lower edge. Another, belted at the waist, was slightly full on either side. A third was a straight, simple little coat of red, with a standing collar and only about as much fullness as was necessary to encircle the wearer.

The use of gray in gowns was shown in the many beautiful ones which were exhibited In afternoon gowns, the transparent sleeve so long worn appeared in a number of frocks, many drawn in at the wrist and some with a trig little ribbon band and bow. It was noticeable among the sleeves that a number were shown coming to the elbow. Emphasis had been laid earlier in the season on all sleeves being long and the necks high. All the gowns shown yesterday were low in the neck and open at the front.

There was the agreeable note of color with dark gowns. One of these was a dark blue evening gown with a short, sharp point of a train at the back. With it was combined a deep rose, almost cerise, maline and velvet. The velvet formed part of the front of the bodice, and the maline coming up on the shoulders fell off over the arms in flowing lines. A soft, dull red was combined with a black frock, a line of it around the skirt, more of it on the bodice, and a touch on the hat worn with it was pleasing.

Furs were on most of the coats, deep capes, borders of fur half the depth of the skirt, or none on the skirt, but a high collar and deep cuffs. An odd little collar of fur had a flare up and a flare down, and a narrow bowknot and ends in the centre of the back. The peculiarity of the muff carried with this, which was a round one, was its shortness, it being necessary to hold the hands one over the other to get both inside.

JUSTICE LYNCH RESIGNS.

Quits City Bench Suddenly to Practice Law.

Justice Richard T. Lynch of the City Court, who was appointed to the unexpired term of the late Justice McCarthy and afterward elected for the full term of ten years, which would end on Dec. 31, 1917, has sent his resignation to Governor Whitman. This necessitated the closing of one part of the court yesterday at the opening of the Fall term. There are ten Justices and the salary of each is $12,000. Of the nine remaining Justices seven are Democrats, one is a Republican, and one a member of the Independence League.

In Democratic quarters it was said yesterday that there was sufficient time before election to place in nomination a successor to Justice Lynch, who is a Democrat. If this cannot be done the Governor will designate his successor. Justice Lynch said in explanation of his sudden retirement that the offer of the position of counsel to the receiver of a Western railway was so attractive when it was offered to him a week ago that he accepted it.

BRITISH COMPANY WINS SUIT

Test Case in Federal Court May Involve $100,000,000 Royalties.

The Miami Copper Company commented yesterday on the adverse finding in a suit brought against the corporation by the Minerals Separation, Limited, a British concern, in this statement:

"The bulk of our recovery of copper is by table concentration. The decision affects a comparatively small additional saving that is made by flotation, and our counsel are confident that this decision will be reversed in higher courts."

The suit was decided in the Federal District Court in Washington last Saturday. It had to do with patents for the separation of copper from base materials. The action was in the nature of a test suit, which was expected to point the way toward decisions about $100,000,000 royalties if the British company decided to contest the use of the flotation process by several American copper producers.

Father Mahoney Appointed Rector.

Cardinal Farley yesterday appointed the Rev. Father R. Mahoney rector of the Church of St. Rose of Lima, in West 165th Street, to succeed the Rev. Father Edward J. McCue, who died on Sept. 21. For the last eighteen years Father Mahoney has been Professor of Moral Theology at Dunwoodie Seminary. He was born in Bath, N. Y., and was graduated from the University of Innsbruck in Austria. After his ordination he studied for three years in Rome and Paris. Father Mahoney is a diocesan official, being a member of the Board of Examiners of the Clergy and the Defender of the Marriage Tie.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..3½@4 per cent. for the best names
Saturday...3½@4 " " " " "

The quotations are for six months' paper.

⁂

Hatters' Plush in White.

Beluche monsieur, the hatters' plush which appeared early in the season in black for women's hats, is selling less in that color by the wholesalers, but is appearing with panne velvet in white. There is a promise that many of these hats will be worn with others in white velvet, which follows in the line of the newer materials.

⁂

Her New Sweater.

During his week-end a prominent clothing manufacturer was on the links with a party. One of the women was wearing a sweater that was a somewhat faded and blotched blue. With his daily experience in mind he happened to remark: "I see you have a new sweater." "Why, yes," she replied in surprise. "It's new, but how did you guess it?" The clothier sadly and sorrowfully explained why.

⁂

Imported Feathers That Are Sold.

Quite an active business is being done on feathers of the imported variety at the present time. The demand from the West deserves special notice. Among some of the popular goods of the moment are pheasant fancies and wings in novelty and bird effects, pheasant bands for turbans and guinea hen bands. Fur novelties are also being shown for the millinery trade, made usually of mole and trimmed with gold and silver thread. The popular shades are black navy, nigger and emerald. Burgundy is showing up well.

In the Wrong Direction.

Commenting on the busy season which the tailors are enjoying, a representative mill agent said yesterday that if the clothing trade as a whole would follow the lead of the book houses they might fare better than they have. "The trouble is," this man said, "that most of the manufacturers seem to be exerting themselves in the wrong direction. They are all striving to cut down on the price of their woolens and keep their usual prices. If they would do as the tailors are doing and maintain their cloth standards they would give their customers more satisfaction."

⁂

Clothiers Are Doing Better.

The clothing trade is showing more activity than for some time past, and the manufacturers are beginning to make some headway. The chief trouble at the moment is given by dyes. Despite the fact that color guarantees have been given neither by the woolen mills nor the clothiers, there are any number of complaints being received from retailers which in some way or other have to be attended to. With the weather taking a seasonable turn, the clothiers hope to see trade become more brisk. The retailers did a nice business here on Saturday.

Data for Special Interests.

The New York office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce announced yesterday that it had received several exhibits which would be at the disposal of persons interested until Friday. Those interested should apply at room 409, Custom House. One of the exhibits includes consular correspondence relative to all phases of the motion picture industry in China. Other manuscripts have to do with the paper and stationery trade in South America, and refrigeration and supplies in various countries. A copy of the new Civil Code of Venezuela, which goes into effect Dec. 19 next, may also be inspected. It is printed in Spanish.

Gowns with a Story.

There is nothing like having a story with anything that is to be put on the market. Nine people out of ten will fall for it. A manufacturer who makes a specialty of young women's gowns, naming them after the heroine of a story book, can't fill his orders for the dresses. He is working nights and Sundays and last Sunday sent out 2,200 of the heroine frocks. The heroine styles come in the serge school, afternoon and party or social frocks, as the latter are called. They are all pretty and girlish and are in every color and usually with a touch of Georgette crepe or of maline. On some are artificial flowers. The maline on the upper part of the bodice is fastened in fluffy bows and falls out over the arms.

⁂

Hat Duplications Heavy.

Quite a bit of duplicate business has been taken by the hat manufacturers during the last two weeks, both from out of town customers and the retailers in this city and nearby points. The Southern trade has been especially active in asking for shipments. There has been little or no change in the styles asked for in the later orders. The main style features are medium shapes and flat brims. The popular crown and brim dimensions at present are 5¼ and 5½ inches and 2½ and 2⅜ inches respectively. There is a slight tendency toward wider brims. The colors wanted are dark greens and browns and tans. Prices have been advanced somewhat and further increases are looked for.

⁂

Prices Up Again on Gray Goods.

The bull drive in the cotton market brought further advances yesterday on gray goods. When the day's trading was over prices had increased generally on all constructions one-eighth of a cent over Saturday's quotations. The course of the market was exceedingly erratic. Not much business passed, owing to the unsettled state of prices. Practically all transactions took place before the opening of the Exchange. Subsequently the mills withdrew quotations. The closing prices, all of which were asked, follow:

39-inch,	80-80s	9¼c	38½-inch,	64-60s	7c
39-inch,	68-72s	8c	38½-inch,	60-52s	6¼c
39-inch,	56-44s	5⅝c	38½-inch,	60-48s	6c
38½-inch,	64-64s	7¼c	27-inch,	64-60s	5⅝c

The Proposed Clothing Merger.

The Board of Directors of the Clothiers' Association of New York will meet today at 12:30 P. M. at the Hotel Brevoort to take action on the proposed amalgamation of the various associations in this market. The action generally expected to be taken will consist of appointing a committee to act in joint conference with committees from the other organizations on the amalgamated plan. In the clothing trade the idea of consolidating the clothiers is generally favored by the manufacturers. The principal objection seems to come from those who do not think it would be feasible to get the groups, with their different labor policies, together. The American association has been working on the protocol idea, the Clothing Trade Association stands for the open shop, and the boys' clothing manufacturers have another arangement with their help.

A Run on Serges.

No one but the manufacturers knows what a run there has been on serge the last season. One firm making popular styles in women's gowns has used 180,000 yards of serge since June, and is now at work making up the material it had on hand for next season. This same firm says that it could have made more money—made an advance of 30 cents a yard—by selling its serge in the piece than it did in making it into gowns, but being in the business it made the gowns and obliged its customers instead of fellow manufacturers. To show the run of prices there is a story told of a buyer who last week visited another firm and looked at serge gowns which he thought of buying. However, he said he would consider it. That was one afternoon, and he considered until the next day. In the meantime the prices had run up from 50 cents to $1.50 a gown, and he bought at the advanced price, a matter not conducive to make him happy or more popular with his firm.

Supreme Court Sustains Agreement.

In a suit by holders of $2,387,000 of the $3,500,000 bond issue of the Kanawha and Hocking Coal and Coke Company against the Toledo & Ohio Central Railroad Company to enforce a guarantee of the bond issue, Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum decided yesterday that the railroad company must live up to its agreement. This ruling was made in spite of the fact that the Federal courts have held that the agreement between the two companies was in violation of the Sherman law.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

DAVID GREENSPAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against David Greenspan, jobber in woolens and silks, 63 Hester Street, by Roth & Bloom, $500; Abraham Shapiro, $500, and Millbrook Woolen Mills, Inc., $1,278. Judge Mayer appointed Daniel Greenwald receiver, bond $3,000, on application of Blau, Zelkin & Cohen, who stated that the liabilities are $45,000 and assets about $20,000.

ISIDORE GINSBERG.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Isidore Ginsberg, manufacturer of feathers, 8 Bond Street, by John G. Kahaly & Sons, Inc., creditors for $827. Liabilities are stated to be $5,000 and assets $2,500. Judge Mayer appointed Geo. W. Elkins receiver; bond, $1,200.

BOTVINIK & WOBRICH.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Botvinik & Wobrich, manufacturers of clothing, 165 Greene Street, by Louis Rosenzweig, $391; Henry Rosenzweig, $100, and Haman Adelman, $12. Judge Mayer appointed Samuel Fichhandler receiver; bond, $500. Liabilities are stated to be $9,000 and assets $1,200.

JOHNSON-SALKELD CO., INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Johnson-Salkeld Co., Inc., wholesale and retail dealers in dairy products, 879 Longwood Avenue, by Vinton M. Morris, $4,992; Breakstone Bros., Inc., $202, and Henneberger & Harold, $125. Liabilities are stated to be $17,000. The company was incorporated on Feb. 28, 1910, with a capital stock of $30,000 and had several retail stores in the Bronx.

MARCEL KAHN, 16 West Forty-sixth Street, formerly of Kahn & Conhagen, women's apparel, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $6,982 and no assets.

LOUIS SILBARGLEIT, 1,476 Wilkins Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,128 and no assets. The Banking Department of the State of New York is a creditor for $202 on notes.

SIMCOX, INC.—Judge Manton has appointed Clara E. McMahon and Edward J. Dowling receivers for Simcox, Inc., fashionable dressmaker at 535 Fifth Avenue, bond $15,000, and they are to continue business until a trustee is elected. Mrs. McMahon founded the business. It was stated that it was necessary to have a receiver appointed to carry on the business, as a large part of the stock is suitable for the Fall trade only. Macgrane Coxe has been designated as referee to take charge of the further proceedings.

FELDMAN GARMENT CO., INC.—Judge Mayer has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on Sept. 12 against the Feldman Garment Co., Inc., manufacturer of cloaks, 40 East Twelfth Street, on a settlement with creditors at 20 cents on the dollar cash.

Judge Mayer in the United States District Court has granted discharges to these bankrupts:

'HONOR' CONVICTS QUIT PRISON CAMP

OSBORNE SUSPECTS A PLOT

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Warden Osborne of Sing Sing Prison was notified early this morning that two convicts had escaped from the "honor camp" at Beekman, N. Y., during the night. The missing men were "Boston Ed." Kelly, a bank burglar, serving a term of from twenty years to life, and Thomas Winters, serving a sentence of from seven to fourteen years.

As soon as he heard of the escape Mr. Osborne sent word of it to the police of all nearby cities and towns, and Calvin Derrick, the assistant Warden, and George Hodson, the Sergeant at Arms, went to the farm to find out how the prisoners got away. Timothy O'Connor, one of the Warden's secretaries, was sent with a corps of men to Beacon, N. Y., because it was said that the fugitives had headed that way. According to reports received late in the day, the two convicts "simply walked out" of the farmhouse in which they lived. They were there when the twelve prisoners who were kept in the camp were counted on Sunday evening.

Because of recent criticisms due to the escapes from Sing Sing and especially the defections from the "honor camp" at Beekman, Warden Osborne issued a statement tonight in which he said that his assistants, as well as the inmates of the prison, had expressed the belief that recent escapes were encouraged by persons outside of the prison. He was inclined to believe, he said, that his enemies having failed in their attack upon his personal reputation, were now trying to injure his record as an executive.

"The formation of the 'honor camp from which the two men escaped," the Warden explained, "was contrary to my best judgment. I believe there are only two ways to control prisoners in camps. One is for the Warden to select men whose terms have nearly expired, and whose incentive to good conduct is approaching freedom, the other is the selection of longer term men by their fellow prisoners, whose incentive to good conduct is their responsibility and loyalty to those who have selected them. Unfortunately neither of the two courses were adopted in the selection of the honor camp at Beekman. It was a condition with which I was confronted when I returned."

"Boston Ed" Kelly had served about five years of his sentence, Winters about eight years. The Mutual Welfare League has offered a reward of $100 in addition to the State allowance for the return of the fugitives.

HENKEL BALKS AT MARRIAGE

Put It Off When He Learns Woman Suing Him Is Divorced.

Though he created a precedent by filing a formal offer of marriage in the County Clerk's office a few days ago as his response to a $50,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Anna Kuhnel, his former housekeeper, Jacob Henkel of 148 East Seventy-eighth Street disappointed lovers of the unusual as well as the plaintiff in the suit by refusing to wed yesterday.

Miss Kuhnel, who had added to her best in raiment a blue opera cloak to commemorate her first meeting with Mr. Henkel, which occurred at the opera, was half an hour late when she arrived at the office of her attorney. From there she and Mr. Henkel hurried to the Marriage License Bureau and got the necessary permit to wed. But in answering the questions put to her by the clerk, Miss Kuhnel said that she had been divorced.

Thereupon Henkel, who Miss Kuhnel says has often expressed devotion to her, displayed once more the vacillation that led his fiance to try a breach of promise suit as an accelerator.

The couple, instead of proceeding to their wedding, rode about in a taxicab to discuss the latest snarl in their romance. At last they agreed to meet this morning at the office of Charles A. Oberwager, Miss Kuhnel's lawyer, where they will try once more to reach an agreement.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks, Still Active, Move Irregularly—The October Cotton Report.

At the opening of dealings on the Stock Exchange yesterday traders were disposed to dismiss the concern which they had felt on Saturday over the submarine agitation in Germany, but they hardly succeeded in dismissing the matter from their minds entirely. It had had a good deal to do with Saturday's reaction and it had a good deal to do with yesterday's irregularity. Alone it might not have been an important matter, but coming as a practical reminder of the hazard of possible bad news, after a prolonged advance, it had the effect of increasing the desire to take profits, without, however, entirely dissipating the public's keenness for speculative venture in the stock market.

The two influences worked against each other yesterday, and, coupled with the activities of those engaged in accelerating advances in certain stocks, produced a price movement which was irregular both in individual stocks and in the market as a whole.

Throughout last week, or, at all events, up to its very close, buying was active and determined. The public was still buying yesterday, but less aggressively and apparently with less determination. Conditions have not changed for the worse, so far as the main forces in the market are concerned, but traders, after having carried stocks up sharply, were more disposed to move slowly enough to enable them to take count of their position. Any accentuation of yesterday's disposition would bring about a large increase in profit-taking sales.

It is characteristic of market sentiment such as we have had in recent weeks that it is inclined to grant the premise of those who suggest the possibility of unexpected bad news and to argue that prices would still move upward even if some such bad news should come. That might well be true in the long run without in any way lessening the need of protecting one's self against the immediate effect of some unfavorable development which might hurt the market for the time being, even if it did not hurt it permanently. Prices have certainly risen far enough to make caution more necessary than it was at the lower levels, and caution should take the form of avoiding all overextension and particularly of providing ample margins. Very frequently in the past the mistake has been made of lowering margins as prices have risen. That is the opposite of common sense, which never in the past has been violated except to the cost of the imprudent. It is generally a short-lived advantage that either broker or customer gets out of the buying of stocks on light margins after a prolonged rise.

The October Government cotton report issued yesterday emphasized the fact that this year we shall have less cotton to spin than was expected at the outset of the season and not much more than was had from last season's very short crop. Similarly it is true that we shall have less wheat to grind into flour than we expected at the outset of the season and very much less than we had a year ago. How far the dimunition in output will be offset by the rise in prices, so far as the result upon American business is concerned, will never be known absolutely and will not be known even relatively until the year has rolled by. What we do know so far is that the rise in prices will offset some of the more pronounced of the disadvantages of the reduced production and that there are other offsets as well which have combined to prevent either the short cotton crop or the shortened wheat crop standing in the way of continued activity in trade. The ill-effects of these short crops will be exerted, but it is not sure that their effect will not be swallowed up in the forces working in the opposite direction—namely, in the forces which have made this the best year in American history.

GREAT WESTERN'S BIG YEAR.

Net Earnings Show an Increase of More Than 100 PerCent.

The Chicago Great Western Railroad enjoyed last year the biggest net earnings in its history. Total operating revenues for the period ended June 30 were $15,067,000, an increase of $1,146,000. Freight earnings gained $847,000 and passenger $207,000. The operating expenses, amounting to $10,716,000, increased only $270,000. The gross income, available for charges and dividends, was $3,984,000, an increase of $848,000, or 27 per cent., and the net income $1,763,000, an increase of $895,000, or 103 per cent.

Mr. Felton says that it has been the thought of the Directors from the first that if the gross earnings could be raised to $15,000,000, or approximately $10,000 a mile, the net earnings would be equal to at least 4 per cent. on the preferred stock. The report is held to verify the prediction.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

American Brass Gains Steadily.

The bid price for American Brass shares has risen 5 points daily since early last week, with a corresponding forward movement in the offering price. This would indicate that a good demand existed, with little stock available. At yesterday's bid of 344, the quotation displayed an advance of 54 points in about a month. In view of the company's big earnings and comparatively small capital, $15,000,000, there is room for the supposition that bidders hope for larger dividends and, possibly, a melon cutting in the shape of a stock dividend. The company had a surplus, on Dec. 31 last, of $12,778,000, of which nearly one-third was saved out of the 1915 earnings after paying 13 per cent. dividends.

September Financing.

New financing by industrial corporations last month scored an increase of more than 200 per cent. over the same month last year. The railroad record was opposite to this, according to The Journal of Commerce, as the total of stock and bond issues was 20 per cent. under that of September, 1915. The new issues put out from both sources amounted to a smaller aggregate than in any other month of this year, and 25 per cent. was for the purpose of paying off or refunding maturing issues. Railroad bonds, stocks, and notes footed up to $36,350,000, of which considerably more than half was bonds. Industrial corporations issued $59,248,800 of securities, including $29,555,800 par value of stocks.

The Bull Argument on War.

Speculators who were discouraged Saturday over the decline of the market on the revival of reports of German submarine warfare plucked up courage yesterday when the market hardened. There were two sides to the chance of trouble with Germany, they argued. The Germans could not get out to hurt us and we could immediately seize some 500,000 tons of ocean bottoms which we need for our record export trade. The war also would make business for the munition companies and prosperity generally would keep on increasing. The argument had little effect on brokers, who have been exacting wider margins since Saturday showed the vulnerability of the market to developments of the war, but it was impressive enough to inspire public buying, counteracting much of the professional trading.

The Standard Trunk Lines.

In a big batch of railroad statements, most of them showing record earnings, the statements of New York Central and Pennsylvania were conspicuous and attracted attention, moreover, because the business of the two standard trunk lines is widely diversified and so a barometer of general business. New York Central showed for all lines in the system an increase of $6,167,508 in gross and $5,839,304 in net. For eight months of the current year gross earnings have increased $52,847,115 and net, $31,539,861. Pennsylvania reported an increase of $6,277,544 in gross and $1,742,345 in net for August, and increases of $58,581,861 in gross and $24,842,450 in net for eight months.

Midvale Meeting Today.

The first annual meeting of stockholders of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the election of five Directors to serve for a period of three years. Wall Street is not interested in that part of the proceedings in the slightest degree. The five Directors whose terms expire will presumably be prevailed upon to serve again, and the proxies will settle that matter in short order. What the Street is interested in is the statement which President Corey will issue. In this he will state that earnings have run in excess of a certain sum per month. He will also, it is reported, indicate in the statement that the initial dividend payment will be made soon after the close of this year.

Just Over a Million.

After a month that broke all records in the history of the Stock Exchange for activity in September, stocks quieted down yesterday, and it looked very much as though the long string of million-share days had been broken. So close did the session come to breaking the record that the first reports made the total 992,000 shares. When all the sheets were in it developed that the trading had amounted to 1,020,000 shares, making the nineteenth consecutive million-share day. October is usually a good month, but it will have to quicken its pace if it is to establish a new record for activity this year.

BRITISH STOCKS DECLINE.

New Exchequer Bonds Affect Investments—Money in Good Demand.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Money was in good demand and discount rates were steady today.

The new Exchequer bonds, with the additional announcement that applications will be received shortly of amounts of £5 and upward, are still adversely affecting investment stocks, which continued to decline on the Stock Exchange today.

Belief that a portion of the French loan will be offered here was an additional depressing factor. On the other hand the banks are receiving liberal orders from customers to apply for the new Exchequer issue. Japanese bonds and Kaffirs were about the only steady sections. American securities moved irregularly.

Investigating for Many Years

That is what we have been doing with public utility properties and public utility securities. Our organization is trained to do that one thing.

You can, we believe, receive a fair rate of return, and be amply protected; for example, we suggest for your consideration, the

The dividend is amply protected.

TO PROTECT BONDHOLDERS.

K. C. Short Line Committee Against Foreclosure of Mortgage.

In view of the filing of a bill by holders of refunding mortgage 4 per cent. bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company, seeking a foreclosure of the refunding mortgage, a committee has been organized to protect the interests of the holders of St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line Railroad first mortgage 4½ per cent. gold bonds, principal and interest of which bonds are unconditionally guaranteed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company. The committee consists of Eugene Meyer, Jr., Horace E. Andrews and Willis D. Wood.

For the same reason a committee, consisting of Henry Ruhlender, Andrew J. Miller and Timothy S. Williams, has been organized for the protection of the interests of the holders of the first mortgage 4½ per cent. gold bonds of the Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisiana Railroad Company, which are also unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company. Alfred A. Cook will act as counsel for both committees.

$70,000 for Stock Exchange Seat.

A membership on the Stock Exchange was sold yesterday for $70,000, the highest price of the year. Names of the participants were withheld for announcement after the meeting of the Committee on Admissions Thursday. The highest price paid for a seat on the board last year was $74,000. The latest transaction shows an advance of $7,000 in the last fortnight.

M. S. Friede Alleges Contract for Sales to Russia Was Broken.

Papers in a suit for damages and commission aggregating nearly $1,500,000 were filed in the Federal District Court yesterday by M. Sergey Friede against the White Company, manufacturers of automobiles in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Friede alleges that he had a contract with the defendant, made prior to the outbreak of the European war, which gave him the exclusive right to sell its product to the Russian Government.

The White Company, Mr. Friede alleged, violated the contract by permitting others to deal in its interest with the Russians. Because of this, he said, the company refused to fill an order he had obtained for the delivery to the Russian Government of 1,000 auto trucks worth more than $4,000,000, while it filled similar orders placed with it by others.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was very irregular. While prices in most instances showed an opening advance, this was almost immediately followed by a decidedly reactionary tendency which lasted for half an hour, only to be followed by a rally and another decline and closing advance in some few stocks.

CITY OF PARIS LOAN DISPOSED OF IN FULL

Books Likely to be Closed as Soon as $50,000,000 Issue Is Offered Today.

TO PAY FOR WAR RELIEF

Sentiment More Than Desire for Gain Said to Have Governed Many Investors.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are offering today at public subscription the $50,000,000 of City of Paris five-year 6 per cent. bonds issued to provide funds for the alleviation of suffering due to the war, at 98¾. At this price the bonds yield 6.30 per cent., which compares favorably with the return on the Anglo-French 5 per cent. bonds, now selling at 95⅝.

In the circular accompanying the announcement the bankers announced that the books would be closed at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon or earlier. As a matter of fact, they will in all probability be closed at 10 o'clock this morning, so heavy has been the response of investors. It was said by bankers associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in the offering that the entire $50,000,000 had been disposed of before the close of business yesterday.

Interest on the new bonds is payable April 15 and Oct. 15, and they will mature on Oct. 15, 1921. Both principal and interest are payable without deduction for any French governmental or municipal taxes, or other French levies. The bonds are redeemable at the option of the City of Paris at 102½.

The purpose of the loan is to reimburse the City of Paris for the important and unusual expenditures to which it has been subjected for more than two years for the alleviation of suffering caused by the war, to provide additional funds for similar expenditures, and for other municipal purposes. In addition to the interest return there is the possibility of a substantial profit in exchange, in the option to collect principal and interest at the rate of 5½ francs on the dollar, the normal rate of exchange being 5.18.

Investment bankers said yesterday that the new issue had made a sentimental appeal to hundreds of Americans who felt a warm regard for Paris, and who had subscribed more for the purpose of helping the city than for the very substantial interest return offered.

PRESERVING PROFITS

In bull markets such as we are now experiencing there is an insistent demand for investment issues into which to place profits, in order that they may be preserved. For the same reason, safe investments are sought out for all forms of surplus funds.

An investment in the preferred stock of Cities Service Company, one of the largest and strongest gas, electric light, power and electric railway organizations in the United States, not only insures the holder the safety of his principal, but also pays him an attractive monthly income.

Personal or written inquiry invited.

7% Cumulative Preferred Shares

Convertible share for share into common shares at any time at option of holder

Listed on the New York Stock Exchange

During the first season of operations net profits were nearly four times the annual dividend requirements of the preferred shares.

The company's recent purchase, out of surplus earnings, of the properties of the Stewart Sugar Company enhances materially the intrinsic value of the shares.

GEM IMPORTS $39,048,504.

Customs Officials Predict Year's Receipts Will Be $50,000,000.

Continued heavy buying of diamonds and other precious stones by American merchants was reported by Special Deputy Appraiser George W. Wolf in a statement given out yesterday covering importations of gems at this port in September.

The entries for the month aggregated $3,614,993, compared with $2,103,292 in September, 1915, and $584,334 in the same month of 1914. Last month's importations fell below those of August, when the precious stones received here totaled $5,535,714. Customs officials attributed the apparent falling off not to lessened buying, but to the circumstance that three inward-bound steamships presumably bringing gems reached port Sunday, one day too late to count on the September report.

As classified by William B. Treadwell, the Government's gem expert, the month's entries were as follows: Cut gems valued at $3,010,145; uncut precious stones, $497,319, and miners' and glaziers' diamonds, $107,529.

Strictly precious stone entries at New York the present calendar year to date amount to $39,048,504, against $26,521,339 for the entire country in the calendar year 1915, the latter figure including precious, semi-precious, and imitation precious stones. In this connection, it was pointed out yesterday that practically all gem entries into the United States were made through the Port of New York. Customs officials predicted that when the Appraiser's office closes New Year's eve this country will have bought $50,000,000 worth of precious stones in the present calendar year.

FOR 20-YEAR WAR BOYCOTT.

Bill Passed in Jamaica Bars Trade with Alien Enemies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 2.—The Governor of Jamaica today declined to allow a conscription bill to be considered at this session on the ground that it involved considerable expenditure by the Imperial Colonial Government.

A resolution that no alien enemy should have business connection with Jamaica for twenty years after the war was unanimously passed by the elected members. The Government members were instructed not to vote.

COTTON UP TO 17.03 IN EXCITED MARKET

Bullish Ginning Report Causes Violent Price Movements Throughout Day.

NET GAIN 58 TO 65 POINTS

Session Adds Sensational Chapter to the History of the Staple—The Trading Enormous.

Yesterday added another chapter to the sensational history of the cotton market, when prices advanced 90 points over Saturday's closing, with enormous trading stimulated by the Government reports on ginning and the condition of the crop. The January option on Saturday closed at 19.10c, and before noon yesterday it had sold at 17.03c. This was a rise of $4.65 per bale. There was a reaction of about 30 points from the top, but the close was steady at a net gain of 58 to 65 points.

The opening was excited at an advance of 5 to 38 points. The ginning figures were published immediately before the opening. The report was construed bullishly, not because the amount was small, but because it happened to be a little less than previous estimates which called for about 4,300,000 bales. The bulls explained the heavy output from the gins on the ground that perfect picking and ginning weather, together with an unprecedented price, had stimulated the South to record activity.

Shortly before the condition report was issued at 11 o'clock the highest prices of the day were established. Shorts were driven to cover amid great excitement, and prices rose 5 and 10 points between sales.

The trading was about the heaviest of any day of the season, and there has been nothing to compare with the violent price movements. It looked as if a great many buying orders had been held off for execution on the publication of the ginning figures. It had been believed that the report would be bearish, and that the condition report to follow at 11 o'clock would be bullish.

Prices yesterday reached the highest level for the general list that has been seen since the famous Sully year, when cotton went to the level of 17½c early early in February of 1904.

SENDING DYES ABROAD.

American-made dyestuffs of all kinds of the value of $389,436 were shipped out of the Port of New York in August to thirty-two foreign countries or possessions. The statistics for the month seemed to prove that, although England is building up a color industry of her own, she is perfectly willing to draw on American supplies to help make up deficiencies at home.

August shipments to England exceeded those to any other country or possession, their value being set down at $68,350, while British India came next, with a total for the period of $63,181. What proportion of these colors were of aniline origin and what amount of logwood and other natural dyes went forward the statistics do not show. The takings of some of the other European countries were as follows: Netherlands, $39,649; Spain, $27,631; Russia in Europe and Asia, $27,060; Italy, $25,985, and France, $22,360.

The month saw a good-sized distribution of American dyestuffs in South America, practically every country of the southern continent being represented in the shipments made from here. Brazil was the largest buyer, her purchases amounting to $37,769, and those of Argentina to $27,361. Chile got supplies worth $6,967, and the remaining South American countries smaller amounts.

Dyestuffs sent forward to Mexico had a value of $8,692, while to Cuba the exports were $2,877. Smaller sales were made to the West Indian countries. According to the report, no dyes were sent to Canada in August.

Australian shipments totaled $8,310, while exports to far-distant points included Siam, $3,110; Egypt, $1,253; the Philippines, $1,172, and British South Africa, $684. Panama was at the foot of the column, with dyes worth only $2. Bolivia was saved from Panama's place in the tabulation by taking colors valued at $3. The August color exports were somewhat ahead of those in the preceding month.

Decision Reserved in Asche Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton reserved decision yesterday on an application by Herman T. Asche, member of an importing firm, for permission to file an amended answer to the suit for separation brought by Mrs. Asta Asche, 19 years old, who left him six weeks after he married her and charged that he had been cruel. In his answer Asche asks an annulment and wants to set up an alleged conspiracy between his wife and her mother, Mrs. O'Connor, to compel Asche to pay his wife a large sum of money. Asche also asks that the allowance of $250 a month alimony be cancelled because of the charges he makes against his wife.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—Dr. Raimundo Menocal, cousin of the President, has been appointed Secretary of Sanitation, succeeding the late Dr. Nunez. He is one of the foremost physicians of Cuba.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was moderately active, and prices were firm, closing near the top, with net gains of 2⅛ to 2⅝c. The visible supply in the United States increased 744,000 bushels; bonded wheat increased 45,000, while the Canadian visible decreased 751,000, making a total increase in the American visible of 39,000, compared with an increase last year of 9,763,000. In the local cash market No. 1 durum was quoted at 1.83¾; No. 2 hard, 1.74¾; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 1.85¾; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 1.81¾, all free on board New York.

CORN.

Following the wheat advance, corn was firm all day and closed ¾@1¼c net higher, and top for the session. There were poor husking returns from the Southwest, and some talk of approaching less favorable weather after the perfect conditions of the past few days during which the maturing of corn has made excellent progress. Cables were steady. Locally cash corn was firm, with No. 2 yellow $1.00¼, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was only moderately active, but prices were firmer, closing with net gains of ⅜c to ½c. Prices were influenced largely by the action of wheat and corn, while sentiment was divided. The visible supply increased 2,333,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 893,000 last year. The local cash market was steady; standard quoted at 53 to 53½c; No. 3 white, 52½ to 53c; No. 4 white, 52 to 52½c; fancy clipped white, 55¼ to 56½c; ordinary clipped white, 53½ to 54½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

A further decline in the hog market and liberal receipts of hogs at Western points caused further selling in the provision list and the undertone was weak. Packers were believed to be against the market on the theory that hogs are too high and the cash trade is only moderate. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 35,000; estimated for Tuesday, 17,000; Kansas City received 12,000 and Omaha 4,600.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The strength and activity in the cotton market had a stimulating influence on cottonseed oil, but toward the close the market experienced a partial reaction under profit taking sales and in sympathy with a decline in lard. Final prices, however, were 14 to 23 points above the final of Saturday. Total sales were 36,400 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market lost a good part of its recent rally during yesterday's trading. The selling was not particularly active, but it seemed to come from trade sources, as well as from the realizing or liquidation of scattering longs, while there was comparatively little support in evidence, and after trading at 8.89c early March contracts declined to 8.74c. The general list closed at a net decline of 13 to 20 points. Sales were reported of 25,750 bags. The local spot market was dull, with quotations unchanged for Rio grades on the basis of 9½c for 7s, while Santos coffees were a shade lower at 11¾c for 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

After an irregular opening the market for sugar futures became firmer and active, due to the advancing spot and refined sugar markets, and covering caused values to advance sharply. There was good trade buying late in the day, with final figures being 3 to 14 points net higher, and total sales 12,050 tons. New crop positions were almost neglected throughout the day. The market for refined sugar was firmer and prices were higher, in sympathy with the advance in raws. There was a good business early, but when prices advanced, the demand tapered off. Fine granulated ranged from 6.85c to 7c. The market for raw sugar was active, and at the close was cleared of all offerings, with refiners showing a further interest at 5c. Quotations follow: Centrifugal, 6.02c; molasses, 5.12c; cost and freight, 5c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,975 packages. A higher and somewhat excited market for nearly all grades of both fresh and held butter. Local buyers are taking hold pretty well, and there is some renewal of export interest. A good deal of stock will probably clear for Europe this week. Prices are ½@¾c higher on fresh creamery, and about ½c advance has been established on ladles and packing stock. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 9,404 cases. The week opened with a fairly liberal offering of fresh-gathered stock, including a good many accumulations of medium and ordinary qualities carried over from last week. Demand is moderate, and the market shows little change in the range of values. Strictly fine to fancy qualities are still in comparatively small supply and firm, and there is moderate trading in the medium and lower grades, although offerings of these are still more than ample. Advices indicate lighter shipments in transit, and holders are generally showing some confidence in the position. Storage eggs have been meeting rather more attention of late, and there is a stronger holding, with occasional sales of fine to fancy qualities a little higher than previously quoted. Nearby white eggs have had some accumulation during the recent Jewish holidays; the proportion of strictly fancy grade is still small, and these are wanted to the full extent of the supply at firm prices; medium and lower qualities continue irregular. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 38@39c; extra firsts, 36@37c; firsts, 32½@35c; seconds, 30@32c; thirds and poorer, 27@29c; dirties, No. 1, 28@28½c; No. 2 and poorer, 25@27c; checks, good to choice, dry, 26c; undergrades, 23@25c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 31@31½c; firsts, 30@30½c; seconds, 28@29½c; lower grades, 26@27½c; dirties, 25½@27c; refrigerator, State, whites, 32@33c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 45@50c; ordinary to good, 36@44c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 34@44c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 32@38c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, 38@42c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 32@39c.

City of Paris Five-Year Six Per Cent Gold Bonds
(MUNICIPAL EXTERNAL LOAN OF 1916)
Due October 15, 1921
INTEREST PAYABLE APRIL 15 AND OCTOBER 15.

Principal and interest payable without deduction for any French governmental or municipal taxes or other French taxes.

Principal and interest payable in New York in United States gold coin, or, at the option of the holder (to be exercised as to principal thirty days before the date of maturity or of redemption) in Paris in France at the fixed rate of Francs 5.50 per Dollar.

Redeemable at the option of the City of Paris at 102½ per cent. on October 15, 1918, or on any interest date thereafter on ninety days' published notice.

Coupon bearer bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100 each.

The Government of the French Republic is to undertake to furnish and permit the exportation of gold, so far as necessary, to permit the City of Paris to pay the interest or principal amount of the loan in gold in the City of New York. This loan is, we are informed, the only external loan of the City of Paris.

The purpose of the loan is stated to be to reimburse the Citty of Paris for the very important and unusual expenditures to which it has been subjected for more than two years for the alleviation of suffering caused by the war, to provide for additional similar expenditures and for other municipal purposes.

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS AT 98.. PER CENT. AND ACCRUED INTEREST, AT WHICH PRICE THE BONDS NET 6.30 PER CENT. ON THE INVESTMENT.

In addition there is the possibility of a very substantial profit in exchange, in view of the option to collect the principal and interest of the Bonds at the rate of Francs 5.50 per Dollar, while the normal rate of exchange before the war was about Francs 5.18 per Dollar.

The subscription will be closed at 3 o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, October 4, 1916, or earlier, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice.

A first payment of $50 per $1,000 bond subscribed for must accompany all subscriptions. The balance of the amount due on bonds allotted upon subscriptions will be payable in New York funds, on Monday, October 16, 1916, at the office of the undersigned, against delivery of temporary certificates exchangeable for engraved bonds when received.

If no allotment is made, the first payment will be repaid in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the first payment will be applied towards the amount due on October 16, 1916. No interest will be allowed on such first payment. If any further balance remains, such balance will be repaid. Failure to pay the second instalment, when due, will render the previous payment liable to forfeiture.

All allotments will be made subject to the necessary official action to complete the transaction and to the opinion of Counsel as to legality.

BAD WEATHER CUTS INTO COTTON YIELD

Storms and Insects Cause a Loss of Almost 3,000,000 Bales in Planted Area.

GINNING BEING RUSHED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Storms and insects have wrought havoc with the cotton crop this year and caused a loss of almost 3,000,000 bales throughout the growing season. The crop will be approximately 11,637,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, according to the Department of Agriculture's forecasts made today, basing its estimate on the condition of the crop on Sept. 25.

In the first forecast of production, made from conditions existing June 25, the quantity was estimated at 14,266,000 bales. The condition on Sept. 25 was 56.3 per cent. of a normal, which is the lowest condition on record for that time of the year.

Cotton this year was planted on the fourth largest acreage ever recorded—35,994,000 acres. In 1911, when 36,045,000 acres were planted, the crop was 15,693,000 bales; in 1913, when there were 37,089,000 acres, the crop was 14,156,000 bales, and in 1914, when the acreage was 36,832,000, the crop amounted to 16,135,000 bales.

Indications are that this year's crop will yield only 156.3 pounds an acre, compared with 207.7 pounds in 1911; 182 pounds in 1913, and 209.2 pounds in 1914.

In a statement issued today on conditions existing Sept. 25, the Crop Reporting Board said:

"There was heavy deterioration in cotton again this month in the central cotton States. Bollweevils in Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Louisiana, and Florida have taken a heavy toll, puncturing and destroying grown bolls to a larger extent than ever before known. This insect has, in addition, seriously damaged the crop in portions of Oklahoma, Georgia, and Tennessee. Caterpillars have injured the late cotton in Southern Texas and Eastern Florida. Cool nights caused a cessation of fruiting, and the plant shed its fruit considerably in the northern portion of the cotton belt.

"The weather during the month was very favorable for gathering the crop, and the high prices prevailing for both cotton and the seed caused the farmers in all parts of the South to rush gathering and ginning, and there has been a much larger percentage of the crop put through the gins than usual at this time of the year. In Southern Mississippi and Alabama, where the crop is practically a failure, one picking got the crop, the average in many counties being a bale to the mule or less."

The condition of the crop and the indicated acre yield, with comparisons by States, follows:

Farmers are receiving for their cotton at this time higher prices than have been paid since 1872. In that year the average paid for cotton was 16.5 cents. In 1871 prices averaged 17.9 cents and in 1869 16.5 cents. The demoralization of the cotton market soon after the outbreak of the war caused a violent break in prices. On Aug. 1, 1914, farmers were being paid 12.4 cents a pound for their cotton, and by Nov. 1 the price had fallen to 6.3 cents a pound.

Ginning of the cotton crop is breaking all records. Announcement today by the Census Bureau that 4,062,991 bales had been ginned from this year's crop prior to Sept. 25 disclosed that all former totals for ginning to that date had been exceeded, even that of 1914, when the country's largest cotton crop was grown, and 3,393,752 bales were ginned to Sept. 25. Heretofore the largest quantity ginned prior to Sept. 25 was in 1911, when it was 3,676,594 bales.

Ginnings prior to Sept. 25, by States, with comparisons for the last three years follow:

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

A Number of Decisions in Reappraisement Proceedings.

Labor, packing, and manufacturing costs generally, are mounting in the canned goods industry in France and England, according to testimony put before the Board of General Appraisers in several reappraisement cases decided yesterday. One of these cases related to the value for dutiable purposes to be put on artichoke bottoms packed in tins, and shipped to New York importers by S. Reiss, Bordeaux. They were entered at the Custom House as having a foreign value of 143.20 francs per case. Judge Hay decided that the local officials were justified in making the dutiable basis 170 francs per case. Brussels sprouts from the same shipper were entered at 42.45 francs, and advanced by the General Appraiser to 50.90 francs per case.

New York importers of artichoke hearts were more fortunate, as Judge Hay held that the goods had not been undervalued, thereby reversing the Appraiser's office. The hearts were forwarded by L. A. Price & Co., Bordeaux. The entered value of 121.50 francs per case was allowed to stand for the purposes of liquidation.

Shipments of orange marmalade in tins and glass jars were before Board 2 for decision. The marmalade in seven-pound tins was entered as having an English value of 29 shillings per dozen tins, the commodity being shipped to New York by Crosse & Blackwell, London. The board returned the marmalade at 36 shillings, 4½ pence per dozen tins. The board's decision on the marmalade in glass jars advanced it to 6 shillings, 3 pence per dozen, including jars.

Antique rugs brought to this country by Jules Ratzkowski formed the subject of a decision by Board 3. It appeared that Ratzkowski purchased the rugs in Cairo, and shipped them to New York where they were forwarded in bond to Montreal, the owner intending to sell them in the Canadian metropolis. Not finding a market for his wares there, he shipped them to New Orleans. The Collector demanded duty on the basis of the value of rugs in Montreal, and in this he was upheld by Judge McClelland in a reappraisement proceeding. The goods were entered as having a value in Cairo at the date of shipment of 24 cents per square foot, while the Montreal value as returned by the New Orleans Appraiser was 50 cents. Board 3, consisting of General Appraisers Fischer and Hay, reversing the officials below held that the lower market price prevailing in Cairo was the proper basis for levying the ad valorem duty.

Importers at Los Angeles, of Japanese cabinet woods fared better yesterday, at the hands of Judge Cooper in a reappraisement case than they had expected. The merchandise included quartered sawn oak, oak squares, and sawn birch in various forms, the whole being shipped by Masuda & Co., Yokohama. The importers apparently were convinced that the goods were not invoiced by the shippers at full Japanese market prices, so they added 5 per cent in making entry. This did not satisfy Collector Elliott, who wanted duty on a still higher basis. Later data regarding prices received in time for the trial convinced the General Appraiser that it was unnecessary for the importers to add the 5 per cent. He decided that the original invoiced prices represented market, and therefore dutiable, values. The Collector was reversed.

Metropolitan Petroleum Corporation

This Corporation has acquired oil rights in approximately 323,000 acres in the best petroleum-producing fields of Mexico, and controls the most comprehensive concessions ever granted by Mexico for pipe line facilities and terminals.

Considering its low capitalization and superb management, we know of no oil stock which offers such prospects for substantial enhancement of value.

Reorganization of The Associated Merchants Company and United Dry Goods Companies

under the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization dated December 28, 1915.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit for the Stock of the above Companies under said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization:

Notice is hereby given that the stock of the new company formed pursuant to the plan and agreement of reorganization dated December 28, 1915, to wit, ASSOCIATED DRY GOODS CORPORATION, is now ready for distribution to the holders of certificates of deposit issued under said plan and agreement by United States Trust Company of New York.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, will act as distributing agent for the new stock. Upon presentation and surrender of the certificates of deposit as hereinafter directed, the holders thereof will be entitled to receive the amounts of stock and fractional scrip for stock of the new company called for by said plan and agreement of reorganization.

Certificates of deposit should be presented or sent to Bankers Trust Company, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City; and in case it is desired that the stock certificates for the new stock be issued in the same name as that appearing upon the face of the certificate of deposit, they need not be endorsed or assigned. In case it is desired that the certificates for the new stock be issued in a name other than that appearing on the face of the certificates of deposit, the certificates of deposit must be endorsed or assigned to the person in whose name it is desired that the new stock certificates shall be issued, and such endorsement or assignment must be signed by the person named on the face of the certificate of deposit, which signature must correspond with such name in every part and must be witnessed and guaranteed by a New York Stock Exchange house or some bank having a New York correspondent. In such case the certificate of deposit must also be accompanied by a two cent New York State stock transfer tax stamp for each share of stock represented by such deposit certificate, or else by two cents in cash for each such share. To facilitate the exchange of certificates of deposit for stock, it is recommended that holders of certificates of deposit residing outside New York City forward their certificates of deposit through their local banks.

WOMAN AND SON SUE HYDE ESTATE

SHE RECEIVED ANNUITY

Payment of $2,000 a Year Said to Have Been Promised Her in the Will.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 2.—Suits for $40,000 and $400,000, respectively, against the executors of the estate of Seymour J. Hyde of New York and Greenwich, Conn., who died on Feb. 14, 1915, leaving $2,000,000, were filed today in the Superior Court here by Theresa Donohue, 50 years old, and her son, Albert Donohue, 30 years old, both of New York City.

In her deposition Mrs. Donohue says that she met Mr. Hyde in 1885, and her son, Albert, was born in May, 1886. She alleges that Mr. Hyde promised to pay her $2,000 a year from that time and did so until he died. In addition she says that he promised to provide for her in his will at the same rate. Basing her claim on her expectation of life from the time of Mr. Hyde's death, when she was 48 years old, she asks for $40,000.

He rson, in his petition, says that Mr. Hyde educated him and supported him until his death as his father. It is further pointed out that Mr. Hyde married Elizabeth Worrall on April 25, 1891, and by her had five children, and that he provided for the education and maintenance of the plaintiff during all his married life.

This is the second time that the private life of the late woolen merchant has been questioned in the courts. On May 26, 1914, his former valet, Joseph Deutsch, was arraigned in the City Court in Greenwich, after being arrested several days before at the gates of the Hyde estaet, after alleged threats to kill Mr. Hyde. Deutsch said he would make sensational disclosures when he was allowed to testify on the witness stand. Efforts were made, however, to keep him off the stand and have him declared insane. The testimony was never given. Deutsch said that he was a cousin of Mrs. Hyde and that he never knew why he was discharged from Mr. Hyde's employ. He said he was told by Mr. Hyde that he would be shot if he came near the house, and that he went to Greenwich to get some of the servants to testify for him against his former employer.

DICKINSON ESTATE GONE.

Carnegie Trust Failure Swept Away President's Fortune.

Charles C. Dickinson, founder of the Carnegie Trust Company and President of the company after the resignation of Leslie M. Shaw, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, left an estate valued at $724,981 at his death, on May 24, 1910. As a result of the failure of the trust company eight months later and the inability of the Dickinson executors to collect from the purchasers of part of his stock in the trust company and in the Carnegie Safe Deposit Company which also failed, the assets shrank until the estate became insolvent.

The transfer tax report filed yesterday showed that the banker had assets of $40,038 and liabilities of $413,043. In addition, there are two suits pending against the estate, in which the Superintendent of Banks is seeking to collect $96,000 for Mr. Dickinson's liability as a stockholder of the Carnegie Safe Deposit Company and the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company.

The executors listed among the assets of the estate a claim of $64,842 against Mrs. Anna Estelle Kidd, mother-in-law of Mr. Dickinson, for moneys paid out for her, but she alleged that the decedent really was indebted to her, and suit brought by the estate resulted in a judgment in favor of Mrs. Kidd. The executors also made a claim for $30,347 against Mrs. Grace Georgette Dickinson, the decedent's wife, but she filed a counterclaim for $179,912.

Among the claims filed against the estate were $70,000 by the Bethlehem Steel Company for 500 shares of Carnegie Safe Deposit stock bought by the decedent, and [illegible],000 by Charles M. Schwab under an agreement by Dickinson to indemnify him as a holder of safe deposit stock. Mr. Schwab has been sued for this sum by the Superintendent of Banks. The assets of the estate included $50,000 insurance in the Equitable Life, $5,919 in cash, and jewelry worth $3,000. The indebtedness consisted largely of notes to banking institutions for loans.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Morton F. Plant Sells His Fifth Avenue Residence Assessed at $925,000—Bronx Flats in Trade—Harlem Landmark Torn Down—Bedford Estate Sale—Business and Dwelling Leases.

Morton F. Plant, who is building his new city residence on upper Fifth Avenue, at the northeast corner of Eighty-sixth Street, has sold his former home at 651 Fifth Avenue, southeast corner of Fifty-second Street. It is one of the finest and newest of the expensive residences in what was, up to a few years ago the choice Fifth Avenue residential locality, being opposite the Vanderbilt twin houses. The block was improved several years ago after the sale of the old Catholic Orphan Asylum. The Union Club bought the Fifty-first Street corner for its new clubhouse, and the upper half of the block was devoted to three splendid private homes. W. B. Osgood Field lives in the one at 645, adjoining the Union Club, and Robert Goelet recently occupied the other house at 647, which is owned by W. K. Vanderbilt.

The Plant house is a five-story building of white marble and granite covering a plot 50.5 on the avenue by 100.5 on the street. It is assessed at $925,000, of which $800,000 is land value. The name of the buyer was not disclosed.

Mr. Plant purchased his uptown plot at Eighty-sixth Street last year, as he felt that the business invasion had made too great an inroad in the old district below Fifty-ninth Street, and he decided to build another residence which was designed by Guy Lowell. It is now well advanced toward completion. The lower of the Vanderbilt twin houses has just been extensively remodeled by Cornelius Vanderbilt who, notwithstanding the incursions of trade, has decided to make that his permanent city home.

$575,000 West Side Apartment.

Plans have been filed for a thirteen-story apartment house on the southwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, a plot 100 by 102.2. Mulliken & Moeller, the architects and who represent the owners, estimate the cost at $575,000.

Tenement Investments.

The five-story tenement at 507 East 118th Street, 25 by 100, has been sold by the E. A. Polak Realty Company for Lena Bathis to Benedetto Zunppeta, who gave in exchange the plot at 52 Bay Twenty-second Street, Brooklyn, on plot 45 by 100.

Frieda Hart has purchased from the Casualty Company of America the three tenements, respectively, at 165 West 136th Street, 27 by 99.11; 52 Allen Street, 25 by 87.6, and 304 Henry Street, 20 by 95.3.

Tearing Down Harlem Landmark.

The old building known as Majestic Hall, at 115 to 125 East 125th Street, one of the Harlem landmarks, is being torn down to make way for a theatre and business building. The property is owned by the Andrew Soher estate. It has a frontage of 100 feet on 125th Street, and four old houses in the rear, fronting 66.8 on 126th Street, are also owned by the same estate. The Harlem Police Court was located in the building for several years, and up to a short time ago it was used as a Municipal Court.

Bronx Sales.

The four-story double flat at 751 East 152d Street, 25 by 143, has been sold by Alexander Selkin and David Mintz for the John T. Tully Company, and resold for the latter to Buffo Brothers.

John Ohlwein, Jr., has sold to Anna Venezia the four-story flat at 2,345 Beaumont Avenue, 25 by 100, near 187th Street. In exchange the buyer gave the plot with two houses at 447 Jackson Avenue, 25 by 145.

Sales at Huntington.

Robert L. McBrien, Assistant Postmaster at Huntington, L. I., has purchased the Charlotte F. Wessel residence on Sammis Avenue, Abraham L. Field was the broker, and he has also sold the E. J. Mahoney house on the Cross Realty Company's property on Cold Spring Hill to Manly R. Hubbs.

Staten Island Buyers.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for the estate of M. Scharff the frame dwelling with five lots on Richmond Avenue, Arrochar, to Henry Silliano, and also has sold two lots at Hillcrest Park, Great Kills, to Charles Brown.

Mount Vernon Auction Results.

Joseph P. Day sold last Saturday afternoon at auction fifty building lots in the Oakwood section of Mount Vernon for an average price of $691 per lot. Among the largest buyers were William G. Gallagher, Clinton T. Taylor, and Julius Samuels.

Westchester.

The Scarsdale Estates Organization, Robert E. Farley, President, has sold E. R. Mixer's residence on Berkeley Road, in the Greenacres section of Scarsdale, to M. L. Raem. Mr. Mixer has purchased a larger plot at the corner of Greenacres Avenue and Brayton Road through the same brokers.

The frame dwelling at 5 Lamartine Terrace, 50 by 100, Yonkers, has been purchased by J. H. Van Deventer for occupancy from George J. Stengel. Gaul & Bell were the brokers.

John Crawford has sold for Frederick E. Lewis, 2d, a fourteen-acre estate at Bedford, Westchester County, to Millicent T. Roelker. On the property are a large residence and outbuildings. It was held at $20,000.

Buys Paterson Factory Site.

The Victory Silk Company of Paterson, N. J., has purchased a tract on Wood, Bleeker and Shady Streets for improvement with a factory, 75 by 230, one story in height, to cost $40,000.

The firm of Louis Schlesinger has sold at Newark for Mrs. Alice B. Welshman the two-family house at 163 Woodside Avenue, near Delavan Avenue, 28 by 125.

Commercial Leases.

Negotiations have been closed by Maison Maurice, now at the northwest corner of Forty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, resulting in the subletting of its present quarters to Hanan & Son, the shoe merchants, for the remaining months of its lease. Maison Maurice will move to its new quarters in the Maison Maurice building, 661-663 Fifth Avenue, near Fifty-second Street, about Dec. 1. Hanan & Son did not expect to get possession of the quarters until July 1, 1917, at the expiration of the latter's lease.

In the new Maison Maurice building the seventh and eighth lofts have been leased to Hickson, ladies' tailor, now occupying several lofts in the adjoining building. The lease is for seven years at an aggregate of $125,000. S. D. Cooper was the broker. Lind & Pfeiffer, as attorneys, represented Maison Maurice and San & Eisner represented Hickson.

Cross & Brown Company has leased the building at 604 East Forty-seventh Street to the Frederick Starr Contracting Company.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—EDWARD H. TITUS and others as Executors, &c., and others, Complainants, against UNITED STATES SMELTING, REFINING AND MINING EXPLORATION COMPANY and others, Defendants.

In pursuance of an order duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 4th day of August, 1916, I, the undersigned, the Special Master named in said order, will sell at public auction at the Exchange Salesrooms, Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 18th day of October, 1916, at 12:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, by Adrian H. Muller & Son, auctioneers, to the highest and best bidder at said sale, without appraisement or valuation, one hundred thousand (100,000) shares of the stock of Ebner Gold Mining Company and one thousand (1,000) shares of the stock of Humboldt Mining Company, now in the custody of this court in the above-entitled action. The stock to be so sold will be put up for sale as an entirety. The successful bidder at said sale must pay five per cent. (5%) on the price bid in cash or by certified check satisfactory to said Special Master and the balance thereof must be paid within thirty days of the acceptance of the bid. Said stock will be sold subject to a lien in favor of the defendant in the above-entitled action for an amount which shall hereafter be determined by the Court to be due the said defendant for the sums of money expended by it subsequent to March 6th, 1916, in preserving and protecting the properties of the Ebner Gold Mining Company, including the water rights of said company, which said lien shall not exceed, however, four thousand dollars ($4,000) per month from March 6th, 1916, to the date of said sale.

Dated, New York, October 3d, 1916.
WALBRIDGE S. TAFT,
Special Master.

CITATION.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

United States of America, Southern District of New York, ss.:

Whereas, a petition was filed in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York on the 19th day of September, 1916, by The Cunard Steamship Company, Limited, owner of the steamship "Lusitania" and her pending freight, for limitation of its liability for all loss, damage or injury caused by or resulting from the sinking and total loss of the said steamship "Lusitania" on May 7, 1915; and

Whereas, the said petitioner filed with the Clerk of the said Court on the 19th day of September, 1916, an ad interim stipulation in the sum of $100,000, duly approved, undertaking to pay into the Court within ten days after the entry of an order confirming the report of the Commissioner to be appointed to appraise the amount or value of the said petitioner's interest in the said steamship "Lusitania," and her pending freight, the amount or value of such interest as thus ascertained, or to file in this proceeding a bond or stipulation for value in the usual form with approved surety in said amount;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of a monition issued by the said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby cite all persons claiming damages for any and all loss, damage or injury caused by or resulting from the said sinking and loss of the steamship "Lusitania," to file and make due proof of their respective claims before Alex Gilchrist, Jr., Commissioner, at his office at Room 347, U. S. Court House and Post Office Building, New York City, on or before the 26th day of December, 1916, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and also to appear before the said Court at the Court Rooms thereof in the Post Office Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 26th day of December, 1916, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and answer the petition herein; otherwise they will be defaulted and debarred from participation in the said proceedings.

Dated, New York, September 19, 1916.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, FIRST JUDICIAL District.—In the matter of the application of the PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION for the First District of the State of New York, by the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York, acting for and on behalf of The City of New York, for the appointment of Commissioners of Appraisal, pursuant to Chapter 4 of the Laws of 1891 and the several statutes amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, relative to acquiring an estate in fee simple absolute in and to certain premises situated on the southerly side of EAST 179TH STREET, between BOSTON ROAD and the BRONX RIVER, in the Borough of the BRONX, City of New York, required for the purpose of the construction, maintenance, and operation in perpetuity of a portion of a Rapid Transit Railroad known as the BOSTON ROAD AND WHITE PLAINS ROAD CONNECTION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the report of Martin Geiszler, Samuel Cowen, and Edward Perpeet, Commissioners of Appraisal, duly appointed in the above entitled proceeding, which report bears date the 31st day of August, 1916, was filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Bronx on the 23d day of September, 1916.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that said report will be presented for confirmation to the Supreme Court of the State of New York at a Special Term, Part I., thereof, for the hearing of motions to be held in and for the County of Bronx in the First Judicial District, at the County Court House in the Borough of the Bronx, in the City of New York, on the 13th day of October, 1916, at the opening of Court on that day, and that then and there, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard thereon, a motion will be made that said report be confirmed.

Dated New York, September 29, 1916.
LAMAR HARDY,
Corporation Counsel, Municipal Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—At the suit of the United States demanding forfeiture thereof under the provisions of the Pure Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, Sec. 10, I have seized and hold 31 cases of canned vegetables. Notice is hereby given that the cause is appointed for trial at the U. S. Court and Post Office Building, Manhattan, New York, on October 16, 1916, at the opening of Court. All persons are notified then and there to appear and defend their interest, if any, in said goods. All not appearing will be defaulted.

Dated, September 29, 1916.

AMONG suburban home places that are "worth while" the one that stands out in "a class by itself," alone and unrivalled as a master development, is beautiful

Brightwaters
BAYSHORE L. I.

BRIGHTWATERS is one hour from the heart of Manhattan and Brooklyn. Express train service between all points meets every requirement of the average business man. For generations Brightwaters has been a gentleman's estate 'twixt other magnificent estates, and therefore is secure against detrimental encroachment.

Long Island's BIG EVENT

Families attracted by suburban living owe it to themselves—to their children—to see what has been accomplished for their benefit and lasting enjoyment at this wonderful place.

Why It Is Popular and Successful

YOU will find here a magnificent yacht harbor, three-quarters of a mile long, one hundred and seventy-five feet wide, which affords safe boat anchorage.

THEATRES, schools, churches, casino, library, market, banks, tennis, golf links, post office, general store, garages, public parks, fire department, gas, electric light, telephone, fire hydrants, taxi and auto-bus service to station and other villages. Deliveries from New York, Brooklyn, and local stores to your door.

THIRTY miles of picturesque winding drives and broad avenues; forest of grand old shade and ornamental trees. Five sparkling spring-fed, parklike lakes, safe for children.

BOATING, fishing, gunning, salt-water bathing unsurpassed.

TWELVE to sixteen degrees cooler in summer and many degrees warmer in winter than Manhattan.

A COMMUNITY of happy, healthful, congenial people. All the health-giving recreative features of land and sea practically at your door.

LOW taxes instead of high city taxes.

SOME pleasing vista or new diversion awaits you at every turn. Nothing seems lacking to make the joy of living complete. The carefree, wholesome, simple life there is exquisite.

IN FACT, over $3,000,000 have already been expended in homes and improvements.

Many Other Reasons Can Be Given Why You and Your Family Will Enjoy Living at Beautiful Brightwaters.

HERE, Mr. Business Man, after each restful night you will awaken refreshed in mind and body, full of vigor, ready to meet your business battles. All of which means more earning power and more cheerfulness in business and at home. A KING CAN HAVE NO MORE.

NOTWITHSTANDING these unequalled advantages and attractions and the fact that present prices of choice Building Plots are admittedly low we are going to make

TO OWNERS
Vacant Apartments consume more income than it takes to keep the property in good condition. If your house is carefully managed, well kept at all times, tenants will be attracted to it and you will have a paying investment.
Our experience of 30 years in successfully handling apartment houses is vouched for by people we have represented. An officer of our company will call upon you if requested to do so. Our terms are reasonable.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Radio reports indicate the presence of a disturbance about 200 miles off the Georgia or South Carolina coast and northeast storm warnings have been ordered from Fort Monroe to Charleston; otherwise pressure remains high east of the Mississippi River, with the crest over New England and low to the westward, except in the Canadian Northwest, where there was another rapid rise.

Temperatures generally have risen east of the Rocky Mountains, but they are still somewhat low in the Atlantic States, and frost again occurred Monday morning as far south as Virginia.

In the Far West temperatures continue to fall, and they are from 15 to 30 degrees below the seasonal average over interior sections.

There was no precipitation of consequence east of the Mississippi River, but to the westward, except in the Southwest, it was fairly general, though mostly light, and snow is falling tonight in Southwestern Montana and Northern Nevada.

Except for rains along the Atlantic Coast and in the northern Upper Lake region, fair weather will continue Tuesday and Wednesday east of the Mississippi River, with no temperature changes of consequence, except a moderate rise Tuesday in the interior of the Atlantic States.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate northeast, probably increasing Tuesday night, weather becoming unsettled.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Southern New England—Fair Tuesday; warmer in interior. Wednesday, increasing cloudiness.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair, slightly warmer, Tuesday. Wednesday, partly cloudy.

Northern New England—Fair Tuesday; warmer in the interior. Wednesday, fair.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The commission announces for Nov. 10, at the New York Custom House, an examination for stenographer and typewriter, for men only, to fill vacancies as they may occur in the departmental service, Washington, D. C. By reason of newly created positions the appointments of nearly 200 men as stenographers and typewriters are expected at an early date. The usual entrance salary is $900 a year; a few appointments are made at $1,000, and extremely few at higher salaries. Promotion is reasonably rapid for those whose services prove satisfactory. As the demand for eligibles for this position has recently been greater than the supply, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination. Age, 18 years or over on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

EDUCATION NOTES.

A class in commercial and industrial art has just been organized for girls and women in the Stuyvesant Evening Trade School, Fifteenth Street, between First and Second Avenues. The instruction and materials are free to any girl over 14 years of age with artistic ability or those employed requiring art knowledge. Instruction in the course consists of fashion and costume designing, lettering, wash pen and ink rendering, sketching from life and advertising illustrations. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. Arthur Meyer is the instructor in charge.

The lawn party at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, will be held from 4 P. M. to 6 P. M. on Oct. 5. Its object is to get all the students and all the instructors together. There will be a procession, a pantomime and refreshments.

There has been a postponement of the meeting of the High School Teachers' Association on Oct. 7, as many of the members could not attend on Yom Kippur. At the postponed meeting, on Nov. 18, at 10:30 A. M., in the Washington Irving High School, Associate Superintendent George Wheeler of Philadelphia will discuss the pedagogical phase and Associate Superintendent Edward B. Shallow of New York the administrative phase of the Junior High School. John H. Denbigh of the Morris High School will open the discussion. Seventh and eighth grade teachers and all others interested are invited.

Acting City Superintendent Straubenmuller has called the attention of public school principals to the fact that Oct. 9 will be celebrated as "Fire Prevention Day."

The Institute for Public Service has written to the Board of Estimate that the number of over size classes in the public schools is very large, and has called for funds to lessen the evil.

Miss Josephine Piechowski, a blind girl who was graduated from Wadleigh High School in June, has entered Hunter College.

Substitute licenses to teach in elementary schools the subjects indicated have been granted to the following:

Cooking, Gladys N. Strang; physical training, Bertha B. Barry and Florence Sacks; shopwork, Jacob Fabricant and Clarence Weiss.

Licenses as substitute teacher of kindergarten in elementary schools have been granted to the following: Rebecca Cohen, Sarah J. Forstadt, Jennie Lasser, Sadie M. Levy, Helen M. Macdowell, Eva Meisel, Margaret M. C. Quinn, and Regina C. Smith.

ZELAYA KILLS FOUR CHAMORRO VOTERS

CHAMORRO NEW PRESIDENT

Former Minister to Washington Chosen Without Opposition—Irias Fearing Nonrecognition, Withdraws.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 2.—In a fight which broke out here yesterday in the course of the election of General Emiliano Chamorro as President of the republic, Salvador Zelaya, a nephew of ex-President Zelaya, attacked a group of Conservatives, shooting and killing four of them. In the course of the fighting Zelaya himself was seriously wounded, while a number of other persons were also hurt. The police quickly intervened and quelled the disorder.

The four men killed were buried with military honors today, thousands of Conservatives quietly following the bodies to the grave.

General Chamorro, who was unopposed for the office of Chief Executive, has been for years one of the active leaders of the Conservative Party. For the last three years he has been Nicaraguan Minister to Washington. Dr. Julian Irias, the Liberal candidate, withdrew from the contest ten days ago, giving as a reason that the State Department at Washington would not recognize the election of a candidate who had been connected with the Administration of ex-President Zelaya. The Liberals offered the nomination to Dr. Carlos Quadra Pasos of the Progressive, or Government, Party, but he also declined to run.

Except for the fighting in Managua, the election generally was a quiet one.

MARTINE SPENT ONLY $550.

Nine Aspirants in Jersey Primaries Fix Expenses at $102,553.28.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 2.—The nine men who ran in the New Jersey primaries last week for nominations for United States Senator and Governor spent $102,553.28 in their campaigns.

Former State Senator Austen Colgate spent $25,957.43 in his effort to win the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while Senator Walter E. Edge, who defeated him, expended $21,908.85. George L. Record, the other aspirant for the honor, used $19,965 in his campaign. Former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, successful contestant for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, listed his expenditures at $12,103, while former Governor Franklin Murphy, whom he defeated, spent $12,047. Colgate, Edge, Frelinghuysen, and Murphy are all rated as millionaires.

Naval Officer H. Otto Wittpenn, who was unopposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, expended $7,151, while United States Senator James E. Martine, who was renominated on the Democratic ticket in a three-cornered contest, spent only $550. Attorney General John W. Wescott, Martine's principal opponent, used $1,841, while Frank McDermit of Newark, another "also ran," spent $1,030.

Mrs. Blatch's Damage Suit Delayed.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Oct. 2.—The trial of the action for $100,000 damages brought by Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, the well-known suffrage leader, against the Port Jefferson Electric Light Company for the death of her husband, William H. Blatch, on the calendar for the October term of the Suffolk County Supreme Court, which convened here today, has gone over to the November term at the request of the defendant. Blatch was killed in August, 1915, by coming in contact with a live wire in front of the Summer home of Channing Pollock, the playwright, at Shoreham, L. I.

UPHOLDS PAPER MAKERS.

Judge Moore Says They Are Entitled to Profits They Are Getting.

Speaking at the meeting of the New York Business Publishers' Association, formerly the New York Trade Press Association, at the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth Street, last night, Judge C. F. Moore, Secretary of the Bureau of Statistics of the Book Paper Manufacturers' Association, asserted that there was a real paper famine in this country, and that the law of supply and demand was solely responsible for the present high prices of book paper.

"It must not be forgotten that year after year paper manufacturers have been selling their product at an unreasonably low price," he said. "Indeed, they have had no voice in determining that price; it has been limited to what they could get. If, then, the producer must sell at what he can get when the price gives him little or no profit, why should he not sell at what he can get when he is able to recoup some of his losses."

He went on to say that the people of this country were enormously busy and that they were using more paper than ever before. That there was a more active paper famine abroad than here, that the mills in this country were all working day and night six days a week, and that because of discouraging legislation passed by Congress in the past the paper manufacturers had not been keen on building new plants and installing new machinery when there was such a chance for keen competition from abroad. He asserted that there had been no agreement by paper makers to boost the price or to regulate it.

FREEMAN FIGHTS NEW TRIAL

Mine Case Defendant Says He Can't Be Put in Jeopardy Twice.

Albert Freeman, who obtained an order for a new trial after he had been convicted with Julian Hawthorne and Dr. William J. Morton for swindling investors in mining stocks, applied to the United States Circuit Court yesterday for the dismissal of the charges against him. His counsel, Wade E. Ellis, argued that Freeman's trial before Judges Mayer and Hough of the Federal District Court was a bar to his being arraigned before Judge Sheppard on Oct. 9, when his liberty would be put in jeopardy again.

The former trial began on Nov. 25, 1912, before Judge Hough and continued for two months, when the illness of the Judge resulted in an agreement that Judge Mayer should preside. Then the trial continued for two months longer and cost the Government and Freeman $100,000 each. Assistant United States Attorney Wallace held yesterday that Freeman, by consenting to the presence of two Judges at different times in his trial, waived his constitutional right to be tried by a single Judge. Decision was reserved.

SOME FIRMS LOST ON MUNITIONS DEALS

TRADE CONDITIONS GOOD

Flotation of Foreign Loan Not Plain Sailing for Underwriters—Americans Like Home Investments.

Receipt in New York yesterday of an interview, given out in London a fortnight ago by Henry P. Davison, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., aroused much interest here. He told the British that American manufacturers had not had smooth sailing with munitions contracts, and that while a few companies, who were especially well equipped, had made large profits, more companies had been satisfied to come out whole on their contracts, while others had lost money.

Commenting on the success of the recent $250,000,000 collateral loan to Great Britain, Mr. Davison said: "I should not like to leave the impression that the flotation of the recent credit loan was all plain sailing. You must remember that before the war America was a borrowing and not a lending nation, and that since the war we have not only absorbed an enormous quantity of American securities held in Europe, but have also furnished credits for foreign Governments to the amount of several hundred million sterling.

"You must remember, too, that foreign loans are a new experience to the average American investor. Home railways, home 'industrials,' farm loans and American national and municipal bonds are the securities he has hitherto almost exclusively affected. His investment horizon, naturally enough, is pretty well bounded by his own country.

"Moreover, trade is extremely good in America, and people in general are more inclined to put their savings back into their business than to lock them up in securities."

On the subject of munitions he said: "Some firms which were in the munitions business before the war and have merely had to expand their existing plants and organizations to meet the demands of the Allies have made very large profits. But those cases are exceptional, and Englishmen would probably be surprised if they knew how many of our munition makers will be satisfied if they 'break even.'

"It is rather curious, indeed, that while America's prosperity of today has been built up on war orders, and particularly on orders for munitions, the actual manufacturers of munitions, apart from a limited number, have not greatly profited by their contracts. In point of fact, I could name some who have actually lost by them."

GEN. GOETHALS RETURNS.

Canal Zone Governor, Soon to Retire, Says Slide Peril Is Removed.

Major Gen. George W. Goethals, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, arrived last night from the Isthmus on the United Fruit steamship Pastores. He said he hoped he would not have to go back to the Canal Zone, as he has planned to retire from the United States Army in December.

The General said everything was in first-class working order when he left Panama, and that there was no immediate prospect of any slides tumbling into Gaillard cut. He appeared to be interested in the street car strike and the prospects of the Presidential candidates in the coming election. General Goethals's resignation was accepted by President Wilson last July with his retirement in view.

The General will go to Washington today to appear as a witness in a suit over patent rights brought against the Government. When asked what other business he had in hand General Goethals replied: "Well, I'm going to look around for a job. I am coming back to New York from Washington, and expect to remain here until after the election at least."

Agents of the United Fruit Company had made arrangements for the Pastores to go direct to her pier, and the Health Officer had passed the ship by special permit, but at 10:30 P. M. the pilot decided he would not bring the ship up and anchored at Quarantine for the night.

CANADA'S CROPS SHORT.

Latest Returns Indicate Wheat Yield Will Total 168,811,000 Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The latest returns to the Canadian census authorities in regard to this year's crops of wheat and other cererals in the Dominion, indicate a serious shortage. In a dispatch from Untied States Consul General Foster at Ottawa to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the final figures show a crop of wheat amounting to 168,811,000 bushels this year from 10,085,300 acres, against a yield of 376,303,600 bushels last year from 12,986,400 acres.

The great bulk of the Canadian wheat and oat crop was absorbed by Great Britain last year owing to the demand for military purposes. The shortage this year will necessarily be made up from the crop in the United States and possibly from Russia. Of the area of Spring wheat, 13.7 per cent. has failed entirely, so that the falling off of Winter wheat will not be compensated for from the Spring wheat crop.

The greater part of this year's crop, however, is Spring wheat coming from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. The average yield in those provinces show how the wheat crop has failed this year. The yield per acre in Manitoba was 10½ bushels, in Saskatchewan 16, and in Alberta 24½. The rye crop in Canada this year is 1,990,800 bushels, against 2,394,100 bushels last year. The barley crop this year totals 34,408,000 bushels, against 53,331,300 bushels last year. The oat yield is 341,602,000 bushels, compared with 520,103,000 bushels last year.

FOR FEDERAL RULE OF THE RAILROADS

WOULD MAKE FOR STABILITY

Intelligent Supervision, He Believes, Would Bring Restoration of Confidence.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—More than 500 investment bankers listened today to discussions as to the ways by which the Investment Bankers' Association of America could get in closer touch with the financial pulse of foreign nations, particularly those of South America.

The Foreign Relations Committee of the association in its report suggested that the association as a body should co-operate with the Philadelphia Commercial Museum, with the purpose of acquiring information relative to foreign countries. A motion to this effect was adopted.

In opening the convention President Lewis B. Franklin, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, urged Federal regulation of railroads, saying in part:

"A Federal railroad board with regional boards constituted in a way similar to the Federal Reserve Board, with Federal incorporation, would, in my opinion, provide for our railroad systems stability, freedom from inexpert regulation and release from outside domination.

"Such intelligent supervision would lead to a restoration of confidence in railroad securities and thereby enable the companies to borrow money upon reasonable terms to provide funds with which to construct improvements necessary to good service and extensions whereby new territory can be opened up."

FINES ARCHIE ROOSEVELT.

Colonel's Son Accused of Speeding and Pays $25.

When Archibald B. Roosevelt, son of Colonel Roosevelt, appeared as a defendant before Justice of the Peace Frank P. Seaman at Mineola, L. I., yesterday, to answer to a charge of having driven his automobile along the Jericho Turnpike at thirty-five miles an hour, the courtroom was thronged with persons curious to see how he would plead. The charge was made by Willett Seaman, a motorcycle officer of Nassau County, who told the Justice that he had chased the ex-President's son four miles last Thursday before overtaking him and serving him with a summons.

"Do you wish an adjournment in order to obtain counsel, Mr. Roosevelt?" asked the court.

"No, your Honor. I'll just throw myself upon the mercy of the court," responded the defendant, but the court fined him $25, which Mr. Roosevelt paid.

ALLEGED BLACKMAILER GONE

George Irwin, who was indicted as a member of the gang engaged in a nation-wide blackmailing plot, did not appear when he was called to plead yesterday before Judge Sheppard in the Criminal Branch of the Federal District Court. His bail of $5,000, furnished by a surety company, was forfeited.

Irwin, it was alleged, was associated with Arthur L. David, William Butler, Frank A. Crocker, and others in the conspiracy to blackmail Mrs. Regina A. Klipper, a buyer for a department store in Philadelphia, after she had been lured into a hotel in this city. Captain William B. Offley of the Government Secret Service said that Irwin was last seen in Chicago two weeks ago. After the raid on the headquarters of the blackmailers in that city he disappeared.
